BATTLE FOR ISLETON LOST

Gushing water from a broken levee today turned the small Delta community of Isleton into a ghost town. Water was high as the eaves at some homes. The fight to save the town from San Joaquin River water was lost last night as the levee broke, sending crews to safety. This sign cautions motorists to drive carefully on the once dry levee road.

Policy On Housing Is Adopted

By FRANK FARRARA

The Novato City Council last night adopted a housing element for the Novato Area General Plan with provisions for low and moderate income housing that have stirred controversy.

The vote was 3-2 with councilmen Fred F. Ruegg and Dorothy P. Young, who sought to eliminate key policies on low and moderate income housing except for senior citizens, dissenting.

The goal is to provide a diversity of housing in Novato without drastically changing the semirural suburban environment with single-family detached homes.

The element, 18 months in preparation, has been under attack by residents who feared an abundance of low and moderate income housing would attract outsiders, create ghettos and revamp the character of the community.

After the vote, Mayor Wayne Sartain said he had a real conflict "trying to thread the needle to protect the City of Novato and at the same time meet the housing needs of residents."

The adopted element was a modified version designed to meet the needs of persons who work or live in Novato, yet avoid concentralion of low and moderate income housing.

Ruegg said, given the current cost of housing in Marin, low and moderate income housing was in effect subsidized housing. "I am convinced the people of Novato don't want subsidized housing, other than senior, and I'll follow what I think their wishes are," he said.

During a 90-minute public hearing, the council heard protesters renew arguments against low and moderate income housing and supporters stress the need for housing for the young, the old, for families and single persons.

Ralph R. Patterson of 3 Winged Foot Drive said "We could create an instant ghetto and could attract people who don't want to work."

Patterson said he was opposed to "permitting wildeyed city employees or socialistic planning commissioners to create solutions that would devour us."

Jeanne Struck of 590 Trumbull Road, a 30-year resident of Novato said she has seen the "upper class people" move in and "now those people. . .don't want any of us."

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority, said, "When you talk housing problems, you can't close your eyes and they go away. Yes, we have poor people, poor families

DAVID MENARY JR.
Governor's choice

Reagan Elevates Menary

David Menary Jr. of San Rafael, who has served almost two years as a Marin Municipal Court judge, yesterday was appointed to fill the superior Court vacancy created by the resignation of veteran jurist Thomas F. Keating.

Menary telephoned the Independent-Journal from San Diego, where he is attending a drug abuse conference for judges, to say he had been told of his appointment by the governor's office.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, also had appointed the 45-year-old lifelong Marin resident to his municipal court post in October 1970.

Menary's elevation to the superior court bench, a post which currently pays $33,396 a year and will rise to $35,080 Jan. 1, had been rumored for some time.

He had been considered all along as the frontrunner among candidates for the job, who included fellow Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith, Juvenile Court Referee Jack Blaine and Sausalito attorney A. Leonard Bjorklund.

Menary will serve the remainder of Keating's term, which runs until Dec. 31, 1974, according to county Elections Officer Peter Meyer. He would have to run for election in 1974.

Menary's appointment will leave a vacancy on the municipal court bench, also to be filled by the governor. Meyer said that since Menary was just elected last month to a six-year term commencing Jan. 1, his successor will probably serve that time.

Because the term hasn't started yet, Meyer said a petition by 100 registered voters could force an election in November, where a write-in candidate could challenge the new municipal judge.

Menary, son of the late David Menary who was Marin County sheriff from 1954 to 1958, was born and reared in San Rafael.

He is a graduate of College of Marin, University of San Francisco and Stanford Law School. He served as a county deputy district attorney from 1952 to 1955, when he went into private city practice. He was a member of the San Rafael City Council from 1959 to 1963, when he was elected San Rafael City attorney.

He is married to the former Nancy McNear and has three children.

He has been a member and officer of many civic organizations, including the San Rafael Rotary Club, Little League baseball and Pop Warner football organizations and the Marin County Bar Association.

$700,000 Set For Purchase Of Open Land

Supervisors Set Aside Funds In Budget Talks

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Approval of the funding, which followed about two hours of discussion, came on a 3-0 vote with supervisors John F. McInnis and Louis H. Baar absent.

It marked a major defeatfor County Administrator John F. Barrows who recommended only $300,000 foropen space in his proposed county budget totaling $47.4 million.

The board's action came as supervisors neared the end of their seventh day of deliberations on the record budget and brought ringing applause from the largest audience to attend a budget session this year.

Estimated at more than 200 persons, the size of the assemblage forced removal of the partition separating the board's hearing room from that of the county planning commission.

By adding $400,000 to Barrows's recommended $300,000 for open space, the board all but wiped out savings from earlier budget cuts.

With the budget hearings expected to end today, the budget stands only $70,000 less than the original $47.4 million spending program submitted for review. The projected tax rate for fiscal 1972-73 stands at $2.755 per $100 assessed valuation.

A parade of speakers addressed the board yesterday in support of the parks and recreation commission, which requested the $700,000.

John E. Hogan of San Anselmo, who said he was retired, told the board, "Of all the proposals in the budget, I support none more than this."

Central Marin Warning On Smog

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A major shift from continued highway development to bus transit must be made to save Central Marin from increasing air pollution, according to a study by Bay Area smog officials.

Federal air quality standards probably can be met on most days through 1980, buy by 1990 they will be exceeded "in spite of all current and projected efforts," the study found. These vain efforts include all projected auto emission controls as well as the shift to bus transit.

But without the shift to bus transit, air pollution will be at least 20 per cent worse in the 100-square-mile section of Marin included in the study by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

The study, completed this week, was done under a $2,200 contract with the county's planning department. The conclusion backed previous arguments by county planners that a shift to transit was needed to preserve Marin's amenities.

The study area included the San Rafael air basin, Ross Valley and Las Gallinas and Santa Margarita valleys. It was the first such detailed projection done by the pollution control district, and was a prototype of work to be done for the entire Bay Area to enforce its new land use controls.

The study assessed the impact of traffic and development growth on air quality for 1980 and 1990 under separate assumptions of full development of a highway system and "extensive reliance on bus transit." Levels were computed for carbon monoxide, organics, nitrogen oxides, oxidants and particulates.

Britain Will Allow Pound To 'Float'; Devaluation Is Next

LONDON (UPI) —Britain announced today the pound sterling would be allowed to "float," or find its natural level on world money markets. It dropped slightly immediately—taking the U.S. dollar with it—and there were reports Britain would devalue the pound officially later this year.

Most European money markets closed immediately because of the confusion and there were outraged cries from British tourists caught unexpectedly in the latest currency moves. The pound has hovered around $2.60 expected to go to $2.40 later this year.

British economic experts said the floating process, similar to what happened to the dollar last summer, could last several months. In the end they expect the pound to drift down to about $2.40—the official rate until the dollar was devalued by 8 1-2 per cent.

The Pound has been under attack for months because of the weak British economic situation and galloping inflation which has boosted prices and cut heavily into British exports —the backbone of the British economy.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber told Parliament today Britain had acted "decisively" to float the pound because heavy selling pressure threatened the nation's reserves. Under the Smithsonian agreement that followed the dollar crisis Britain had pledged to keep the pound at the $2.60 level, selling reserves if necessary.

The major impact on the dollar came in the Frankfurt money market where it dropped to 3.15 francs before trading was suspended. The old rate before dollar devaluation was 4 marks to the dollar. The dollar closed Thursday at a healthy 3.19 marks, just 1 per cent below the new official rate of 3.22225 marks.

North Vietnam Units Flee Bomb Barrages

SAIGON (UPI)—Some North Vietnamese army troops who attacked South Vietnamese paratroopers below the My Chanh River defense line above Hue broke and ran for the first time in memory under record onslaughts by B52s and U.S. 7th Fleet ships, a South Vietnamese colonel said today.

An estimated 100 B52s dropped more than 2,500 tons of bombs on Communist positions in the Quang Tri Province area of northeastern South Vietnam, and the U.S. Navy hit the area with the greatest bombardments since the Korean War, spokesman reported in Saigon. Strikes by 137 fighter-bombers caused fires blazing more than a mile high.

It was the first time so many B52s had ever concentrated their might in one target area.

UPI correspondent Chad Huntley reported from the northern front that a South Vietnamese colonel told him the North Vietnamese threw away their rifles and ran for the first time in his 20 years of battlefield experience.

A veteran U.S. military adviser said he could not believe how green the North Vietnamese tank crews were acting. He said they were leaving their tanks like sitting ducks on exposed hilltops and that planes, ships and hardfighting South Vietnamese paratroopers were knocking them out.

Commanders aboard the U.S. Navy ships in the Gulf of Tonkin said the bombardment was taking a heavy toll among North Vietnamese troops in the reoion.

But it appeared that the untried South Vietnamese paratroopers, making their first battlefield appearance, were the heroes of the North Vietnamese strike across the My Chanh River. They held their ground and fought back and the North Vietnamese drive —believed aimed ultimately at Hue — faltered.

Battlefield reports said remnents of a North Vietnamese regiment made last ditch attacks today but were no match for the well dug-in government paratroopers who reported killing 58 of them at a loss of five men killed and 23 wounded.

Bankers Oppose Secrecy Act

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Bankers Association has joined the battle to have the so-called "bank secrecy act" ruled unconstitutional.

The association filed a suit in U.S. District Court Thursday challenging the legality of the new statute.

The action was a companion suit to ones already filed by the American Civil Liberties Union and Fortney H. Stark Jr., a Democratic congressional candidate from Contra Costa County.

Price Panel Views Meat Price Freeze

With beef, pork and other meat prices on the upswing and expected to continue going higher —and President Nixon considering suspension of restrictions on foreign meat imports —the price group is weighing a one-month freeze.

The action could come at a special meeting set for Sunday, although a commission spokesman said in a statement "there are no plans. . . as of now" to impose a freeze. In advance of the meeting, Chairman C. Jackson Grayson polled the six other members by telephone to test their sentiment.

Nixon himself might move even sooner. He met with his top economic advisers late this morning. Newsmen were allowed into his office briefly for photographs and the President quipped to them, "Don't buy meat."

Price commission sources said the price commission was disappointed at failure of the Costing of Living Council, which has over-all jurisdiction over the economic controls program, to act on soaring food prices, especially meat.

The Price Commission has authority to impose controls over foods within its jurisdiction, including meats, at the wholesale and retail level. But it has no control over farm products, which have been rising steeply also. They are exempt from controls and the Price Commission has asked that this be removed.

The President said yesterday he might lift temporarily import quotas on beef to alleviate short supplies and help curb red meat prices that he acknowledged were "beginning to rise again and rising very fast."

Nixon at the same time once again expressed doubt whether controls would really help. "Controls alone will not work unless you also move on the supply side," he said. But he said he was considering the possibilities of controls. more

Governor Inks Record Budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, vetoing away $258 million, has signed a second highest-in-the-nation $7.7 billion state budget he contends is "adequate" fgr California.

The "squeeze, cut and trim" governor said unless the legislature comes up with an acceptable tax reform and school finance plan he favors refunding most of a projected $400 million surplus to the taxpayers.

"Give it back to the people," Reagan said at a budget signing ceremony Thursday, "It's their money."

Before signing the document with a blue pen, the Republican chief executive cut back substantial increases for local schools, state employes, MediCal and flood protection.

He said he was convinced the spending plan for the fiscal year starting July 1, which totaled almost $1 billion more than the current budget "will adequately meet the needs of the people of California."

He took special pride in noting that the budget of California, the nation's most populous state, fell short of New York's $7.91 billion spending blue print and of New York City's $9.4 billion program.

Reagan vetoed $73 million from $263 million the legislature authorized in additional state aid to local schools. But he said the sum would be held in reserve until the legislature provided a new educational finance plan.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, only mildly critical of the vetoes, immediately announced he plans to carry legislation to restore the $73 million.

The state Supreme Court last year declared unconstitutional the current school finance system on grounds it unfairly discriminated against children in poor districts. Reagan noted the budget failed to come to grips with a solution.

He told newsmen he was inclined to return to the taxpayers most of the forecast budget surplus in a one-time rebate if the lawmakers failed to devise suitable tax reform and school finance programs.

But even with the reduction in proposed school aid, the state still will be spending $190 million more on local education

Medical School Bond Measure On Ballot

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed legislation placing on the November ballot a $155.9 million bond issue to construct new University of California medical school and health science facilities.

If the voters approve the issue by Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Rail Road Flat, a second bond issue totaling $138.1 million would be submitted to the voters in 1976 to finance further construction.

Nixon Signs $19 Billion School Bill; Hits Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon signed into law today a $19 billion education aid bill but accused Congress of providing rhetoric instead of solutions to the critical problem of court-ordered school busing. The law delays until January 1974, implementation of such orders that can still be appealed.

"The moratorium ... is temporary; the relief it provides is illusory," Nixon said in a statement criticizing the Democratic-controlled Congress for failure to pass his recommendations for dealing with school busing.

The President had proposed a moratorium on enforcement of all court-ordered busing until Jan. 1, 1974, and enactment of standards for school desegregation to make busing a last-resort measure.

In his statement on busing released by the White House in announcing he had signed the bill containing $19 billion in higher education aid over three years, Nixon said:

"Confronted with one of the burning social issues of the past decade and an unequivocal call for action from the vast majority of the American people, the 92nd Congress has apparently detemined that the better part of valor is to dump the matter into the lap of the 93rd.

"Not in the course of this administration has there been a more manifest congressional retreat from an urgent call for responsibility.

The President faulted Congress for not drawing uniform national desegregation standards which he said would provide guidance to federal judges "so that court ordered busing to integrate public school systems would be used only as a last — never a first — resort."

Nixon had indicated yesterday to newsmen that he would sign the bill but said it was one of the hardest decisions he had made since becoming President because the busing language was "so vague and so ambiguous."

Retaliation Fire

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli gunners fired into southern Lebanon early today in retaliation for several long-range rockets fired at Israeli villages.

The rockets, presumably fired by Arab commandos, hit the northern Israeli villages of Kiriat Shmona and Kfar Giladi, but there were no reports of casualties or damage.

"Fire was returned," an Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said today.

A second incident was reported Thursday night, with Arabs firing a number of shells from Syria that hit the area of Ramat Magahimin and the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights. No casualties nor damage were reported and Israeli forces did not return the fire.

New Leak Charge

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The government pointed to Daniel Ellsberg and his associates as the chief suspects today in an alleged second Pentagon Papers leak — to columnist Jack Anderson — even as Ellsberg's espionage trial for the first leak is about to begin.

Ellsberg, his codefendant Anthony J. Russo, their defense attorneys and Anderson all denied the accusation — the lawyers calling it a "last ditch desperate move" to discredit Ellsberg and Russo.

The Justice Department yesterday asked the federal judge hearing the Pentagon Papers case for a hearing into what federal officials said was publication of previously undisclosed parts of the classified report in seven of Anderson's columns during the past two weeks.

There is "a high liklihood, if not a certainty, that the source of the volumes was the defense in this case," the government prosecutor argued.

Millionth T-Bird

It was smaller, seated only two persons, but had that special flair of class which made those 1955-57 models classics.

That car will be a focal point of activities at the biennial convention of the classic Thunderbird Club of America at Palm Springs Monday through July 2.

To Protest Shot

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Six Australian protesters said today they would fly 6,000 miles this weekend and parachute into a South Pacific area where the French navy is preparing to set off a nuclear test explosion.

"We realize we could be going to our deaths if the French test their bomb," said Terry McGee, one of the protesters against the nuclear blast. "We will find out if the French are prepared to murder people out in the open."

Gordon Mutch, an actor, said he had two Cessna planes equipped with extra fuel tanks for long range flights ready for the flight to Mururoa atoll, where the French nuclear explosion is to take place.

French officials said the blast could come anytime the weather clears.

Dock Strike Looms

HONOLULU (UPI) — Vulnerable Hawaii today faced the prospect of falling victim to a third dock strike in a year's time. Officials evaluated food supplies and warned consumers, "don't hoard."

The governor's Emergency Food Committee was activated after the local International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union said it would strike at 12:01 a.m. (HST) Monday (6:01 a.m. EST) unless there was an agreement on wage demands.

A walkout by the 900 isle longshoremen would tie up all freight cargo coming into or leaving the islands, except for baggage and ship stores for passenger vessels and military cargo. Mail would also be handled.

Nixon Calls For Weapon Package

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon believes chances for a permanent nuclear arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union will be "totally destroyed" unless Congress approves a new offensive weapons program.

Nixon insisted at a news conference Thursday that the arms agreements he made at the Moscow summit in May should be approved by Congress on their merits.

But he warned, that U.S. security would be "seriously jeopardized" unless offensive weapons not covered in the pact are given a go-ahead in the new defense budget. Nixon argued that the new weapons— which include the Trident submarine and B1 bomber—are needed as an incentive for the Soviets to move ahead this fall on "Phase Two" negotiations for the big prize of a permanent arms freeze.

Without such a bargaining chip, he said, "chances for a permanent offensive agreement would be totally destroyed."

Congress has under consideration treaties for a limited, temporary offensive nuclear weapons curb, and for limitation of antiballistic missile sites.

The President's 40-minute impromptu news conference in his oval office—his third of the year—was keyed at his request mainly to domestic issues. He promised another "general" news conference next week. Informed sources said he will announce his next troop cut from Vietnam.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird had testified before the Senate FXOREIGN Relations Committee that he could not support ratification of the Moscow arms agreement unless the nuclear Trident submarine and the B1 offensive bomber were approved.

Asked for comment, Nixon did not go that far but agreed with Laird that the United States would fall behind the Soviet Union unless it matches its nuclear weapons advances.

"If the United States falls into what is a definitely second position, an inferior position to the Soviet Union overall in its defense programs, this will be an open invitation for more instability in the world and anopen invitation for more potential aggression in the world, particularly in such potentially explosive areas as the Middle East," Nixon told reporters.

In response to other questions, Nixon:

Indicated he reluctantly would sign the $19 billion higher education bill today, but remains highly critical of its anti-busing provisions which he called "vague" and "so ambiguous."

Said he is considering temporarily lifting the quotas on foreign beef imports out of concern for rising meat prices. He also is considering action, possibly broad controle, to bring food prices down.

Asserted the White House has had "no involvement whatever" in the break-in and bugging attempt at the Democratic National Party headquarters here last weekend. Party Chairmen Lawrence F. O'Brien charged a "clear line to the White house" in connection with the alleged burglary.

Said he agreed with his re-election committee that it was not necessary to disclose the identity of those who contributed $10 million to his campaign before the disclosure law took effect.

Said he would submit a tax reform proposal, including relief for nonpublic schools, to Congress before the end of the year, but it will not be acted on until next year. He will consider the value added tax— tantamount to a national sales tax, to ease the property tax burden only if a "nonretrogressive formsla" can be found.

Agreed with Laird on the dismissal of Gen. John Lavelle without a court-martial for unauthorized bombing strikes against North Vietnam. Nixon said it was an "appropriate

New Treatment For Bug Bites

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Health Insurance Institute recommended a new treatment today for insect bites—meat tenderizer.

A solution of a quarter-teaspoon of tenderizer and a tablespoon of water rubbed into the skin at the site of the sting stops virtually all pain "within minutes," the Institute said.

It said the tenderizer method was much more effective than the textbook remedy of applying ice or ice water to insect bites.

McGovern Can Keep All 271 Delegates

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Declaring that losers cannot change the rules after they've played the game, a federal judge ruled Thursday that Sen. George McGovern can keep all 271 delegate votes he won in California's primary.

An attorney for four defeated presidential candidates, including Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, said he will appeal the decision on grounds the winner-take-all system violates the "equal protection" clause of the 14th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

"The plaintiffs appear to have gone along with the present system until they lost," said U.S. District Court Judge Philip C. Wilkins.

"And their delay until the last out of the ninth inning is a late date to complain about the rules of the game, in the view of this court."

He also said, "in a democratic society the majority must rule."

Humphrey, Sen. Henry Jackson, Rep. Shirley Chisholm and Alabama Gov. George Wallace had sought to divide California's big bloc of delegates in proportion to the votes they received in the June 6 primary.

McGovern picked up all 271 delegates although he won only 44.3 per cent of the vote. Humphrey was runnerup with 39.2 per cent. Wallace received 6 per cent and Mrs. Chisholm 4.5.

Attorney William Jennings, a Humphrey campaign worker, had argued that under winner-take-all, Californians who did not vote for McGovern would be be "totally disenfranchised" at the Democratic National Convention beginning July 10 in Miami Beach.

Alliance In House Brings Revenue Sharing Victory

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The plan to share $30 billion in federal funds with the states and cities over the next five years has passed the House and will receive early hearings in the Senate.

An effective lobby of mayors and governors received much of the credit for getting the big revenue-sharing bill through the House Thursday. It passed 274-122, helped along by strong backing from President Nixon and a rare alliance of House Democratic and Republican leaders.

It would divide $1.8 billion among states to start with, climbing to $3 billion by the fifth year. It would funnel $3.5 billion a year to the 38,700 localities in the nation.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., promised that the Senate Finance Committee which he heads would open hearings next week on the measure. He predicted that after some changes, probably in the complicated formulas for distributing the money, the Senate would pass it this summer.

Granted early committee action, the big money bill still would face stiff competition for full Senate attention which will be divided in the coming months between political conventions, re-election campaigning and debate on the controversial welfare reform bill.

"If the Senate does not pass this legislation this year, it will be derelict in its duty," said House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford, who described the measure as "a sorely needed local tax relief bill."

The states could spend their money anyway they wish but localities would be limited to using their funds for public safety, the environment and public transportation.

States wosld get their money on the basis of how much revenue they and their localities raise while the money for communities would go first to the states on the basis of statewide population, the number of local governments with 50,000 or more people and the state's per capita income.

Use Ice To Sooth Those Flea Bites

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Dr. Gerald Heidbreder, Los Angeles County health officer, issued a warning Thursday that with the coming of warmer weather, people may find themselves bitten by fleas.

Ice or soothing medication should be used on flea bites, he counseled.

Agnes' Toll At 52; Her Rain Wanes

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Tropical storm Agnes, which lashed the East Coast with torrential rains, began tapering off today over Pennsylvania but floods still posed threats from Virginia to New York.

The James River in Richmond, Va., spilled over a 32-foot protective dike today, flooding parts of the city and knocking out power in the major business district. A 200-block area in the district was ordered evacuated.

In Olean, N.Y., the threat of the Allegheny River spilling over 25-foot-high dikes forced Mayor William Smith to order evacuation today of nearly 11,000 persons, half the city.

The death toll from the storm's weeklong rampage reached at least 52. At least 36 persons died Thursday, mostly drowning victims, and at least another dozen were missing.

Twelve persons died in Pennsylvania—four of them swept to their deaths in the Susquehanna River — and 12 in Virginia. Maryland reported nine deaths, North Carolina two and Delaware one.

Prison Term In I-J Strike Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Boston teamster, convicted of lying to a federal grand jury investigating the 20-month printers' strike against the Independent-Journal, was sentenced today to three years in federal prison and fined $1,000.

Harry J. Johnson, 37, was sentenced by Judge William C. Frey in U.S. District Court.

A codefendant, Allan F. Fidler, 52, a tavern owner who also lives in Boston, also was to have been sentenced today but is reportedly in a Massachusetts hospital with an undisclosed ailment.

Frey said a new sentencing date would be scheduled for Fidler.

Gilbert Eisenberg, attorney for the pair, has appealed the perjury convictions by a district court jury earlier this month. They were indicted by a special grand jury impaneled in San Francisco in the belief the pair had lied to the panel about the purpose of a visit to the Bay Area and about a meeting with an official of the International Typographical Union.

Local 21 of the ITU struck the I-J on Jan. 7, 1970. A week later, as strike-related violence mounted in Marin, Johnson and Ridler arrived in San Francisco. The Federal Bureau of Investigation had the two under surveillance in the belief they had been summoned to engage in illegal activities connected with the strike.

Tennis Court Fund Hikes Budget

The inclusion of $20,000 for two new tennis courts at the Del Mar School last night pushed the proposed 1972-1973 budget for Tiburon to a record high $855,000.

Completing its final budget session, the city council recommended that the city's tax rate be set at 78 cents per $100 assessed value, rather than the previously submitted 67.5 cents.

This year's budget totaled $734,726 and carried a 73.5-cent tax rate.

During budget review throughout June, the council has added a total of $31,000 to the tentative budget proposed by City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer.

Last night, in addition to the tennis courts, the council tacked on $1,000 for tree trimming and landscaping, bringing the parks and recreation budget to $22,650.

The council approved without change a $78,376 budget for the public works department and $13,500 for equipment replacement.

In earlier meetings, the council had increased the budget $1,500 for a special open space bond election; $200 for professional services; $7,200 for increased insurance premiums, and $1,500 to upgrade one police department position of traffic patrolman to regular patrolman.

The $20,000 for tennis courts was added to the city's capital improvement account, bringing the total for capital outlays to $238,000. The council said the entire sum might not be spent on the proposed courts and Councilman Branwell D. Fanning said he hoped the City of Belvedere would contribute about $5,000 to the project.

The suggestion of Balmer, to add $10,500 to the city's contingency fund to cover cost-of-living salary increases that the city might grant to its employees in the future was not followed.

San Quentin Use Bill Is Approved

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation freezing disposition of San Quentin Prison after its scheduled close in 1974 was endorsed unanimously yesterday by the Senate Governmental Organization Committee.

The bill, SB 229 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, orders the general services department first to study possible public uses of the site and report such uses to the 1974 Legislature.

At the urging of a member of the committee, Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, the bill was strengthened to prohibit sale of the site without specific approval of the Legislature.

The bill went to the finance committee, which is chaired by Collier.

Recital Will Be Tomorrow Night

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting that a guitar and flute recital would be presented tonight at Methodist Church of Mill Valley.

Actually, it is tomorrow night at 8 o'clock that guitarist George Sakellariou and flutist Patrick Hurtado, assisted by Marion Winkler at the piano, will perform at the church.

Redevelop Agency For City Sought

The Novato City Council last night introduced an ordinance to establish a redevelopment agency to improve the downtown area.

As proposed, the city council would be the redevelopment agency board and the intent would be to act on the downtown plan adopted by the council last year.

The city's Downtown Implementation Committee recommended establishing a redevelopment agency "in order to take advantage of the substantial benefits available under redevelopment law."

The next step, the committee said, "is to develop a plan and designate the survey area," and it suggested the downtown study area be the project boundaries.

"It should be noted that within designated project boundaries, the agency is not required to redevelop the entire area, or any part of it for that matter," the committee reported.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said redevelopment could be financed through tax increment financing, whereby tax revenue increases resulting from increased assessed valuation within the area accrue to the agency, while other governing districts would be frozen at present levels until development costs were repaid.

The proposed ordinance will be before the council at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Novato Community House.

Planning For Schools Is Sought

The Rohnert Park Planning Commission agreed last night to seek a way to require developers to provide school facilities.

The commission said that plans should be made to coordinate development with school capacities to avoid crowded classroom, double sessions and extensive busing.

Anthony Carbone and Maurice Fredericks of the Cotati School District board told the commission they would be happy to work with them to find a way to require subdividers to provide either school sites or to construct buildings for the district. They said similar requirements have been upheld in court in San Diego, although an emergency situation had been created there.

City Atty. Richard B. Maxwell said he would research court rulings and present a report to both the commission and school board next month.

The commission also received the resignation of commissioner James Steinberg because a job promotion requires him to move from the city; approved the request of Robert T. Barnes to hold ceramic classes at his home at 7450 Bernice Avenue; approved requests from firework salesbooths for the Faith Presbyterian Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints and set a joint meeting with the city council for Tuesday at 8:30 p.m.

Burglary Case Warrant Issued

A superior court bench warrant with no bail has been issued for Tinicia Brown, 22, of Richmond, who failed to appear for a hearing in the court of Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

She is charged with burglary at The Emporium in San Rafael last July 3. She was arrested after a guard at the Northgate store told police she and a companion had taken $39 worth of children's clothing.

Police said they found $300 to $500 in clothing in their car still bearing the tags of Santa Rosa stores.

Bertha Marie West, 18, of Oakland was sentenced to 60 days in jail for the offense as part of a plea bargain.

'No Airport Needed' Despite Traffic Rise

OAKLAND (UPI)—The San Francisco Bay Area will more than triple its current airline traffic in the next 15 years but needs no major new airport, the Association of Bay Area Governments was told Thursday night.

A 2 1-2 year exhaustive study concluded that the anticipated 1985 volume of 72 million passengers a year in the area can be handled by expanded use of Oakland and San Jose airports, and the civilian use of Travis Air Force Base and Hamilton Air Force Base.

Present air traffic in the area is about 20 million passengers a year, with the largest proportion at San Francisco International Airport, Warren Boggess, chairman of the ABAG study committee told the regional government executive board.

Boggess said the use of Travis Air Force Base for civilian as well as military traffic is essential to the plan for no new airports, and arrangements can be worked out with the military for a civilian terminal there.

Travis is allocated 6 million passengers in the master plan presented to ABAG.

Joint civilian use of Hamilton Air Force Base north of San Francisco in Marin County would handle a million passengers a year if arrangements can be made there. An alternative to that is expansion of the Napa airport to handle airline service to the northern bay area, the study said.

Boggess told the board that earlier forecasts of 80 million passengers needing airline service in the Bay Area was reduced because population estimates have been cut.

The report said its recommendations have "some compelling environmental advantages." These include avoiding taking large new space for airports.

A new runway would be required at Travis AFB, and some expansion of the Oakland airport to handle its projected 24 million passengers. The study group said by confining expansion to these existing facilities, added air pollution and noise pollution would be "minimized."

Preliminary Budget For Dixie District Approved

The Dixie School District board last night approved as submitted a preliminary budget of $4,738,000 for 1972-73.

The budget — up $268,000 from this year's spending program — would require no change in the district's tax rate iof $4.40 per $100 assessed valuation, according to Joseph B. Goff, assistant superintendent.

Goff said that the idistrict's proposed spending program provides for a 5 per cent pay increase for all classified employees and a 3.3 per cent pay increase for all certificated teachers. "About $130,000 of the preliminary budget will go for salary increases," Goff said.

The district will drop 10 of its current 204 teachers and one full-time administrator due to a loss of enrollment, he said.

The Dixie School District Board Also:

REPORT CARDS — Abandoned an experimental report card system which has been used at Oak View School for the last two years, in favor of the traditional alphabetical grading system. Teachers will continue to supplement report cards with written comments, he said.

LOAN — Agreed to loan the Marinwood Community Services District $9,000 for tennis court construction at Miller Creek School, pending the adoption of a joint-powers agreement.

CARPETING — Decided to carpet the Nova Albion School library after receiving $550 raised by a parent's group for the project. The carpeting will cost the district an additional $700, Goff said.

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of custodian William Ellis; granted a one-year leave of absence to teacher Linda Petit, and hired Robert Pitts as a maintenance mechanic at $700 a month.

CLASSROOMS — Agreed to buy two portable classrooms for $2,750 each. The classrooms, currently being used as the board meeting chambers, have been leased by the district for $1,000 each for the last six years. The portable buildings cost about $16,000 new, Goff said.

Premiere Of Film Scheduled July 11

The San Francisco premiere of "The Candidate," a movie filmed in San Francisco and Marin, has been set for 9 p.m. July 11 at the Metro Theater.

Proceeds will be divided between Guide Dogs for the Blind and the Telegraph Hill Neighborhood Auxiliary. Tickets may be obtained from The Candidate Benefit Premiere, 142 Arguello Street, San Francisco.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches, and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

SPACE

speakers, said he would be "delighted" to be taxed for open space to protect the environment and visual beauty of Marin.

Others told the board that purchase of open space would prove to be cheaper for taxpayers than letting the land develop, which would strain already overburdened community services.

A San Anselmo housewife presented the board with a petition signed by more than 1,000 persons urging the funds be budgeted.

Representatives of the Sierra Club and other environmental groups also appeared in support of open space acquisition which one said should have started 10 years ago.

The proposal drew objection, however, from Richard P. Nave, president of the Marin Property Owners Association, who called the action premature in view of a forthcoming election on a countywide park district to purchase open space.

Nave said the funds shouldn't be budgeted since the voters have not yet indicated whether they support open space acquistion. If they do, he continued, it will be through the park district, not the county general fund.

Winifred S. Frederick of Irate Taxpayers of Marin joined Nave in opposing the funds, urging instead that the county proceed with development of land it already owns.

Baar, who was present during the first hour of discussion but not for the vote, said he didn't oppose open space acquisition but voters should be given the chance to decide. "I find it odd to be allocating money when the issue hasn't been decided," he said, adding that some residents are being forced out of the county because of the taxes.

Supervisor Michael Wornum, who proposed the $700,000 figure months ago, said he would vote for it because he was confident the voters would approve the park district in November.

If the park district is approved, he said, it couldn't begin taxing until next year and acquisition must begin soon since some prime areas are under development pressure.

If voters turn down the district, he added, the $700,000 budgeted by the supervisors need not be spent.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste agreed and drew a round of applause when he told the audience open space acquisition was "too important" to wait another year. "I'm willing to commit today $700,000 and I don't care if any gets to Novato (his district)... it's a countywide concern."

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., who maintained throughout the hearing that he would go as high as $500,000 for open space, changed his mind during the vote and went along with Baptiste and Wornum.

To partially offset the budget increase, the board then voted unanimously to delete $100,000 from the proposed Corte Madera Bay Front Park, $60,000 from Stafford Lake Park sewage facilities and $50,000 from Miller Park improvements.

Deletion of the $100,000 recommended for the Corte Madera park brought strong objection from Herber C. Leney of the county park and recreation commission.

Leney, also a Corte Madera town councilman, said residents were in support of the proposed bay front park east of Highway 101 and noted it had been deferred by supervisors four years in a row.

The board assured Leney the park would be considered again next year, once more detailed planning was provided.

New Comedy Series

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — James Whitmore will head the regular cast of screen Gems' new comedy series, "Temperatures' Rising," which makes its television debut Sept. 12 via ABC.

Marinite Indicted In Jewel Case

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A federal grand jury has indicted five men, including a Marinite, in connection with a series of jewel thefts in Hawaii and transportation of the jewels to California and Nevada.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Bruce Babcock Jr. declined Thursday to specify the exact value of the stolen jewels but said they involved a large sum of money.

The indictment specifies an amount "exceeding $5,000."

Named Wednesday in the indictment were Bong Shew Cheung, Sacramento; Albert Joseph Cerf, listed in the San Rafael city directory as in the wholesale jewelry business and living at 3 Ashwood Court; Serafin Palomares Jr., San Francisco; and Marvin Vuenconsejo and Kenneth B. Moore, both of Hawaii.

U. S. District Judge Philip Wilkins set bail for Palomares, Moore and Buenconsejo at $50,000. Babcock said their whereabouts are unknown. Bail for Cerf, whereabouts also unknown, was set at $2,500.

Babcock said Cheung, manager of a Sacramento jewelry store and a night supervisor for the state Department of Motor Vehicles, planned to turn himself in.

The indictment charges the men with conspiracy, interstate transportation of stolen property, receipt of stolen goods and aiding and abetting.

with as many pages of data, cautioned that "the potential for contaminant accumulation in the three basins is great, due primarily to surrounding elevated terrain, low wind speeds and the frequent formation of low level inversions." Inversions occur when warm overhead air blankets cooler air below, trapping air pollutants.

The fact that the local area is upwind of major pollution sources in other counties has saved it from more serious air pollution, but continued growth of motor vehicle traffic will erode this advantage, the study said. "Because of the favorable situation at present, a unique opportunity presents itself," it added.

Since pollution levels closely follow pattern of traffic volume, the study noted, the worst pollution is along Highway 101, Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and downtown San Rafael.

The study also cautioned against polluting development. "Climatologically, the setting in the study area is highly unfavorable for air pollution-oriented development," it said.

Especially in San Rafael, it said, "with its unfavorable setting regarding pollution potential, the current situation could rapidly reverse."

Problem areas in the Ross Valley are confined primarily to Highway 101 and in the region between San Anselmo and Fairfax, the study found.

North of the San Rafael basin, there is far less air pollution because traffic volumes decline. However, the study added that "it is anticipated that some problems with carbon monoxide pollution will be experienced in the regions along the main through route of Highway 101, in the commercial area along the Manuel Freitas Parkway, and in the community of Marinwood."

The freeway route proposed along the ridgeline north of Sleepy Hollow, it said, "should have a negligible effect upon Gallinas basin communities" because of its elevated and isolated location.

Soviets Launch Two Unmanned Satellites

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Friday launched two unmanned Cosmos satellites into widely separated earth orbits, the Tass news agency said.

It described Cosmos 494 and 495 only as "scientific satellites" and said "onboard equipment is functioning ngrmally."

BUDGET

Reagan cut back to his original proposal a 5 per cent salary increase for the state's 100,000-member civil service work force and to 7.5 per cent a wage boost for faculties of the University of California and state colleges.

The Democratic-controlled legislature had beefed up the ante to 7.5 per cent for state employes and to 12.5 per cent for the faculties.

The governor cut out $45.6 million of the total $131.7 million the legislature had proposed in salary increases.

For Medi-Cal, the state's health care program for the needy, he cut $58.1 million, of which $25.5 million was authorized by the legislature for the state to help pay certain local government costs. He said the current cost-sharing arrangment was "equitable."

Included in the reduction was $32.6 million he said was unnecessary because of revised reduced estimates in the MediCal caseload of patients.

While salary raises, Medi-Cal and local education felt the deepest bites of Reagan's blue-pencil vetoes, other programs also were carved into, including these:

Flood control protection, $3.5 million; prisons and the Youth Authority, $1.1 million; local child care, $3 million; children's centers, $150,000; community college extended opportunity programs, $1.7 million; compensatory education, $482,000; and abstract mathematics program, $500,000; public health, $800,000, including $300,000 for family planning; and mental hygiene, $441,000.

Reagan, an outspoken advocate of tuition, vetoed $26.8 million which the legislature proposed as an incentive to abolish tuition at the University of California.

"I am opposed to the elimination of tuition," he said. "It is a necessity for financing of higher education.

HOUSING

and that means something has to be done."

Martin Mackey, representing the Ecumenical Housing Association of Marin, said establishing low and moderate income housing is time consuming and the city wasn't "going to have all kinds overnight."

The council also voted to disperse low and moderate income housing throughout the city and integrate it with other housing "where not detrimental to other housing." That vote was 4-1 with Councilman George C. Quesada, dissenting.

The council also voted 3-2, with Mrs. Young and Ruegg dissenting, to encourage the Marin County Housing Authority to construct senior "and other appropriate family housing" and to expand the leased housing program.

Another controversial section, one to assure sufficient student housing to meet the need created as Indian Valley Colleges develop and grow, passed 4-1 with Mrs. Young dissenting.

OBITUARIES

Frank A. Bonetti Dies At 80

Mass of the Resurrection for Frank A. Bonetti, a retired salesman and longtime Marinite, will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo.

Bonetti, who lived at 139 Saunders Avenue, San Anselmo, for 41 years, died Wednesday in a local hospital after a long illness. He was 80.

Bonetti, before retiring, worked as a liquor salesman for Trombetta Distributors in San Rafael for four years and before that, in a sales capacity with Marin Beverage for about a decade.

He was a native San Franciscan who served as a pharmacist's mate with the Navy in World War I.

Bonetti was former tiler with San Francisco Elks Lodge 3, a retired director of the International Footprinters Association of San Francisco and a member of American Legion Post 179, San Anselmo.

Survivors include his wife, Carolyn (Carrie).

Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

REV. HUGHES

Rev. Samuel B. Hughes of Novato, 80, a Baptist minister and pastor for 50 years, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

Rev. Hughes had been a pastor in Texas, Alabama, New Mexico and California until he retired in 1964 and moved to Marin. He lived at 8 Garden Court.

While in retirement he served as an interim pastor at the First Baptist Church of Novato and at other Baptist churches in Northern California.

For 15 years he had been "pastor-builder" for the state Baptist convention of Texas, where his task was to go into suburban areas and establish churches. He was a native of Bastrop, La.

Surviving are his wife, Florrie Hughes, of Novato; two daughters, Orine Suffern of Corte Madera and Mary Beitel of Charlevoix, Mich., a sister, Lottie Manning of Bastrop, La.; five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the First Baptist Church of Novato. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

BETTY MONSON

Betty M. Monson, about 53, was pronounced dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital at 11 a.m. yesterday, after her daughter found her unconscious on a couch in her apartment at 848 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

The Marin County coroner's office said the daughter, Mollie Hulley of Mill Valley, reported her mother had been ailing the previous day.

Mrs. Monson worked as a waitress in San Francisco. She was a native of Kansas.

R. M. GORDON

Russell M. Gordon, 67, former Petaluma resident, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness.

Gordon was born and reared in Mendocino County and had lived in Petaluma for 40 years before moving to Forestville. He was the husband of Ethel Gordon, who died in 1964.

He is survived by a brother, William Gordon Sr. of Clear Lake Highlands, and two sisters, Martha Gustafson of Kelseyville and Edna Newberry.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

DARYL ZUNZLER

Funeral for 1st Lt. Daryl R. Zunzler of Rocklin, Placer County, son of Wyman W. Kunzler of San Rafael, will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Community Covenant Church, Rocklin.

Kunzler, 23, a helicopter pilot, was killed May 25 while on his second tour of duty in Vietnam. He first had fought in Southeast Asia in 1967 and 1968 as an enlisted man, but returned to the United States to enter Officer's Candidate School.

Kunzler was commissioned upon completion of flight training.

A native of Booneville, Mo., he moved to Roseville 10 years ago and attended Oakmont High School, entering the service after graduation.

Survivors, besides his father, who formerly taught at Hill Junior High School in Novato, are his wife, Janice; his mother, Mrs. R. Millette of Los Angeles, and two grandmothers.

Burial, with military honors, will be in Rocklin Cemetery. Memorial gifts may be made to the Roseville Community Hospital building fund and will be accepted by the Lambert Funeral Home, Roseville, which is in charge of arrangements.

CRAIG CONTI

Craig C. Conti, 21-year-old Corte Madera youth injured in a motorcycle accident June 10, died yesterday in the intensive care unit at Marin General Hospital.

He had suffered internal injuries and broken limbs when he hit a tree on private property off North San Pedro Road in Santa Venetia.

His death is the 12th traffic fatality in Marin this year as compared to 17 by this time in 1971.

Conti, who had just completed his junior year at the University of California at Santa Barbara, had arrived home for summer vacation the day of his accident.

He was born in San Francisco and had moved to Marin when he was 4 years old. The family home is at 640 Oakdale Avenue.

Conti was a graduate of Redwood High School, where he had played freshman football, and was an engineering student at Santa Barbara.

He is survived by his parents, Frank and Flora Conti; a brother, Kent Conti, also of the family home; his grandparents, Mrs. Rose Conti of Fairfax and Frank and Ida Ceccarelli of San Francisco.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Private family Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated Monday at St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

CHARLES GERKEN

Charles Gerken, former longtime gardener for the Golden Gte Bridge District, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness. He was 73.

Gerkin lived in Marin County for 30 years, making his home at 409 Locust Street, Sausalito. He worked 17 years for the bridge district before retiring. He was a native of Minnesota.

He is survived by his wife Esther of the home, a daughter, Jeanne Snyder of Mill Valley and three grandchidlren.

The funeral will be 2 p.m. Monday in Peace Lutheran Church, Mill Valley. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Board Gets Ball Rolling For Tennis-Swim Center

Marin County supervisors committed the county yesterday to a new capital improvement program calling for a $1.5 to $2 million swim-tennis complex within the next five years. (Another supervisors budget story, page 1.)

While the well-organized group was prepared to speak in support of the funds, it didn't get the chance as the board — with little discussion — voted 3-1 approval over the protests of Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste.

The action came as the board neared the end of its seventh day of hearings on the record $47.4 million budget proposed for fiscal 1972-73.

Yesterday's session was a catch-all of smaller departments with the bulk of the time spent on the parks and recreation department's $1.5 million spending program.

Besides approving a $100,000 beginning for the swim-tennis complex (a figure later revised to $75,000), the board approved $700,000 for open space acquisition and $225,000 for the North Bay Front Park as requested by the department.

To help offset the added expenditures, the board scraped $208,000 worth of Civic Center remodeling, $100,000 for the proposed Corte Madera Bay Front Park, $60,000 for sewage treatment at Stafford Lake Park and $50,000 of improvements at Miller Park.

By the time it was through shuffling funds yesterday, the board wound up with a total budget that so far is only $70,000 less than the $47.4 million document recommended by County Administrator John F. Barrows.

The swim-tennis complex, opposed by Barrows, has been on the drawing table for about two years and envisions a total of three pools (at least one olympic sized) and at least 10 tennis courts.

Pierre W. Joske, director of parks and recreation, acknowledges the plan may be out of date and has been directed by the board to revise the original proposal.

The complex would be located at the North Bay Front Park which the board yesterday voted unanimously 4-0 to begin acquiring. (Supervisor John F. McInnis was absent due to ill health.)

Approval of the $100,000 brought prolonged applause from the tennis players, many of whom were dressed in crisp white shorts.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, who was about to leave for another appointment, urged adoption of the funding as an alternative to increasing the amount of funds for open space — about to be considered.

Baptiste protested the action, saying the board was acting too quickly but was outvoted.

Later, he and Supervisor Michael Wornum joined forces to reduce the $100,000 allocation by $25,000 which was then added to the $75,000 bicycle trails account. The tennis players had long since departed.

Baar, who urged the tennis complex instead of increasing open space funds from a recommended $300,000 to a requested $700,000, was not present when his fellow supervisors approved the latter figure.

The board approved a recommended $118,000 remodeling job on the health department's clinic in San Rafael but cut $208,000 worth of remodeling at the Civic Center.

The Civic Center project, supported bq Barrows as a means of providing more office space, was rejected by the board after a tour of existing office space.

With the exception of the public defender's office, which will be expanded with other minor projects, the board said the space problem could be solved without costly remodeling. A total of $80,000 was allocated for the Public Defender's remodeling and smaller projects.

Meanwhile, the county youth commission, which was pulled out from under the probation department last week, was put under the human rights department yesterday.

About $21,000 in requested auditorium equipment was cut from the $253,000 recommended budget for the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Other budget recommendations approved yesterday include: Landscape maintenance, $185,000 (up $55,000 from this year); county fairgrounds, $85,000 (down $2,000); county chamber of commerce, $30,000 (same); economic development, $32,000 (up $3,000); emergency employment program, $285,000 (up $15,000) federally funded; office of emergency services, $35,000 (new), and purchasing, $57,000 (down $10,000); Administrator's office, $140,701 (down 13,049); personnel division, $120,663 (up $1).

Plans Approved For Townhouses

The Novato Plan Review Committee has approved precise development plans for 182 townhouses at the crossroad development, northwest of Highway 101 and South Novato Boulevard.

The committee suggested Wednesday night that bicycle paths and bus stops be considered when plans for Redwood Boulevard, which will be the main road through the development, are submitted.

The townhouses are the second phase of development by McKeon Co., which has planned about 500 units, mostly townhouses, in the area.

Correct Spelling

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in the spelling in a story datelined Washington on a Marinite who is working under one of President Nixon's chief advisers. The name should have been spelled Douglas Hallett and not Hallet.

Reaction Mixed To Bus Route Switches

Extensive changes in routes and schedules of the Golden Gate Bridge District's bus system proposed yesterday by its staff brought mixed reactions from a committee of district directors.

The transportation committee endorsed changes proposed for Marin bus service and a two-month test of expanded weekend and holiday service to West Marin, but refused to approve a shift of midday service from the San Francisco Civic Center to that city's financial district.

If approved by the full board next Friday, the changes in the local Marin service will be effective July 30. Overlapping local and transbay runs will be combined by eliminating local buses, some areas will have better service, some worse, and some transfers will be eliminated.

New timetables showing the changes will be available sometime next month, according to Jerome Kuykendall, transportation developer.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said it was impossible to determine the effect on cost to Marin because of the complicated formula used to compute the county's share. The new service will save $172,935 by cutting operating mileage and hours, he said.

Kuykendall said service will be cut from each half-hour to hourly for Santa Venetia, Peacock Gap and Hamilton Air Force Base because of poor patronage.

Service will be extended for the first time to the Northgate industrial area and northeast Corte Madera (Redwood High School, Department of Motor Vehicles, Co-Op). Many other areas will have improved service, and Greenbrae will get midday local service.

Tiburon and Belvedere commuters no longer will have to transfer at the Alto Wye to catch buses to San Francisco.

Service will not be eliminated to any area now receiving it, he said.

The test of expanded West Marin service will double to eight the number of bus runs on weekends at a cost of about $3,500. The service, to run from July 1 through Labor Day, will link with the free half-hourly shuttle bus between Point Reyes National Seashore headquarters and Santa Maria Beach. The expanded service for the first time will provide service between Bolinas and Point Reyes National Seashore so that visitors can make a complete circle via Mount Tamalpais State Park, Stinson Beach, Bolinas, the national seashore, Samuel P. Taylor State Park and San Rafael.

The committee balked, however at a staff plan to shift all midday San Francisco bus routes from the San Francisco Civic Center to the financial district in order to attract shoppers.

San Francisco Supervisor John Molinari objected that midday truck traffic was too heavy downtown to permit even one bus from Marin each 15 minutes.

Luehring said the commuter buses have not aggravated traffic, adding, "This is designed to get the people, and not the cars, downtown."

The staff said its proposal would have saved $31,000 a year by cutting mileage, but stressed it was made to attract more riders to the midday runs from Marin.

LIKE LONDON COMPANY

Policyholders Gain Dividends From New Conception

By LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Casualty insurers need to get back to fundamental principles—to do things the way Lloyds of London did in the old days, says Mike Carmichael.

Prior to 1966, CIC was like lots of other small casualty insurors. It bumbled along, doing things "by the book," sticking to pre-determined risk formulas and rates and wondering why its revenues and profits didn't grow faster.

"Then our chairman, Ralph Applegate, decided to make a drastic change," Carmichael said. "We decided to use the rate tables the way they did at Lloyds — just as a rough guideline. We decided we would study every risk individually, take it on if we possibly could, no matter how tough it seemed, and negotiate a rate high enough to cover it. That couldn't be done in all states, but Illinois law permits it."

The policy has paid off like a winning lottery ticket.

Profits have risen 25 per cent a year, and there has been a 50 per cent stock dividend. Assets are up 74 per cent and premium income 83 per cent.

"We didn't accomplish that just by charging all the traffic would bear," said Carmichael. "We also showed our policyholders how to solve the problems that made them high risk cases in the first place. To accomplish this we created our own engineering staff and tackled customer problems that the bigger insurance companies had refused to bother with."

Carmichael gave some examples. There was the Chinese man who had a big basement restaurant. He couldn't keep his insurance because employes and customers kept falling on the stair. "He was having eight or nine falls a year in the place, each one costing the insurance carrier money," said Carmichael.

CIC agreed to take on the risk at a substantially increased rate but sent its own engineer to find a way to prevent the falls.

"We discovered the place had slick marble steps. The engineer put carborundum step plates on the stairs and the tumbling of workers and customers ceased," Carmichael said.

A small galvanizing shop had lost four workmen's compensation policies and had received cancellation notice on a fifth when it called in CIC. After evaluating the risk, CIC agreed to write it at a stiff premium. "The trouble here again was workmen falling and slipping constantly," said Carmichael. "Several ideas had been tried to stop the accidents without success. Our engineer put in duckboards or dunnage like bartenders stand on. That did the job."

CIC isn't always able to reduce risks but it can provide insurance sometimes for people who can't get it otherwise. "A case in point was a firm of tuck pointers, people who repair mortar joints on old buildings," he explained. "The rate table put them on the masons' rate but their accident experience was much higher than that of ordinary masonry workers so nobody would insure them. Our engineer decided to put them on the window washers' rate, which is quite a bit higher. They've been able to live with that very well and it's good business for us."

BLUE JEAN LOOK

When the 1973 American Motors Gremlin goes on sale this fall, it will be the first U.S. sub-compact to offer specially-created, fashion-oriented upholstery for the small car market. A blue denim "Levi's" optional trim package will introduce the blue jean look to the Gremlin interior. Authentic indigo blue cloth is fitted to the high back bucket seats in front and to a fold-down rear bench seat. The familiar "Levi's" copper rivets replace tufted buttons in seat backs and cushions.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By WAT TAKESHITA

Howard Johnson Restaurant Now Open, Lodge Two Weeks Away

Howard Johnson Restaurant, featuring fried clams, has finally opened for business on Shoreline Highway just west of Richardson Bay Bridge.

The restaurant, with a seating capacity of 180, is open 6 a.m. to 1 a.m. weekdays and from 6 a.m. to 2 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

Steve Manning of Santa Clara, manager, said the accompanying 100-unit motel and lodge should be ready for guests in about two weeks. Other facilities under construction are a swimming pool, saunas, and tennis courts.

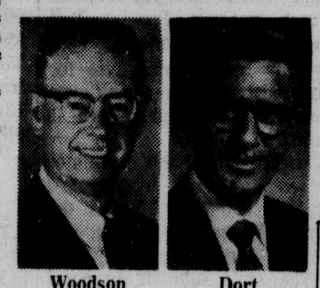
A major office building called the Executive Center Building will also go up next to the restaurant-motel. The two-story office buildings, with a total of about 15,000 square feet of floor space, should be ready about August. Lease of the offices is being handled by Jack Krystal of 3030 Bridgeway, Sausalito.

The restaurant-motel complex, valued at one and a quarter million dollars, was started in 1968 but ran into a series of delays until the Leverage Funding Development Co. of Oakland took over the development this year.

JOHN F. WOODSON will move his real estate and mortgage company from Lincoln Avenue to downtown San Rafael in the Albert Building at 1018 B Street, next to the Independent-Journal building.

From the first of July, Woodson will open at the new location, formerly occupied by the William Nock Real Estate and most recently by The Cube furniture store.

Woodson first opened for business in 1950 in San Anselmo, moved to the Miracle Mile, then to 1414 Lincoln Avenue seven years ago. At his new location on B Street, Woodson will operate as Woodson Realtor and Woodson Mortgage Co., specializing in second deeds of trust on home loans. A member of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, Woodson also provides fee appraisals.



Woodson Dort

HOWARD S. DORT of Novato, real estate appraisal officer for Crocker Bank's West Bay Region administration in San Francisco, has been promoted to assistant vice president and real estate appraisal supervisor for the region.

A 10-year veteran with Crocker Bank, Dort is a director of the Golden Gate chapter of Real Estate Appraisers.

JORDAN L. MARTINELLI Jr. of Kentfield was named this week as assistant vice president and escrow officer for Western Title Guaranty Company Marin County Division. He will work with Chester J. (Chet) Downey, vice president and county manager, at the main office in San Rafael.

Martinelli, son of retired Judge Jordan L. Martinelli Sr., was in the savings and loan business (Marin County Savings and Loan and later, Bell Savings and Loan) for 18 years until last August, when he went to work for Marin Title Guaranty Company's Mill Valley office.

Pound Crisis Hurts Early Market Trade

Analysts said investors turned cautious following a British decision to allow the pound sterling to "float" on the international monetary exchange. The decision also raised the possibility that the U.S. Dollar also may be weakened.

Gulf Oil was the most active NYSE stock and was up 1-8 to 25 on 49,000 shares.

Prices also were lower on the American Stock Exchange. Tyco labs was the most active issue and was off 1 1-4 to 71 3-8 on 62,900 shares.

Boom In Bank Cards

NEW YORK (UPI) — Banks involved in charge card systems increased between 1965 and 1970 from 79 to 9,100 while bank card-holding households rose from under 5 million to 30 million, participating merchants from 140,000 to over 1 million, and the volume of annual sales from $330 million to $6.5 million.

Heads Marketing

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Firm Is Appealing But Speculative

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 22 years of age and like to venture in the stock market. I would like to buy A.J. Industries (NYSE) for speculation. Would you kindly give me your opinion on this stock? — G.K.

A. Following two consecutive deficit years, A.J. Industries turned in a profit for the fiscal year ended March. This diversified manufacturer posted operating net of $1.9 million, or 34 cents a share, a marked improvement over the prior year's $305,000 loss.

A.J. has completed its reorganization program, reducing subsidiaries and divisions to 16 from 24 in 1971. Along with this realignment, moreover, the company's financial condition improved. As of April, 1971, total indebtedness was $18 million; at the beginning of this year, however, it was down to $12 million. Also, the firm recently announced completion of an $8 million long-term loan agreement which returns A.J. to a more liquid position.

As sales and profits trend higher, so should A.J. stock. However, though the issue is attractive as a potential turnaround candidate, shares are speculative and not without risk.

Q. Will you please comment on Fluor Corp. (NYSE)? I bought at $43 and wonder if I should hold or take the loss. — M.B.

A. Due to a slowdown in petroleum and chemical capital spending, Fluor's earnings have been under pressure since the latter portion of 1969 — a situation which is, of course, reflected in the stock's price. Revenues for the three months ended January 31 continued this trend, declining 31 per cent while net income was off 30 per cent. A hesitancy by the oil sector to start new refinery construction in the absence of government antipollution guidelines has created a gap in Fluror's order backlog — hence the drop in revenues.

It is expected that this pattern will continue for the remainder of fiscal 1972. Over the longer term, however, Fluor has recovery appeal with construction demand projected to pick up in the various industries served and from improvement in its chemical operations. Patience may prove rewarding.

Top Officer

NEW YORK (BW) — George A. Warde has been elected president and chief operating officer of American Airlines Inc.

Sign Sizes Face Cuts In Larkspur

Maximum sign areas permitted in all Larkspur zoning districts, except residential, would be drastically reduced in new ordinance amendments to be drafted by the city staff.

The Larkspur Architectural Review Committee directed the planning staff to draft the proposed amendments at its meeting this week. John W. Appleton, building and planning superintendent, said the committee felt sign size was not a problem in residential zones.

The committee recommended approval to the planning commission of two applications for new developments in Larkspur.

The first is an 11-unit complex, to be built by the Leverage Funding Development Co. on South Eliseo Drive. The second application, by Broughton and Horne, is for a 10-unit townhouse complex on Larkspur Plaza Drive.

Appleton said an application by Millbrae Highlands for an apartment project on the most easterly developed section of South Eliseo Drive was continued for modification to final landscaping and parking plans.

A second application by Millbrae Highlands involved revised landscaping detail for a nine-unit apartment project on South Eliseo Drive between Corte Real and Via Jolon. This was recommended for approval, said Appleton.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and Parents' Magazine. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"101 Dalmations" — A clever take-off on the British detective yarns with dogs playing the important parts. Fifteen puppies are dognapped and the hunt and chase is suspenseful. A fresh semi-sophisticated approach to feature length cartoons.

"Swiss Family Robinson" — The story of a Swiss family marooned by shipwreck on a tropical desert island is told with a wealth of details. A remarkable tree house is built and a unique fortress from which to repel pirate attacks add to family solidarity.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Culpepper Cattle Co." — The grime, harshness and brutality of life on the trail is authentically presented. Our hero on his first cattle drive has many adventures which mature him to manhood. Considerable violence.

"Nicholas and Alexandra" — The tragic, intimate story of Tsar Nicholas and his family and the period of Russian history from 1904 to 1918. This fascinating classic drama has an excellent cast, is full of color and pageantry but is long and violent without much fast action.

"Sometimes a Great Notion" — A tense dramatic adventure about the dangerous logging operation in the timber wilderness of Oregon. A family of independent loggers defy the union when they call a strike. A family feud adds to the situation. Some violence and rough language.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Cabaret" — Decadently manic mood of pre-Nazi Germany is captured in this adaptation of the racy Broadway musical. A kinky American girl delights in shocking the people with her behavior as a cabaret singer and in her private life. Sophisticated and bawdy with sex and foul language.

"Cowboys" — A tough cattleman hires and trains several school boys to drive his cattle 400 miles to market. As the drive progresses the boys become expert in the use of violence and torture in fighting off cattle rustlers. The gory scenes with young boys wielding guns and knives is unforgivable and makes films unsuitable for young audiences.

"From Russia With Love" — Rapid fire adventure of James Bond. Adult fun if you like perplexing action punctuated by sexy situations and spectacular refinements of death dealing gadgets.

"Garden of Finzi Continis" — Intriguing film about a small group of Jewish youths living in Italy prior to World War II. Their romances are played against a backdrop of fear from war and persecution. Nudity. English subtitles.

"Goldfinger" — Another Bond caper this time dealing with plans to destroy the U.S. economy by stealing the gold from Fort Knox. Sadistic brutality, blatant and brassy sex, violence and mayhem.

"Paint Your Wagon" — A lusty irreverent script is the frame work for the elaborately mounted broad comedy about the vices and vulgarities of frontier living during gold rush days.

"Play It Again, Sam" — In this sex comedy Woody Allen is a dedicated movie buff and as a writer lives in a fantasy world where he gets advice from his favorite actor, Humphrey Bogart, on how to solve his sex problem.

"Summer of '42" — Three 15-year-old boys wander through an island beach summer, obsessed with sex and its mysteries.

ADULTS OCLY

"Cheyenne Social Club" Two cowpokes whose carefree life on the range is interrupted by the inheritance of a brothel. One wants to close the place down but the towns people rebel. Dialogue is frank and the prostitutes are supposed to be cute.

"The Conformist" — A psychological study of one man, contains complex insights into the overall nature of fascism and its appeal to people who are trying to hide from themselves. Italian made, English subtitles. Sex and nudity.

"Dr. No" — Sexy sleuth James Bond presents a combination of casually murderous happenings, six and whodunit plot. A welter of blood, sweat and swamp water.

"Godfather" — Gripping epic gangster film filled with excessive violence. The head of Mafia family leads two lives — as a kindly head of a family and then a leader of a mob whose business is killing.

"The Graduate" — Sophisticated modern satire about a young college graduate who returns to his wealthy parents home to loneliness in their materialistic world. He has a torrid love affair with a married woman only to fall in love with her daughter.

"Loving" — Bitter contemporary drama about the struggles of a commercial artist to overcome the pressures of the suburban life and his job. A grotesquely lewd escapade shown and language extremely frank.

"Play Misty For Me" — A terrifying suspense thriller about a radio disc jockey and an insane fan who pursues him. Many bloody deaths and some sex scenes.

"PLAY IT AGAIN, SAM"
"A VERY FUNNY FILM! Woody Allen is, I'm convinced, the premier comic intelligence at work in America today and probably even tomorrow. It is great fun. The supporting cast, especially Miss Keaton, is excellent." —Vincent Canby, The New York Times
"FRESH, DELIGHTFUL AND GLORIOUSLY AMUSING! The laughs are organic not artificial. A field day for established Woody Allen fans, and a welcome revelation for someone like me who is just becoming one!" —Rex Reed
"A HILARIOUS MOVIE AND I GIVE IT FOUR CAMERA EYES! I've always wanted to call a movie 'A Laugh Riot,' and now's the time!" —Leonard Harris, CBS-TV
"Not since Woody Allen's last picture, has there been a comedy as uproarious. Woody Allen is a cockeyed wonder." —Gene Shalit, NBC-TV
"A MARVELOUS MOVIE! IT HAS A MILLION LAUGHS AND IT IS JUST DELIGHTFUL COMEDY FROM BEGINNING TO END!" —Judith Crist, NBC-TV Today Show

TIBURON POLICE FORCE

New Era To Begin Soon

By JAY GOODWIN

They don't have any guns yet. Their uniforms haven't arrived. The lieutenant is still using a rickety card table for a desk and the police radio has yet to be seen.

But, ready or not, the spanking new Tiburon police force will take over police duties in Tiburon from the Marin County Sheriff's Department beginning at precisely 4 p.m. June 30.

Ever since it was incorporated eight years ago the City of Tiburon has paid the county for police protection provided by the sheriff's department.

In a matter of days, however, the city will begin to enjoy the benefits — and pay the increased cost —of its own force.

At the helm of the new department is Maurice (Mike) D. Lafferty, formerly a lieutenant with the Novato Police Department. After 11 years in Novato, Lafferty landed the job of police chief of the nonexistant Tiburon force, and has built it from scratch.

"This is something I have always wanted to do," said Lafferty, a pleasant, friendly man, who shatters the image of the rough-and-ready lawman. "Very seldom does one get a chance during a career to start your own department."

"When you build a police department, you don't climb up on a pickup truck and start yelling orders," explained Lafferty. "It's not that dramatic at all."

Without dramatics or fanfare, he's pieced together his department through organization, budget preparation and personnel recruitment.

First, said Lafferty, a thorough study of the police protection needs of Tiburon had to be prepared. In the case of Tiburon, such a study had already been made in 1971 by Edward S. Kreins, police chief of Pleasant Hill.

The Kreins report has served as the basis for Lafferty's early planning and organizing.

Every community, said Lafferty, has a different sociological complexion that requires a different blend of police protection.

According to the new chief, Tiburon is a "fluid" city whose weekend tourists, young, single residents and plush homes present unique problems for a local police force.

With weekend sightseers swelling the downtown business district, more patrolmen will be on duty Saturday and Sunday than any other time during the week, said Lafferty.

MAURICE D. LAFFERTY
Builds from scratch

Lafferty guessed that the city's young, single residents — who often move in and out of Tiburon in a matter of months — will create other problems for his department.

Where there are single residents, attractive air line stewardesses and young divorcees, said Lafferty, you can expect some bad checks, prowlers, and peeping toms. The young transient population, said the chief, is generally less likely to feel any "community involvement."

The luxurious residences in Tiburon present another problem for the police to tackle: Burglaries. The new chief hopes to cut burglaries by stepping up the present patrols in the neighborhoods and seeking the cooperation of the residents. He expects his officers to check suspicious vehicles cruising down residential streets, but stresses that such an effort requires the assistance of homeonwers.

"When it comes to burglaries, it's not that people won't help. It's that people don't know how to help," said Lafferty.

To combat this ignorance, the chief expects to establish regular community coffees at which members of the department will appear to answer questions and listen to community attitudes.

The get-together over coffee is just part of an overall effort by the new department to cater to the wishes and needs of the community, emphasizes Lafferty.

Perhaps, the most time-consuming part of the department's work will be traffic control. According to Lt. Manick, Tiburon is suffering from a "fantastic accident problem," with 68 accidents within the last 11 months.

The new department will vigorously enforce the law along the hazardous portions of Tiburon Boulevard, siad Manick, and, if necessary, install a radar unit on the dangerous road.

Lafferty and Manick are of the new breed of policemen who have discarded the gruff, cops-and-robbers approach to police work in favor of a more sensitive, individualized approach to crime prevention.

Said Manick, "the old concept of you commit a crime . . . we catch you . . . you go to jail" has got to be abandoned. Our sole goal is to try to treat people like individuals. Our intent is to work with people and keep them out of the criminal justice system."

This working philosophy is particularly important when applied to juveniles, said Manick. Traditional agencies established to help youthful offenders have been unsuccessful, so the Tiburon force intends to work with these youngsters, said the husky lieutenant.

The new force — with 11 sworn personnel, three dispatcher-clerks and one traffic patrolman — will be twice as large as the present force of deputy sheriffs.

The cost to maintain the new force is about $68,000 higher than the renting the county's protection.

With the additional money, the new department will maintain office hours from 8 a.m. to midnight, beginning July 1 and around-the-clock beginning January 1, 1973.

Marin County operates a communications system for small police departments like Tiburon (presently) and Belvedere. If the station is closed, the call is directed to the county communications center, which in turn contacts the patrolman out on his beat in a patrol car.

This system will continue to be used in Tiburon when station is closed from July to January.

Currently, with the short-staffed sheriff's service, the police station has no regular hours and deputy sheriffs are often out on patrol when residents need assistance at the station.

The new department will make its home in a 1,650-square-foot station, on the ground floor of a building next to city hall.

The building, like the rest of the department, was picked by Lafferty. The chief — who draws a salary of $17,400 — even drew the floor plans for his new headquarters.

"As far as the accommodations are concerned, we got more than we hoped for," Lafferty said.

Housing Unit Gets $5,000 From Fund

The Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin has received a $5,000 grant from the Zellerbach Family Fund, which in addition to a $15,000 grant from the San Francisco Foundation assures half the association's 1972-73 budget.

Richard Rosenberg, funding drive chairman, told association members Wednesday night that business leaders have given advice on conducting a drive to raise funds to match the grants. The association also has income from membership dues.

The association was told by Eugene Burger of Barcelon and Burger, management agents, that a 12 per cent rent hike at Pilgrim Park, the county's first moderate income project, is necessary.

He said that raises of from $13 to $20 a month were needed because adequate operating, administrative and maintenance costs were not originally provided for.

Federal authorities have said that no more than a 2.5 per cent increase would be allowed, Burger said, but he plans to appeal this limit as he said it would financially jeopardize the development.

Association president William Parnow has predicted that groundbreaking on a 66-unit apartment project for elderly persons of moderate income will begin in mid-August or early September. The project, to be called Martinelli House, will be built at 1327 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, on property now used for Marin Open House.

MOST PEOPLE BUY IT BECAUSE IT'S A VOLVO FIRST. AND A STATION WAGON SECOND.

To spend good money for a wagon while ignoring the car that pulls it around is to put the cart before the horse.

First: a Volvo has adjustable bucket seats for any body up to 6'6"; four-wheel power disc brakes; six coats of protection against rust; eight steel pillars to surround five human passengers.

Second: with the back seat down and the tailgate closed, our wagon will hold a 74" sofa. Or enough luggage for Swedes who travel more than any other Europeans.

So if you need a wagon, see us. We'll show you a Volvo.

Eight Are Sentenced For Drunken Driving

Eight persons were sentenced last Friday by Judge David R. Baty in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Sentenced were:

Leo Paradis, 72, of 1333 Fourth Street, Apt. 8, San Rafael, arrested March 5 in San Rafael, placed on probation for six months and ordered to work 100 hours for the Marin Volunteer Bureau.

Dean Robert Kuns, 22, of Hamilton Air Force Base, arrested April 23 on Highway 101, placed on probation for six months and fined $200.

Haig Terzian, 51, of Dinuba, Tulare County, arrested April 19 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Thomas Francis Travers, 48, of 17 Skylark Drive, Larkspur, arrested April 8 in Larkspur, placed on probation for six months, fined $302 and sentenced to five days in jail.

Joseph Edward Briner, 42, of San Francisco, arrested May 28 on Highway 101, placed on probation for six months and fined $302.

Eleanor Merle Cunningham, 46, of 300 Cecilia Way, Tiburon, arrested May 7 in Sausalito, placed on probation for six months and fined $250.

Garland Rhinehart Reier, 33, of Skylark Motel, Novato, arrested June 10 on Highway 101, placed on probation for six months and fined $302.

Michael Allen Swanson, 21, of 18 Allyn Avenue, San Anselmo arrested March 29 in San Anselmo, placed on probation for six months, fined $250 or must work 10 days for Marin County Parks and Recreation Department.

Auction Set On Unclaimed Items

The Sausalito Police Department will hold an auction of unclaimed items at 10 a.m. July 1 in the city council chambers, Capt. R. David Malkin reported.

Among the items recovered and found by police, but not claimed by their owners are bicycles and bicycle parts, radios, televisions, stereo systems and jewelry, according to the captain.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Try this quiz on the birthday of WILMA RUDOLPH (1940-), Olympic champion.

T F 1. Weighing only four-and-one-half pounds at birth, Wilma barely survived babyhood and was so crippled by illness at the age of four that she lost the use of her left leg.

T F 2. Thanks to the devotion of her mother, a domestic worker, who took little Wilma 90 miles weekly to a clinic for two years, she regained the ability to walk and became so enthralled that she began running everywhere.

T F 3. By the year 1960 this ex-cripple was entered in the Olympic Games in Italy, won the women's100-meter and 200-meter dashes and anchored the victorious 400-meter team, becoming the first American female to win three Gold Medals in track.

T F 4. Now 32 years old, Wilma's only regret is that other girls from other countries have broken all of the Olympic records she set 10 years ago.

ANSWERS

1. TRUE — Wilma was born in St. Bethlehem, Tenn., 45 miles southeast of Nashville.

2. TRUE — She was unable to walk without wearing a special shoe during childhood.

3. TRUE — The Associated Press named her America's Female Athlete of 1960.

4. FALSE — Her 100-meter dash time of 11-seconds (flat) is still a record.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Currently The 'Low Play' May Be The Way To Save Your Honor

In the more gracious days of the past, people attached more importance to honor than they do today. In those golden days, a "low play" was a dishonorable action. Today, especially to bridge players, a low play may be the best way to save your honor.

Opening lead — ♠ Q

IN DRIVER'S SEAT

Put yourself in the South seat for the play of today's hand. West opens the queen of spades against your contract of three no-trump.

Naturally, you refuse the first trick. Just as naturally, West continues with the jack of spades. You win with the king of spades and embark on your plan.

Somehow or other you must develop four diamond tricks to make your contract. You won't have time to get a heart trick.

Your best chance is that West has only one small diamond with his ace. With this thought in mind you lead a low diamond from your hand toward the dummy.

West plays low, of course, and dummy's queen wins the trick. Now you return a low diamond from the dummy, and East menacingly plays the jack of diamonds.

DON'T COVER

This is no time to cover an honor with an honor. Your king of diamonds is the honor we've been talking about throughout, and your only chance to save it is to play low.

As it happens, West is obliged to play his ace of diamonds anyway. You can use your king to extract East's last diamond, and you will win four diamond tricks.

EASY TO SEE

It's easy to see that you would go down if you played the king of diamonds on the second round of that suit. West would win with the ace, and East would still have a diamond stopper.

You have 12 points in high cards, good distribution, two aces and five playing tricks. What more could you ask?

Phone Company Asks Rate Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The California Public Utilities Commission received a $198.2 million annual interim rate hike request from the Pacific Telephone Co.

The request came Wednesday, just two weeks after the state Supreme Court ruling ordering the phone company to return $143 million in income the firm received from a PUC-approved rate increase last July.

The court said, however, that the company could petition for interim increases.

IQ Tests For Blacks Booted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal judge has ordered the San Francisco Unified School District to cease using IQ tests as a criterion for placing blacks in classes for the mentally retarded.

U.S. District Judge Robert F. Peckham issued a temporary injunction Wednesday against the practice, saying blacks made up a "disproportionate amount" of students in such classes.

He noted that blacks constitute 28.5 per cent of all students in the district but 66 per cent of those in classes for the mentally retarded.

Backpacking Course Will Be Offered

Several brand new programs, including hiking and backpacking, film-making, and a drama workshop, are in the Corte Madera-Larkspur summer recreation program which starts Monday.

Hiking and backpacking is offered because so many students requested it, according to Jacqueline A. Branch, recreation coordinator for Corte Madera. Children, who must be 9 or over, will hike a different trail each week, and join an overnight campout. Registration for hiking is at the following school playgrounds Monday: Corte Madera town park, Greenbrae School, Larkspur-Corte Madera School, Granada and San Clemente.

The film-making class will be instructed by Susan Felter a professional filmmaker, and the students will learn simple animated film techniques.

Jack Randall, former theater manager in New York City, is the instructor for the Friday drama workshop (at Greenbrae school in the morning, at town park in the afternoons.) Randall, who is working on a PhD in drama, will mount a production for students to perform county-wide in August.

Animal Society Needs 'Parents'

The St. Francis Animal Protection Society needs youngsters between the ages of 12 and 18 to act as summer "foster parents" to baby animals, especially kittens, according to society board member Eva Sterquelle.

Care is needed for the animals for limited periods of time until the society locates homes for them, she said. Instructions on feeding and care will be provided to volunteers, and parental consent is required.

Young people interested may call Mrs. William Deaver in San Rafael.

Hearing On New Sewer Rates Set

The Tiburon Sanitary District will hold a public hearing Monday on a proposed ordinance that would establish sewer service charges of $12 per year for single-family homes and about $75 per year for apartment and duplex units with two bathrooms.

According to board member Robert A. Sterling, the new sewer service charge would raise approximately $65,000 for the financially strapped district.

The proposed ordinance — which places a heavier burden on apartment and duplex dwellers than on homeowners — was designed to equalize the overall contribution of all district taxpayers, said board member James Murray.

Murray said that homeowners are currently paying a disproportionately large share of the district's property tax revenues.

While the service charge for single-family homes would be fixed at $12 per year, the charge for apartments and duplexes would vary.

Under the proposed ordinance, bath tubs would constitute two fixture units; lavatories, two; toilets, two, and kitchen sinks, three.

An apartment with two bathrooms and a kitchen sink could be charged $75.

The fixture unit rating would be doubled under the ordinance for commercial enterprises like restaurants and bars.

According to Sterling, similar service charges have already been established in Sausalito and Bolinas.

Little King Dispute Under Judicial Study

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday took under submission the legal dispute over grading of Little King Mountain being waged by Larkspur and the estate of Adolph A. Tiscornia.

Judge E. Warren McGuire gave the opposing sides until July 10 to file their written arguments in the case after a week of testimony about the troubled history of grading efforts atop the peak.

The estate run by Alice B. Copeland Vincilione and her husband, Paul, has been trying since 1968 to grade the bald peak ringed by trees, but the battle spilled over into the courts only after the city council turned down a grading plan this year.

The council voted May 1 to uphold its planning commission's denial of a permit to move up to 350,000 cubic yards of dirt to the lowlands across Magnolia Avenue. The original 3-2 vote which the council had decided to reconsider became 5-0 on May 15 when the council learned of alleged illegal grading.

The council sued to abate the nuisance and the Vincilione's countered by asking the court to order the city to issue a grading permit.

Attorney Wallace S. Myers, representing the property interests, has argued the city made no showing the project was detrimental to the city and therefore had no right to deny the earthmoving.

Mrs. Vincilione has sought the grading to prepare both the peak of Little King and the now useless lowland next to Corte Madera Creek for development.

The estate claims it will cost an additional $360,000 to import fill.

Youth Gets CYA Term In Robbery

George Gregory Watts, 18, of San Francisco was sentenced yesterday to the California Youth Authority for the armed robbery of a San Rafael couple in their home last year.

Completing a plea bargain made last week, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court sent the youth to the state institution for the robbery Oct. 29 which netted $600 in possessions and cash for Watts and three others.

Charles Anthony Henry, 19, of Marin City has already been sentenced to the youth authority for the crime and Ernest Barrow Baird, 18, of San Francisco has agreed to a state prison sentence provided it is concurrent with one he is already serving for a conviction in San Francisco. He is to be sentenced July 24.

A fourth person involved in the attack is still being sought. The quartet bound, gagged and threatened the couple before robbing them, according to police.

Santa Rosan Gets Jail Time In Car Theft Case

Jerry Lee Miller, 29, of Santa Rosa was sentenced yesterday to four months in the county jail for a car theft that involved changingthe license plates and ignition of the car.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court also placed him on five years' probation as part of the plea bargain arranged last month.

Miller and a companion, Gerald David Flowers, 28, of Sebastopol were arrested Jan. 10 by California Highway Patrol officers after they stopped their car on Highway 101, then drove slowly past a patrol car, according to officers.

The car had been stolen in San Rafael, then license plates from a wrecked car Miller had bought were transferred to it, they said.

The arrest took place on Civic Center Drive.

Miller had previously been jailed seven times for nonviolent crimes like nonsupport of his former wife and welfare fraud.

Battle Charged With Battery

Otis Lee Battle, 31, of San Rafael, arrested on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon last Friday has been charged in Marin Municipal Court with three charges of battery and a misdemeanor count of exhibiting a hammer.

A woman told San Rafael police he beat her up on three different occasions and threatened her with a hammer.

High School ROTC Unit Honored

The Air Force Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps cadet squadron at Novato High School has won a national "honor unit" award for the second consecutive year.

Brig. Gen G. G. Cassiday Jr., commander of the Air Force ROTC headquarters, Maxwell Air Force Base, notified the school recently that the squadron was among 11 out of 196 selected for the honor.

The squadron also won the award, which includes a plaque and flag streamer, during the 1970-71 school year.

Lt. Col. Walter C. Van Emon is the aerospace education instructor with the squadron and Chief M/Sgt. Harry C. Whitlock is assistant aerospace education instructor. Both are retired from the Air Force.

Pain To Participate In Math Workshop

Two Novato School District staff members, Richard Melendy and Beverly Ehreth, will participate in a three-week math workshop sponsored by the National Science Foundation at Syracuse University in New York from July 31 to Aug. 18.

Melendy, the district's mathematics curriculum specialist, and Mrs. Ehreth, a sixth grade teacher at Pleasant Valley School, were chosen as 32 participants from applicants from all over the country.

Rodeo Will Take Spotlight Tonight At Sonoma-Marin Fair

The Sonoma-Marin Fair went into its third day today with special children's programs planned and a rodeo to get under way at 8 p.m. in the grandstand.

Fair attendance yesterday was set at 8,983 an increase of 684 over the second day attendance in 1971.

Rodeo stars from around the country have registered for the event that will also be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. Entrants will gather official points toward the National Rodeo Championship and include Jim Wheatley of Hughson, Colusa County, the current leader.

Special awards were also given yesterday in a special senior citizens program. Singled out were Ina Finch, 88, of Petaluma, oldest woman fairgoer; Mr. and Mrs. George Rollin of Petaluma, longest married couple at 57 years; Agnes Carlsen of Petaluma, most grandchildren with 19, and Bertha Koenig of Petaluma, most great-grandchildren with nine.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Cafe Ambrosia Combines The Two Musts—Food, Service—Very Well

The food is the thing — also the service.

Anyone who operates a restaurant has to keep both of these elements in mind constantly — or go for broke. Atmosphere and restaurant decor are important, too, but they are frosting on the cake, framing for the picture. And an empty frame, no matter how beautiful is hardly an inspiration.

A restaurant is a public service business. Chances are that you, like thousands of others, take your dining out downright seriously and expect more from a restaurant than you usually demand from any other type of business. And this is no exception if you are a man. Men are usually more easy going and tolerant than their wives when buying something in a store — but in a restaurant they can be even fussier. Most of the complaints I receive are from men.

And among restaurant owners, those who have lots of past experience in the game are generally better in holding their customers than the dilettantes, even though the latter are often very capable in preparing food. The deciding factor is something psychological, which the novice often finds hard to understand.

It's gratifying to see one little San Anselmo restuarant making a good name for itself, because its owners observe all the little requirements for food, service and customer relations quite naturally.

George and Bonnie Loizos, who operate the Cafe Ambrosia, were both well trained in their field before they opened on the side of San Anselmo's Red Hill 18 months ago. That cut down their handicap. And George was a qualified chef in his own right. He knows his food, particularly Greek and Mediterranean food — an asset in an area that boasts only a few Greek restaurants.

Cafe Ambrosia's menu is not an extensive one by some standards, but it offers nine different entrees and that should be enough for most. If you can't get interested in squab chicken, rack of lamb and pilaff, lamb shish kebob, a delightful Mediterranean veal picatta, scallops en brochette, scampi, moussaka or a few other Helenic specialties you don't belong there.

There is no hard liquor served at Cafe Ambrosia and I find this to my liking. You are obliged to check out the wine list, which has some excellent choices you might miss after swishing down martinis. George has a new addition, a light, dry, white Grecian wine, without the strong retsina flavor that usually charterizes wines from Greece. If there are four of you, I am sure you will want to order a second bottle.

Reservations are important — especially right now. During the early summer it will be open only three nights a week — Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. But this makes the rest of the week available for private parties (of 20 or more) by reservation.

Atmosphere? This restaurant has that, too. Part of it on Friday and Saturday nights is provided by an exotic dancer called Karima. She's very talented and does much to make your evenings more enjoyable.

BIG STEAK EATER? Can't get enough of it?

Then the place for you is Nero's Restaurant at the Nave Lanes in Ignacio.

BEGINNING SUNDAY, The Caprice in Tiburon will be open for lunches every day of the week except Saturday. This is a nice spot for window gazing over the waters of Raccoon Strait.

You should make advance reservations.

AND THAT LITTLE French restaurant in Sausalito, Le Vivoir, which also has a panoramic view from its windows, has changed its schedule. It's now open seven days a week for dinners — 6 to 10 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and from 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Reservations are also advisable.

KARL AND EDITH KLAUDA will close down their little Austrian restaurant, Old Vienna, in San Rafael for the next two weeks while they take off on a vacation. Dedicated skin divers, they are making their annual trip to Guaymas in Mexico. Saturday is their last day for a while.

They'll be back in time to reopen on Friday, July 14.

CLASSICAL ENGRAVINGS from 1497 to 1925 will be on display starting next week at the Crocker Galleries in Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, San Rafael. About 28 different artists will be represented.

Crocker's Gallery in San Francisco will probably close for a while after the end of the month, due to the termination of its lease at 531 Sutter Street. Other locations in that city are being considered.

THERE'S NOW AN INCENTIVE for early diners at Rubini's.

This Fairfax restaurant is offering an "earlybird special." Those seated in the dining room before 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights will have a $1 deduction in their tabs.

He is Le Baron Hibbs, formerly of the East Coast and now living in Oakland. His style is well liked and he's good for singalong music.

THESE ARE BUSY DAYS at the Russian River. Restaurants that were doing only a moderate business a couple of weeks ago have picked up in pace with the closing of schools and the start of the vacation season. They'll be busy until the opening of schools again.

Hexagon House, near Armstrong Woods, Guerneville is open for dinners all through the week from 5 p.m.

Also in Guerneville, near the bridge, Guerneville Inn's bar and dining room opens at 6 p.m. Closed Tuesdays.

Buck's at Fourth and Mill streets in Guerneville has a similar schedule. Bar and dining room at 6 p.m. Next Monday will be a day of closing but starting July 1 the restaurant will be open seven days a week through September.

In Monte Rio, Angelo's Resort and Restaurant serves dinners Wednesdays through Sundays during the summer, starting at 6 p.m. Service starts earlier on Sundays and holidays — 4 or 5 p.m. The bar is open at noon.

Cazanoma Lodge in Cazadero is now on its five-day-a-week schedule through September. Dinners are from 5 p.m. weekdays, and lunches and dinners are served Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from noon. The lodge closes Mondays and Tuesdays — except for the holidays.

RICO'S IN SAUSALITO is closed, but I understand that Sam Zakessian, who owns Zack's across the Bridgeway, the Jolly Friars in San Francisco and also the property at 1219 Bridgeway where Rico's was located, is going to do something about reopening — under another name, of course.

Cotati To Fete Its 7th Annual Community Day

Cotati will celebrate its seventh annual community day Sunday beginning at 11 a.m. with bicycle races, games, music and a barbecue.

Game and food booths sponsored by local organizations will open at 11 a.m. at the Veterans Memorial Building. Special races and games will be held during the afternoon.

A rock concert featuring the Bronze Hog and Cat Mother will begin at 4 p.m. along with a barbecue featuring beef and chicken teriyaki.

Proceeds will benefit various local organizations and the Ralph E. McGinnis Scholarship Fund at Santa Rosa Junior College in memory of the fire chief who died this year.

New President Of Jaycees Is Elected

ATLANTA (UPI)—Samuel D. Winer, 29, of New Martinsville, W.Va., was elected president of the U.S. Jaycees early today after 13 hours of balloting by the 12,000 convention delegates.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Court's Convenience In Lieu Of Justice

It has been estimated that 90 per cent of criminal convictions in courts of the 50 states and the federal system result from pleas of guilty.

At first glance, this is an impressive figure. Granted that nearly half the cases brought to trial end with acquittals, it still would seem to indicate that about one of every two of those charged with crimes knows the case against him is so unbeatable that he does not even try to contest it; he just pleads guilty.

It's not quite that way.

There is nothing in the laws to provide for plea bargaining. It is a device adopted for the convenience of courts and prosecutors.

The law sets forth the penalty for each class of crime. For instance, armed robbery is a felony, punishable by a prison term. So is robbery by force. But "exhibiting a gun in a threatening manner" is a misdemeanor, which can draw a county jail sentence or probation. So is simple assault.

So what happens?

A MAN IS accosted by a hoodlum on a dark street. The hoodlum draws a gun and demands the victim's money. The victim hands over his pocketbook. But then, as the robber runs away, the victim leaps behind a tree for protection and shouts, "Stop thief!" at the top of his lungs.

He is in luck, for just then a police car cruises by. The police chase and collar the robber, and the victim identifies him. He has thrown away the victim's wallet, which is found lying on the sidewalk. The money it contained — along with the gun — are in his pocket.

The police book him on suspicion of armed robbery. The victim signs a complaint. He is charged and arraigned in court.

BUT THEN HIS attorney appears and proposes a bargain. The identification must be in doubt, he contends, because the street was dark. The arrested man did not have the victim's wallet. The money is not identifiable. As for the gun, he carried it for his own protection — as many people do nowadays.

However, suggests the attorney, his client is willing to plead guilty to a charge of simple assault; he is willing to admit that he jostled the man on the sidewalk, but not that he pointed the gun at him and took his money.

The courts are crowded (not so much, perhaps, because of the high crime rate as because of their own delays; but that is another story). "Clearing the calendar" is important. And so the plea bargain is accepted — and the robber gets a jail term, perhaps suspended.

A JUDGE of Marin Superior Court insisted to us recently that this system is necessary. "The Superior Court simply could not handle the case load without plea bargaining," he declared.

Maybe not.

But is it justice?

What good are laws prescribing penalties if a criminal is to be punished, not for what he did but just for what he is willing to admit he did?

"Button, button! Who's got the button?"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Animal Pictures Display Tenderness

I wish to congratulate you on the animal photographs which appear in your paper. They show compassion, tenderness and love.

Somehow I always have such a feeling of warmth when I see them. I usually cry a little, and remember there are many many good people in this mixed-up world who peel away the crust and see what is truly important: the innocent, the beasts, and the children.

Magazine Story Augments Volunteers

As executive director of the Volunteer Bureau of Marin County I should like to express my appreciation for the outstanding coverage you gave to our fund raising project, the Designers Showcase.

There is no doubt the beautiful story in Saturday's magazine played a very important part in helping this to be a successful event.

Thinks Jurors' Fears Set Angela Free

It was a day of horrible miscarriage of justice in our courts.

It was a day when a fear-filled jury disregarded their conscience and enabled themselves to get out of a court room and possibly escape from being shot themselves.

Even as the good Christian judge who had his face shot off and another man who became a wheelchair victim for the rest of his life, or anyone else who was harmed in the case, my heart goes out to the people. I say that just as sure as there is a just God in heaven, if Angela Davis is guilty she will get her just punishment some day.

City Of Tiburon Seeks To Save Ridges

Your editorial of June 19, "For Open Space, Keep Hilltops Clear," may soon prove a prophecy.

As a result of our own and independent expert study the Tiburon City Council has just about come to the same conclusion. Presently proposed, as part of our open space program, is a linear park along the ridge tops of the Tiburon Peninsula to be achieved by a combination of rezoning new road patterns and outright purchase. At the next council meeting on June 26, we will consider a resolution calling for a city-wide general obligation bond to enable us to realize this concept.

We agree that this "reversal of form" is overdue and believe that the open ridge concept will preserve to the community public space that can be enjoyed and be shared by all neighborhoods and yet enhance compatible private development on adjacent properties.

The hills of Marin County are generally too fragile to bear the weight of massive development on their crests without looking a bit squashed for the experience.

Are Public Officials For Selves Or People?

It seams to be a habit that high salaried officials of our Marin County departments still request far higher pay hikes. Why can't they learn to economize like the majority of people must do and try to live on what they get and help keep the property taxes down? Are they for themselves or the little people?

To Combat Pollution, First Stop Littering

Lately, the Independent-Journal has been swamped with letters about pollution. All of them have been against it, but all have had different solutions for it.

Some have blamed large corporations for air and water pollution from factories. Others have condemned the automobile and their poor anti-smog devices. What people forget to do is blame themselves.

We are the ones who support these corporations. So, if you think the corporations are contributing to pollution, boycott it. We are the ones who drive the cars, so if you think cars are polluting, stop driving.

More importantly, though, is our refusal to stop littering. Everyone is always talking about how bad pollution is while throwing a soft drink can out their car window. The reader may feel that this does not apply to him, but it does. No one is innocent of littering. We've all done it in varying degrees.

As we drive to work or school every day, we pass quite a lot of litter. The problem is that we're so used to it, we don't notice it any more.

Among the worst places in East San Rafael is the part of San Pedro Road that goes through Bayside Acres. The road is lined with cans thrown out of passing cars. As one goes past the new Sea View residential area ... there will be a strange white glare on the hillside (when the sun hits it). This glare is caused by paper and other garbage tossed down by people living on the hill. A friend and I cleared up one such area and I would encourage all readers to do the same.

... If you don't have an hour you can spare to help clean up this mess, at least prevent it from getting worse by not littering.

ALMANAC

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Venus, Saturn and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury and Mars.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Cancer.

The Duke of Windsor, who abdicated King Edward VIII of Great Britain, was born June 23rd, 1894. He died May 28, 1972.

On this date in history:

In 1845 the congress of Texas agreed to the republic's annexation by the United States.

In 1947 the House over-rode a veto by President Harry S Truman and enacted the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Unusual Role Given Kissinger Makes President's Policies Work

WASHINGTON — You may have heard Dr. Henry Kissinger described as the greatest diplomatic impresario since Prince Metternich hung up his spikes.

He is the No. 1 topic of conversation at Washington parties and along the press club corridors.

He is the No. 2 topic of conversation in Japan, China, Russia, Bangladesh and Rwanda.

THESE REMARKS are not made wholly in jest. They are partly serious. They rest on a central truth and that truth concerns the powerful and ubiquitous role which Kissinger plays at the President's elbow in crucial foreign policy initiatives.

He has been at the creative center of every major policy move the President has made — new relationships with China and Russia, a considerable dissolving of the cold war, the first stride toward ending the nuclear arms race, new joint enterprises with the Soviet Union.

No wonder there is so much talk about Kissinger.

But is it justified? Is he doing it all himself? Is President Nixon the instrument of Henry Kissinger, or is Henry Kissinger the instrument of President Nixon?

THESE ARE PERTINENT questions and all would not take the same answer. The answers I would give are these:

Each is indispensable to the other.

Each has different capacities and experience and the two have meshed to produce a remarkable team.

Nixon knew he needed a Kissinger, he found him and gave his special talents full play.

Some might be ill at ease in working with a subordinate as intellectually brilliant as Kissinger. The President and Kissinger were at ease with each other from the start. No President has ever given a single assistant such range of function, such visibility, such latitude as Nixon has given to Kissinger. It is hard to overstate how much Kissinger has been free to do and directed to do. With the President's approval, he has roamed wherever the need for his abilities took him.

He has been a principal architect of foreign policy. He has provided the conceptual basis for nearly all of the President's main undertakings.

Before Kissinger came on the scene, Nixon knew where he wanted to go; namely to move away from confrontation and to create with all nations a stake in productive negotiation. Kissinger designed the road map. Nixon decided what he wanted to do and Kissinger found the best ways to do it.

KISSINGER IS NO ivory-tower intellectual. He can do — as well as think. When Hanoi wanted to try out secret negotiations, the President sent Kissinger. When the North Vietnamese want to try again, they will probably ask for Kissinger.

I doubt that either could have succeeded without the other. Nixon made the tough decisions and politically, diplomatically and militarily they took a large supply of faith and fortitude.

It is harder to wage peace than war and that is what Nixon and Kissinger are waging.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

It Couldn't Happen In U.S.A., But Just Suppose, Somewhere . . .

WASHINGTON — Perhaps it is abusing your good nature to ask that you use your imagination yet again, to envision a drama of high intrigue and low comedy in the utmost political circles. But I will not go so far as to ask that you imagine it's happening in the technically sophisticated, traditionally liberatarian United States. Nobody would consider it credible. Let us place it instead in a small and backward republic somewhere between Managua and Paramaribo.

In the middle of the muggy night, a guard at the headquarters of the Opposition Party stumbles on evidence that something funny is going on inside. He calls the militia. The militia find five men in various stages of legal undress — that is, taping door latches open, wearing surgical rubber gloves, taking panels out of the ceiling, manipulating wiretapping devices and miniature cameras and possessing stacks of brand-new $100 bills. The five are arrested, and their backgrounds are investigated.

One of them turns out to be a former communications expert with the government's Internal Police Bureau and the government's External Police Agency. But at the same time he was caught allegedly doing his Marx Brothers-Mack Sennet-Mission: Impossible routine, he was employed by the Committee to Re-Elect El Presidente (CREEP), and under contract to the Loyalist National Committee.

SUBVERSIVE REPORTERS of the radiclib press, stretching the evil practice of guilt by association to absurd lengths, conclude somehow that this might indicate politics is involved in the interrupted postmidnight excursion.

Fortunately for the reputation of the republic and the peace of mind of its citizens, there are several trustworthy public servants available to deny and such thing. They are especially trustworthy because of their own extensive backgrounds, which enable them to spot a political operative when they see one.

Foremost among these is the head of the Committee to Re-Elect El Presidente, who is a former law partner of el Presidente's election effort in the previous campaign, and former minister of internal security, in which post he had jurisdiction over the Internal Police Bureau. In that assignment, he was a powerful advocate of wiretapping and electronic surveillance at the behest of el Presidente without all the bother of asking for court orders.

On that record, everyone takes assurance from his statement that "there is no place in our campaign or in the electoral process for this type of activity, and we will not permit it nor condone it."

THE CHAIRMAN of the Opposition Party is not satisfied by this statement, however. He demands a thorough investigation of the whole affair, and insists that it "remain open until we know beyond a doubt what organization or individuals were behind this incredible act of political espionage."

The head of the IPB has anticipated him. A spokesman for him announces that "the PB is already investigating ... Their investigative report will be turned over to the criminal division for appropriate action."

Once again, an anxious public considers the source and sighs in relief. The source is a former Loyalist Party legislator, former Loyalist Party candidate for provincial gubernator, national director of field operations for el Presidente's last campaign, and prominent proponent of domestic wiretapping untrammeled by court procedures.

On his record, the populace knows that whatever is uncovered by the PB investigation, the guilty parties will be prosecuted fearlessly, without consideration for politics. This is certain because his predecessor in office already has made it clear such activities have no place in politics.

THAT IS WHERE the farce stands at this writing. The main business at intermission is a lot of adjusting of mustaches and practicing of accents and innocent experssions. You are free to take it from there, or await the final acts to learn who paid the postmidnight intruders and why, and for justice to be done in time for the re-election of el Presidente.

But there is one clue: The head of the Committee to Re-Elect El Presidente noted obliquely that the alleged expert under arrest also has "a number of business clients and interests, and we have no knowledge of these relationships." That is the lifely tip-off, the giveaway to veteran mystery fans.

It was not the butler. It was a "business client or interest," that's who it was, seeking scandal about the Opposition Party to help keep el accommodating Presidente in office, for the innocent reason that he is good for business. In corny spy stories about amateur republics down south, the bad guy turns out to work for the Amalgamated Fruit Co.

Shed Tear For Jeff Adams, For We Helped Kill Him

By RUS WALTON

He was 16 and full of life and laughter and all the things boys are full of at that very magical age.

But, there is no more laughter in Jeff Adams — and no more life.

He was killed instantly last week. Hit by a vagrant bullet during a gun flight between the Springfield police and a cheap hood from California. Jeff and his dad were driving along when a slug slammed through their car door and his life was over.

"WHY," YOU MAY ASK, "why should we shed a tear for Jeff Adams?"

I will tell you why.

You see, Charles Hein, the 30-year-old hood who was fighting it out with the police in that Oregon gun battle, should not have been in Springfield. He should have been sitting in a cell back in San Quentin.

Charles Hein had been convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. But he was not in prison.

Under the soft-headed policies of the California authorities he was about to be paroled and so he had been given a 24-hour pass to look for work on the outside. Sort of a preliminary life-adjustment trip.

WELL, HEIN NEVER went looking for a job. With his 20-year-old brother, Mel, he took off for Oregon. That is where law enforcement agencies finally caught up with him. And that is where the stray bullet caught up with young Jeff Adams.

This is not the first time that the addlepated policies of our correctional system have resulted in the death of an innocent victim.

Not too long ago a young Orange County high school teacher was raped and murdered by two convicts out on a 52-hour pass.

Not too long ago an inmate out on a 72-hour pass from the correctional institution at Chico beat and raped the wife of a prison guard.

BLEEDING HEARTS will tell you that the parole and probation system works fairly well; that these incidents were unfortunate mistakes. Well, we are sick of burying their mistakes.

The first — the real — purpose of government is to protect its citizens from their enemies, within and without.

And, the first — the foremost — purpose of prisons (or, correctional institutions, if that suits your fancy) is to protect the lawabiding from those who have violated the law. After that comes punishment. After that comes rehabilitation. We need certain reforms in the prison system. You bet. Fair, firm, humane reforms — not those reforms which would risk the lives and well-being of the citizenry.

But, bleeding hearts have a way of making the most noise and wishy-washy politicians have a way of reacting to their pressures. And so it is, in this enlightened age, that the young Jeff Adams's of this world must pay for the mistakes of the do-gooders and the gutless.

It's not enough for some parole officer to say, "I guess I goofted on Charles Hein." It's not enough for the Adult Authority to say, "Gosh, we're sorry." Tell that to Jeff Adams' mother.

LAST YEAR 30 PER CENT of those arrested for felonies in this state were already on parole or probation for prior felony convictions.

The prison officials boast that the California prison population is going down (while the crime rate for felonies is going up). Well, Charles Hein's cell was empty for a while last week — and Jeff Adams' bed is empty forever.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By PAT ANGLE

One If By Land, Two If By Sea, But None If By City Council

After attending city council meetings in several cities, it becomes apparent that each council has its own way of dealing with problems.

One also finds that responses of individual councilmen become somewhat predictable, no matter what subject is being discussed.

It is interesting to conjecture how these same officials would have reacted to significant historical events, if they had been in office at the time.

SAY, FOR EXAMPLE, Paul Revere appeared before the Sausalito City Council 196 years ago, seeking approval to ride his horse through town on a matter of urgent business on April 18.

As the scene opens, Planning Director Eric Borgwardt arises to explain the planning commission's action on Revere's request for a variance to make the ride.

Borgwardt: "As you know, the commission considered this request at great length in several meetings and generally favored the variance if certain conditions — of tantamount importance to this city — are met by the applicant. Under the conditions imposed, Mr. Revere must ride only an Arabian horse, make the ride on a Tuesday, donate a piece of his fine silverwork to the city, and buy us Manhattan Island from the Dutch for an open space park."

Councilman Stephen Fraser: "I'm not sure I can support the concept of horses in Sausalito. Where would he park the horse if he decides to stop and view our breathtaking waterfront vistas? I'm unalterably opposed to any parking of horses in the downtown area."

MAYOR ROBIN Sweeny (running her hands through her hair in harassed fashion): "I'm just afraid if we allow this, we'll be opening the door to all kinds of horrible situations. First thing you know, we'll have British soldiers asking if they can ride through town and that radical group over in Philadelphia that's trying to overthrow the government will want to have their convention here. And how will we be able to refuse them permission if we've granted it to Mr. Revere?"

Councilman Earl Dunphy — "Besides, it's dangerous to have horses here. I remember we let two horses go through town back in 1492 — that's when I was first on the council — and one threw a shoe and hit a passerby on the head. Well, the man was so shaken up that he dropped a lighted snuff box on a piece of paper and ... Well, without the quick action of our fine fire department, the whole town could have gone up in flames."

Patrick Henry (a supporter of Revere's in the audience): "Give him liberty to ride, or give him death!"

Dunphy (ignoring outburst): "Anyway, I'm against allowing anyone to conduct a business, even an urgent business, on city street. If we do that, we'll probably have those Indians in again asking if they can hold their tea party in that boat on the waterfront. And you know what our ordinance says about live entertainment ..."

Councilman Sally Stanford: "Dammit, if a man has spent his money to buy a horse and paid taxes on it, he should be able to ride it anywhere he pleases, dammit. Horses are good for business and it's those business taxes that support this city, dammit."

COUNCILMAN EVERT Heynneman, addressing City Atty. Leland Jordan: "What do you think, Lee! Would it create legal complications to grant Mr. Revere's request?"

Jordan: "I think it would be unconstitutional, if we had a constitution, and I don't think the courts would go for it, if we had courts."

Revere, jumping to his feet: "But gentlemen, Mrs. Sweeny, may I please impress on the importance of my mission ..."

Mrs. Sweeny (interrupting and rapping gavel): "I'm sorry, Mr. Revere, but it's our responsibility to act according to the best interests of our city and of our dear voters, I mean residents, including those who are allergic to horses and might complain. We can't let your personal interests conflict with that, sir!"

Housing Authority May Move Office

Plans to move the Marin County Housing Authority's administrative offices out of Marin City to a more central location in the San Rafael area have received tentative approval from the authority board.

According to Keith Kelly, authority deputy director, the board on Wednesday asked its staff to find suitable facilities, obtain approval of the department of housing and urban development, prepare a feasiblity study and report at the board's July 5 meeting.

The request for the move was made by executive director Wallace C. Shepherd and would also affect Marin County Redevelopment Agency Administration which is linked to the housing authority, with both having essentially the same staff, according to Kelly.

The proposal has not yet been presented to the redevelopment agency board.

Certain services connected with the maintenance of 300 public housing units in Marin City would be left in that community, according to the deputy director, but there has been no determination which services would remain.

He said the authority staff decided the move was needed because the current office is too small to contain the entire administrative staff of both agencies. Both boards have agreed that centralized administration is a must. Kelly added that plans to remodel the building to make room for the staff have proved impractical.

According to the deputy director, the staff also believes a more central location is desirable since public housing is spread throughout the county, with some units located as far north as Novato.

In addition, he said plans to obtain land from the Sausalito School District to build a maintenance center in Marin City have apparently fallen through since the school district (which originally received the property from the authority) does not want to release the land at this time.

Coady To Be Installed As Chamber President

Philip Coady, a mutual fund representative, will be installed as president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce at a dinner at 8 p.m. today at the San Marin Club.

Rep. William A. Mailliard, R-San Francisco, ranking Republican member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs and member of congress since 1952, will speak.

Gordon Lee, manager of the Novato office, Western California Telephone Co., will be installed first vice president; Worth (Skip) Fenner Jr., insurance broker, second vice president; and Charles Lewis, manager of the Novato office, Great Western Savings and Loan Association, treasurer.

Coady will succeed Norman E. Dean, who will remain on the chamber board.

The social hour will start at 6:30 p.m.

Discrimination In Singapore

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Males sporting long hair will have to wait at the end of the line at all government offices starting today.

A Home Ministry statement issued Thursday said posters in English, Chinese and Malay will be put up at all government offices with the wordu: "Males with long hair will be attended to last."

It defined long hair into three types: hair falling across the forehead and touching the eyebrows; covering the ears; or reaching below an ordinary shirt collar.

Track, Diving Classes Set In Petaluma Recreation

Track and scuba diving classes will be offered this summer by the Petaluma Recreation Department.

The track program for all ages will be held from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on weekdays at Petaluma Senior High School under the direction of Douglas Johnson of the school faculty. On Fridays participants may join others in track competition at 6 p.m. at California State College, Sonoma.

The six-week scuba diving class will begin Monday with classes on Mondays from 8 to 11 p.m. and Wednesdays from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. The class is open to persons over the age of 12 who are advanced swimmers. Swimming ability tests will be given before persons are registered.

Students must also provide their own regulators, tanks and other equipment. Two ocean dives will be planned under the direction of David Nagle, who is accredited by the National Association of Underwater Instructors.

Plaids Big For The Small Set

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mother's little lamb will turn out in wool for fall, but unlike Mary's pet, the fleece it wears will be patterned.

New fashions for the nursery and kindergarten set follow the overwhelming trend in adult clothes—a mind boggling assortment of plaids, some of them the traditional tartans, others done in a free-for-all play of color including pastels.

Plaids showed in everything from brief smock dresses to bedtime jumpsuit-style pajamas for little girls to toggle coat outerwear and bathrobes just like Dad's for little boys in a Wool Bureau, Inc. fashion show in New York this week. The show was one of a series showing the new ready-to-wear for visiting fashion reporters. The series ends today (Friday).

ONE OF the reasons the wool industry staged the show was to brag about its machine-washable fabrics, to be sold as yard goods in major retail stores this fall. Simplicity Pattern Co. joined in to offer patterns for the clothes, and to cite statistics that about half of all American women sew.

If you want to make the clothes for Dick and Jane, for an opener there was a red and green tartan boy's outfit with knickers and westkit plus a solid green shirt. For the girls, there were tweedy-patterned pants with a multi-colored smock top.

A black and white pleated, checked skirt topped out with a pin-stripe blazer in navy and white. Toddlers' coveralls were in red and navy plaid.

A GROUP of toggle coats for boys were in blanket plaids in orange or blue tones, worn with solid shade slacks.

And for the girl of six, seven or eight "dressing up", the show included an ankle-long skirt with its blue-green tartan cut on the diagonal, the topping a weskit in solid yellow, a shirt in white.

Patterns will offer some things other than plaids, however. One boy's outfit paired an off-white cable knit sweater with brown trousers. A girl's outfit paired the same cable knit, with matching cap and mittens, topping solid red pants.

FOR SMALL cowboys, there was the "Easy Rider" blue jeans jacket and trousers (with elasticized waist), complete with the cowboy hankie tie and mini-Stetson.

4-H Girls Will Go To Washington

Two Marin County 4-H Girls will be delegates to the National Citizenship short course in Washington, D.C., Sunday through July 1.

One of the delegates, Jennie Beckner, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beckner of San Rafael, is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and will attend the University of San Francisco in the fall. The other delegate, Linda Dentkos, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dentkos of Woodacre, will be a junior at Sir Francis Drake High School.

Linda is a member of the San Geronimo Rancheros 4-H Club, and Jennie is a member of the San Rafael 4-H Club. They will be among 83 other California delegates attending the course. Chaperones will be Harry Miller, state 4-H youth specialist at the University of California at Davis, and Mrs. Deanne House, Merced 4-H youth advisor.

While in Washington they will meet with their Congressmen and senators and tour the Capital and participate in citizenship courses. Civic organizations are helping finance the trip.

On their return to Marin, the girls hope to work with all clubs in developing 4-H citizenship activities.

VOWS SAID AT MISSION

A ceremony at Mission San Rafael Arcangel united in marriage Linda May Brigman and Bill Lakes and the couple left on a Hawaiian wedding trip. Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Brigman of San Rafael, and Philip Lakes of Beaver, Ohio, is the bridegroom's father. The couple will live in Albuquerque, N.M., where Bill is stationed with the Air Force.

Lacy Panty Maker Will Shut Doors

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (UPI)—The American Textile Co. plant here will close June 30 because fewer women are wearing lacy undergarments.

J. Arthur Oakland, vice president of the firm which manufactured lace, said the closing was caused by the new trends in women's fashions.

He said 99 per cent of the lace made at the plant was used as trim on women's lingerie.

However, he said, most women are no longer wearing those items because of the shift in style to panty hose, hot pants, body suits and pant suits.

About 140 persons will lose their jobs because of the shutdown.

ON THE AGENDA

Novato BPW Members Will Attend Conference In Willits

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Novato will attend a district planning meeting Sunday at Brooktrails Lodge in Willits, according to Rose Marie Mazeres, the club's program coordinator. President Beverly Alberigi and Dorothy G. Krieger, district legislation chairman, will also attend.

Mrs. Krieger will present a legislation kit of valuable information to 26 local BPW clubs in the district, stressing the "why, when and how" to support the state BPW legislation platform.

BPW clubs urged continuing the state's Commission on the Status of Women. This commission, composed of educators, attorneys, senators and assemblymen, studies the problems facing women in the business and financial world.

If the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) is ratified by the State of California and the 27th Constitutional Amendment is in force, two years after 38 states ratify it, some of the problems facing women today will be solved, Mrs. Krieger said.

THE ANTIQUE study group of the Novaot Novato Club will visit Charlene Weber's Doll Museum in Bodega on Wednesday. Members will also have a potluck lunch at the oceanside museum.

Car pools will be formed at the Novato Fair Shopping Center at 9:30 a.m. Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Edward Garland and Richard Long.

PACIFIC DAY School is having its annual rummage sale to raise scholarship funds tomorrow and Sunday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the school, 40 Shell Road in Mill Valley.

MEMBERS OF Women's American ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training) are having a garage sale tomorrow and Sunday from 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at 11 San Mateo Court in Terra Linda.

Items for sale will be furniture, lamps, children's clothing, bric-a-brac and home baked items.

Proceeds will be used for ORT's educational programs.

QUESTION MARKS Square Dance Club of Santa Rosa is having a hoedown at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at Cotati Women's Club Hall in Cotati.

Bill Peters will be guest caller.

Job Equality: Women Carry On The Fight

By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — It becomes increasingly apparent that women really mean business in their fight for equal employment. The impact of the feminist movement on corporations, conglomerates, and companies is making itself felt as the weapon shifts from rhetoric to the law.

A two-day conference called "Equal Opportunity for Women: Corporate Affirmative Action Programs" was recently held here under the sponsorship of Urban Research Corp. of Chicago, in cooperation with Atlantic Richfield, Bankers Trust, General Electric Co., International Business Machines, Norton Simon Communications, Inc., and Polaroid. More than 300 company representatives gathered with feminists and members of U.S. government organizations, such as the Equal Opportunity Commission (EEOC) and the Department of Labor.

These disparate groups participated in a marathon session of 29 workshops and speeches by leaders including Aileen Hernandez of San Francisco, "chair-one" of the national advisory board of the National Organization for Women (NOW); Eleanor Holmes Norton, chairman of the New York Commission on Human Rights; Gloria Steinem, editor of MS magazine; and David Mahoney, president of Norton Simon, Inc., which publishes McCall's magazine.

THE CONFERENCE focused on a legislative landmark known as Revised Order 4, which took effect April 3 and is likely to prove a key piece of feminist legislation in the 1970s.

It requires federal government contractors and subcontractors with 50 or more employees and contracts of $50,000 or more to "take affirmative action wherever necessary to remedy the effects of past discrimination or to counteract discriminatory barriers to equal employment opportuniyt," according to Department of Labor, which is responsible for enforcing nondiscrimination through the Office of Federal Contract Compliance (OFCC).

The significance of his law is that it strikes directly at so many major corporations and makes of the women's liberation movement a concrete threat to the male-dominated power structure.

Legislation trailblazers leading to Revised Order 4 were the Equal Pay Act of 1963 and Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Under the former, approximately $42 million in "back pay" has been rendered 102,000 employees (mostly women) who suffered wage discrimination.

TITLE VII pertains to discriminatory practices in hiring and promoting and is administered by EEOC. It applies to a common excuse used by employers for not placing women in certain types of physical labor deemed too strenuous by state protective laws. There is a bona fide occupational qualification written into Title VII to exempt jobs that cannot be done by all or substantially all women, but these are becoming increasingly rare. Actors, actresses, and models are among the few exceptions.

This year's events, which include passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, have contributed to the climate of change and confusion in the business world. There are signs that an increasing number of cases will be brought to the courts. Certainly the most awesome on the books at this moment involves American Telephone and Telegraph described in a 3,000-page EEOC report as "wtihout doubt the largest oppressor of women in the United States." Even universities that receive government funding are affected. Columbia's affirmative action program has been rejected three times in the past two years.

Among the reforms confronting management are the active recruitment of women, the improvement of their "upward mobility," the reformulation of sexist job descriptions, the consideration of pregnancy like a disability, the possible installation of child-care centers, and the restructuring of work to include part-time employment for both men and women.

A FURTHER complicating factor is that these same companies also are compelled to implement similar reforms for minority groups, which may be competing with women for jobs. Moreover, the question whether companies should count black women as women or blacks when trying to meet their compliance requirements was a major source of befuddlement to many of the men.

Inevitably a certain resentment surfaced. A common, though cautiously voiced complaint was that there simply are not women available to fill positions in traditionally male professions such as engineering. That the supply of women cannot yet meet the demand is a factor which OFCC undoubtedly will take into consideration.

But feminists hold that the initiative must come from business, for high school and college women will only begin specializing in insurance, law, business and engineering if companies are willing to hire them. Some firms already have approached women's colleges to recruit and encourage study in their fields.

THE EFFECTS of equal employment legislation do not confine themselves to the professions. Would-be women blue-collar workers will benefit as well. Maizie Fulston, of the joint apprenticeship program in New York City, states that the abolition of discriminatory practices and "protective" laws now make women eligible for craft jobs such as carpentry, plumbing, and construction despite the resistance of unions.

To illustrate that these high-paying jobs are not too arduous for women, Mrs. Fulston cited the example of a woman who is now working for Consolidated Edison as a general utilities mechanic, lugging around a 90-pound jackhammer to dig up the streets.

Women are not likely to be welcomed with open arms in the male job market. Although the proportion of working women rose from one-third to one-half between 1955 and 1970, their median income dropped. One explanation is that the jobs being created for women are primarily of a clerical, traditionally "feminine" (and therefore low-paying) nature. Moreover, President Nixon's economic adviser, Dr. Herbert Stein, cited the entry of more women into the job market as a factor in the high unemployment rate. If true, this is hardly likely to ingratiate women with either white or black men who construe their need for a job as greater than that of a woman.

THE CONSENSUS seems to be that the jobs worth going after are men's jobs and that chances are good of getting them. In a recent survey of National Personnel Associates, a national network of more than 150 independent employment agencies, Angela Greene of Miller-Greene Associates in New York reported that she can't find enough women for the jobs she has open for internal auditors, chemists, and lab technicians.

MRS. ALFRED L. WEST III
(Mary Ann Manewal)

San Anselmo Man Weds In St. Louis

Mary Ann Manewal became the bride of Alfred Llewellyn West III of San Anselmo in a ceremony at the Church of Immaculata in St. Louis, Mo., on Saturday.

Maid of honor for the bride was Alfred's sister, Pamela West of San Anselmo. The bridesmaids were the bride's two sisters, Susan and Lucia Manewal of St. Louis, and Lynn Caverly of Los Angeles.

Richard Manewal of New York City, the bride's brother, served as best man. The ushers were Douglas Lambert of Santa Clara, Michael Riordan of Los Angeles, George Vournas of St. Louis, and John and Stephen Percy of St. Louis. Rev. David Schofield of St. Columba's Episcopal Church in Incrness assisted with the ceremony.

The couple will live in Redwood City.

Alfred is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. West Jr. of San Anselmo. He graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and University of Santa Clara. He is employed with Factory Insurance Association in San Francisco.

Some Facts On Runaways Across Nation

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — This year, an estimated 500,000 to 1,000,000 young people — more than half of them girls — will run away from home, reports the June issue of Seventeen Magazine. Increasingly they will be from middle and upper-class families.

Many of the runaways will suffer robbery, sex abuse, hunger, illness, drug involvement, arrest and other hazards of street life and hand-to-mouth hustling. But the lucky ones will find shelter in one of the hip, informal havens springing up all over the country in houses, churches, apartment buildings and storefronts.

Ranging from San Francisco's Huckleberry House to Boston's Bridge Over Troubled Waters, these are privately financed facilities where runaways are free to come and go as they please and where, with the help of young volunteers and paid staff members, they can try to resolve the conflicts that caused them to flee from home.

While the majority of clients at these new runaway centers eventually return home (as do most runaways), some must find other places to live, report writers Charles and Bonnie Remsberg. If parents will not accept their runaways back, or the home environment is too physically or psychologically threatening, the centers try to find married couples willing to take on a foster child.

Men's Shoe Heels Will Get Higher

Men's shoe heels will continue the upward trend first surfacing last year. For the fall and winter season ahead, the pacesetting heel height will be 3½ inches.

Only the brave will wear them? Or the daring? Three and one-half inches, in case you care to know, is about high-high for a woman's shoe. 'Spikes!

Mrs. Hayes Was First 'First Lady'

Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes was the first President's wife to be referred to as the "First Lady." The reference was made by a Washington, D.C., correspondent reporting the inauguration of President Hayes in 1877.

The title gained popular acceptance when Charles Nirdlin wrote a play in 1911 about Dolly Madison which he called "First Lady of the Land."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Some Of The Better Reader Responses To Two Letters

DEAR READERS:

The two letters which brought most response recently were those written by "Angry at Selfish Women's Libbers" and "Afraid to Chance It" — asking if there was any hope for marriage, and if so, what.

Here are some of the better answers:

DEAR HELEN:

The person who signed herself "Angry at Selfish Women's Libbers" wondered why these women added another problem when the world already has more than its share to solve. The answer should be obvious to anyone who is aware of the power structure of our society.

The average person has next to no power alone or in small groups — whether they work for better social services, housing, waste disposal or peace. This, because those in power, the vast majority of whom are men, are unresponsive unless there is some material and immediate profit to be gained by change.

While women are in the majority numerically, they are almost non-existent when it comes to power or policy-making. Therefore their voices at present are pretty weak.

I don't think our society will be magically transformed into an idealistic Utopia once women are proportionately represented. However, I do believe that women have tended to be more cognizant of human values than have men. I certainly think they would do no worse, and that their basic human rights are being violated by exclusion from these positions.

Women have ever been in the forefront of the fights for the handicapped, better health care, conservation, peace and human rights. That their impact has been so small in relation to the overwhelming problems they face is, in my opinion, due to their "second class citizen" rating. Until women's liberation lets them realize their power, they can't adequately help solve those other world problems. —MS. E.B.N.

DEAR HELEN:

First women wanted the vote, and they got it. Now we want to be voted for, because we are needed in politics, if it's "selfish" to work for our rightful place in society so that we can help to better society, then I am a — SELFISH WOMEN'S LIBBER

DEAR HELEN:

"Afraid to Chance It" asks for a formula for success in marriage. I believe formulas for success in any area of life are unobtainable. They are as personal and individual as fingerprints. Otherwise where the stimulus for the imagination or the challenges?

But if "love" is the key to marriage, then I feel selfishness is the key to divorce. And these modern "non-marriages," "week-end marriages" and "group marriages" have an air of selfishness about them.It's more "What's in it for me?" than "What can I offer?" I've enjoyed 11 years of awareness of my mate's complete fulfillment, as well as my own, but I know my license doesn't carry a guarantee. We both use a lot of TLC to keep the motor running. — TRIED IT AND LIKE IT

DEAR HELEN:

In our modern, two-career marriage, we're friends and equals as well as lovers. We share the housework, the raising of our children. We discuss our jobs, the home, the world and our kids with equal vigor — and the children join in. We have mutual respect for one another, and few jealousies. Our "freedom" holds us together.

My husband knows about the other men in my life. We told each other most of our so-called secrets before we were married — this i part of our honesty, and we haven't mentioned them since.

Is my husband embarrassed when friends find him mopping the kitchen? No more than I am embarrassed when they see me putting up the storm windows or waxing his car. This isn't a "his-hers" household — but "ours." — HAPPY MODERN

How To Avoid Those Foreign Travel Bugs

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Ten recommendations for advance planning that can be helpful in avoiding physical discomfort or health problems while traveling abroad, especially to senior citizens, have been prepared by Dr. Albert H. Domm, medical director of an insurance company.

Dr. Domm, an experienced world traveler, said that arrangements made in advance with airlines and the family physician can eliminate most potential travel hazards and discomforts for older persons.

His recommendations start with the simple item of packing. He suggests that travelers should not pack luggage so heavy that they cannot easily lift it.

"Hurrying from point to point with overly heavy luggage should be avoided," he said. "Frequently you may have to carry it yourself, risking various types of strains.

"Use caution in boarding planes, trains and busses. When on a plane, keep your seat belt fastened. You can encounter unexpected turbulence even in the clearest weather.

"IF YOU NEED special accommodations on the plane, check well in advance with the airline's customer service department or tour manager."

Dr. Domm said that despite the comments of the average traveler, it is not necessary or advisable to gain weight while traveling.

"If necessary, you can arrange special diets with airlines and hotels," he said.

As for foreign foods, taste them, but don't overeat, he cautions. To this he adds a similar caution about drinking alcoholic beverages.

"Avoid excesses while traveling, just as you should do at home," he said.

Under the heading of fruits, vegetables and water, Dr. Domm recommends staying with the provisions of the airlines and hotels.

"Eating fruit off a vendor's stand is courting disaster," he said. "You are about as safe as playing Russian roulette.

"Water in most well traveled countries can generally be depended upon, especially in your hotel. However, if you leave the beaten path, don't drink water unless it's boiled or treated with purification tablets."

SENIOR CITIZENS who are normally on some type of medication should see their family physician about several important items, according to Dr. Domm. Even though it may not be required, he suggests immunization against small pox, typhoid and tetanus. In some cases the traveler will want shots for yellow fever and other rare diseases.

Another recommendation is that a goodly supply of regular medications be taken along as well as cold pills, antibiotics and something suggested by the family physician for indigestion, motion sickness and diarrhea.

ON BEING BLACK

'Write On' Says The Columnist

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Receiving mail is always an engaging, if not slightly suspenseful, experience. You never know if it's a warm note from an elderly relative, a letter from your best friend who has expatriated and is having some second thoughts about the act, colorful campaign literature or an overdue bill.

Being a columnist — a black columnist, particularly — and often dealing with the ever emotional racial issue, the mail can be tremendously moving, figuratively as well as physically.

From the mailbox:

The National Socialist White People's Party sends two "Back to Africa" boat tickets, via the Coon-ard lines. Each ticket entitles one nigger to: (1) Free trip to Africa on luxury liner — boat is shaped like Cadillac with fins. (2) NAACP members may sit up front. (3) Barrel of axle grease for hair — delicately scented with nigger sweat. (4) Framed picture of Eleanor Roosevelt and Harry Golden. (5) Twist to Martin Luther Coon's jazz band. (6) Chicken coop and watermelon patch on deck — left unguarded at night. (7) Plenty of wine, marijuana, heroin and other refreshments.

FROM WASHINGTON: "Your column sometimes entertains me, frequently informs me and often disturbs me. Your column moves me to feel things and think thoughts that I might not otherwise experience. Thank you."

From Los Angeles: "When I read of the crimes on our streets and then read your column about nigger hostesses, it makes my blood boil. Concentration camps are the only solution to this country's nigger problem!"

From Pennsylvania: "Sometimes I almost gag on 'Haggerty' as she attempts to tell it. But I do continue to read. That, after all, may be the best test. However, I must tell you that I did enjoy 'Wheels Is Wheels.' I have renamed my new Oldsmobile — Olds WCB — that means Oldsmobile with coupon book."

From Washington: "You are, without a doubt, the worst racist writing for the American press today!"

From Sid Smith: A copy of his new book, "A Stoned Nigger and Turned Out." Most blacks will recognize Travis Lacey, main man in the book. His adventures, unfortunately, are terribly familiar to inner-city dwellers.

From Texas: "Just a note to ask for the phone number of that beautiful black prostitute you wrote about recently. Please send to my office address. Thanking you in advance . . ."

FROM OREGON: "I'm white, but would like very much to be your sister. We share much in common. I, too, have three young daughters and a 'live-in coach'!"

From California: "How dare you say such things about the nursing profession! If ever there was a profession whose ethics are beyond reproach . . ."

From Illinois: "Please do not print my name as I cannot afford to lose my job, but I am an LVN and would like to tell you about some of the attitudes and actions that exist among the nurses I work with . . ."

From Wisconsin: "Everything you write about has already been done over and over again. I'm canceling my subscription to this rag!"

From Indiana: "From one writer to another, I know there is nothing new under the sun. I enjoy the way you give an old idea a contemporary twist."

Vows Are Repeated At St. Edward's

Wednesday evening nuptials at St. Edward the Confessor Church in San Francisco was the setting for the wedding of Sharon Clarke Smith of San Francisco and Edward (Jed) Dickinson Bullard of San Francisco.

Mrs. Peter Working and Janet Cooley were the honor attendants. The bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister, Elizabeth Bullard, and Tulika Kuchins and Sheila Moore.

Carlyle Black served as best man, and the ushers were Brian Bullard, Jed's brother; Dane Durham, Paul Erickson, Layne Lisser, Theodore Marconi, Michael Milwee and Ramsay Wiesenfeld.

Assisting the priest was Rev. Harold Hallett of St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ward Miller Smith of San Francisco and the late Mr. Smith. She is a graduate of Santa Catalina School for Girls in Monterey and the University of California where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. She made her bow at the Cotillion in 1968 and has been a member of the Spinsters.

Jed is the son of Mrs. Edward Wheatley Bullard of Ross and the late Mr. Bullard. He is a graduate of Redwood High School and the University of California and is employed with the E. D. Bullard Co. in Sausalito. He is the grandson of Mrs. Edward W. Bullard Jr. and the brother of Elizabeth and Brian Bullard and Mrs. Anthony Turrietta.

The wedding reception was held at the Bohemian Club in San Francisco. After a short Northern California wedding trip the couple will live in San Francisco. They plan a European trip in September.

Assistance Guild Of Marin Elects Officers

Mrs. Herbert Arthur Crocker of San Rafael, a charter member of the Assistance Guild of Marin County, has been elected president for the coming club year.

The guild's project is the assistance of Marin County drug abuse programs.

"Our organization is a branch of the National Assistance League and our purpose is to assist with services tailored to the urgent needs of the community in which the chapter operates," Lilli Crocker explained.

Members serve drug rehabilitation centers, Center Point and Marin Open House, both financially by providing them with meals and companionship. Mrs. Crocker said that members are hoping to expand the drug prevention services by showing educational films about the abuse of drugs to junior high school students.

"With true information and perhaps a former addict to answer the pupils' questions about drugs, we hope to keep children from starting a drug habit," she said.

Fund raising plans are to open a thrift shop, sponsor a performance of the Ross Valley Players and repeat last year's successful wine tasting party.

Women of any age who are willing to give service are eligible to join.

Mrs. Crocker was born and educated in Denmark. She attended private schools and the University of Copenhagen. She is also a member of the Supreme Lodge of the Danish Sisterhood of America and is active with the San Francisco Bay Girl Scouts and the Volunteer Transportation Corps of the American Cancer Society. She has lived in Marin for seven years.

The wife of a San Rafael business man, Mrs. Crocker has a daughter, Anette Eir, 14, and three step-children, Arthur, Kathy and Diane Crocker.

Mrs. Crocker enjoys poetry, music and art.

"My talent is not in creating any of these beautiful things but in the art of enjoying them," Mrs. Crocker said. "I collect paints with my husband for ourselves and for the public because we select the art works for the Crocker Galleries."

Other hobbies of the new president are swimming, golf and hiking, and she said she has been riding a bicycle for so long she will probably continue until she is 80. She also enjoys traveling, growing flowers in containers, her fish, cats and German Shepherd dog and studying occultism.

New Ruling On Aspirin Sales

Aspirin must be sold in child-proof containers beginning Aug. 15 under a ruling by the Food and Drug Administration.

According to the FDA, aspirin is the leading cause of poisoning of children under 5 years of age.

Containers must be unopenable by 85 per cent of a testing group of 200 children under 5. Packages not meeting the standard must bear the warning, "This package for households without young children."

New Look In Wall Accessories

School's P-TA Leader Picked

Mrs. Gordon Walker has been elected president of the San Jose Junior High School Parent- Teacher Association in Novato.

Other officers are Mrs. Christian Krabbe, first vice president; Don Thoemke, second vice president; Mmes. Stanley Mertel, secretary; Merle Stafford, treasurer; Alfred Silva, historian; Mr. Fred Loback, auditor; and Mrs. Arnold Baptiste, parliamentarian and newsletter chairman.

Tip To Travelers

Some of National Family Opinion's 100,000 homemaker consultants agree that the following tip will make your vacation by car less hectic: take along a 12-pocket shoe bag and hang it on the back of the front seat. It can hold maps, newspapers, washcloths, towels, soaps, fruits and snacks.

Summer Shoes

Women's shoes for summer offer all options. Flat no-heeled ballet looks, towering platforms and wedgies, high heels and sandals — all are available for the summer.

Dennis L. Matzen Is Betrothed To Camilla Harris

The engagement of Camilla Harris and Dennis L. Matzen, both of Petaluma, has been announced. The couple plans to be married next year.

Camilla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harris of Petaluma, is a senior at Petaluma High School. She is the sister of Alfred, Annetta and David Harris of Petaluma.

Dennis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Matzen of Petaluma and the twin brother of Diane Fuller. He is also the brother of Norman Matzen of San Jose and Harold Matzen of Petaluma. He is a Petaluma High School graduate and is serving with the Air Force in Mississippi.

Club Leaders To Attend San Francisco Meeting

Presidents and chairmen from Marin clubs will join those from San Francisco and San Mateo counties for the Golden Gate District, California Federation of Women's Clubs for a summer conference June 30.

The group will meet at DiMaggio's restaurant at Fisherman's Wharf at 10 a.m. for workshops, a noon luncheon and conference and convention reports.

Mrs. Walter C. Thomson of Sausalito, is the district recording secretary. Mrs. Arthur Luchetti of San Francisco, formerly of Corte Madera will lead a workshop on finance. Mrs. Luchetti is the state director of finance for the federation. Other workshops will cover press, amenities and leadership.

Mrs. John D. Atkinson, new president of Golden Gate District, will introduce the newly elected president of the Marin, San Mateo and San Francisco clubs, She will also discuss fall activities planned by the district.

SHOWCASE FOR LOOT — A San Anselmo woman searches for her stolen radio while police talk to other burglary victims. They were seeking their belongings yesterday among more than $60,000 worth of burglary loot found in the home of David Richard Massagli, who was arrested on a burglary charge Monday. In addition to the miscellany of air conditioners, tools and appliances in the main display room, other rooms contained jewelry, cameras, books and rock collections. The display will continue through tomorrow so victims can identify property.

Kill Plan Called A Joke

By LARRY MOWELL

Una Mettam insisted today in Marin Superior Court that her effort to hire a man to kill her husband was all a joke begun by a friend of hers.

Under cross-examination by Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino, the 42-year-old former accounting clerk at San Quentin continually told the jury that she thought the whole thing was a joke and did not know why she was being arrested when sheriff's officers picked up her Jan. 14.

Under direct examination yesterday she said John A. Pedroli, a San Rafael mechanic, had given her the name of Marino Guerra, who operates anservice station in Ignacio, as a possible executioner.

She quoted Pedroli as saying "tell him I sent you, you'll get it at cost."

Pedroli, a prosecution witness, has denied he made the suggestion.

Mrs. Mettam said she and a friend, San Quentin Correctional Sgt. Stan Laffsa, often kidded Pedroli about possible Mafia connections because of his Italian name and she thought his suggestion to see Marino Guerra in Ignacio was also a joke.

"I think it was a joke because of the way he said it to me.", she said. "Because we had kidded about it so much I never thought it was anything but a joke."

She said she went along with the "joke" by asking Guerra to set up an auto accident for her estranged husband, a San Francisco cab driver. She admitted following that up by delivering a picture of her husband and his daily schedule.

She said she did it "because I didn't want to let Johnny down. He evidently planned this little joke on me and I'd never do anything to hurt him."

She said she was unsure whether Laffsa knew about the joke and Laffsa said yesterday he knew nothing about it. He did say the Mafia joke was common and the three often joked about doing away with Frank Mettam as well as Laffsa's ex-wife.

Sheriff's Inspector Harry E. Bock, who made the arrest, also said yesterday that she claimed the whole thing was a joke when she was arrested.

Mill Valley Tax Rate Could Drop

By JAY GOODWIN

To its surprise, the Mill Valley City Council last night learned that an unexpected increase in the city's assessed valuation makes possible a drop in the proposed tax rate without cutting the 1972-1973 budget.

According to Mayor Jean S. Barnard, the assessed value of property was increased by the county assessor's office by 9 per cent this year, rather than 2 per cent. The increased assessment makes possible a reduction in the city's present tax rate of $2.88 per $100 assessed valuation.

The revelation split the council on what should be done with the unexpected revenue.

Mrs. Barnard, Councilmen Edward J. Boessenecker and Robert E. Capron called for a drop in the tax rate, if such a reduction could be accomplished without a drop in total city revenues.

Councilman Robert E. Burton opposed a reduction in the tax rate, saying; "There are crying needs in this city. To talk about reducing our rate when we've never had enough money to do anything, just doesn't make any sense."

Burton told the Independent-Journal today that he favors a fixed tax rate of $3, which would enable the city to accumulate enough money to fund unexpected expenses.

Mrs. Barnard, disagreeing, said, "If the increased assessment came from a broadened tax base — like new industry — we could enjoy the windfall. But since it comes from the increase in valuation of our own residents homes, we must adjust the tax rate downwards to compensate."

The council instructed City Mgr. William H. Cunningham to supply them with revised figures, based on the recent assessments, by its next budget session Tuesday.

Moving to other accounts, the council approved the budget for community promotion, after adding $100 for the city's art commission. The $4,900 total for community promotion included the controversial expenditure of $3,500 for the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The council also approved the expenditure of all remaining funds from the June 1971 sewer bond issue. After reviewing proposed sewer projects on hand, the council determined that it would need to raise an additional $75,000 to cover construction costs.

According to Mrs. Barnard, a sewer service charge will be considered by the council as a means to raise the necessary funds.

Reviewing the city engineering budget, the council rejected — for the third year in a row — a proposal to establish an engineering department in the city. Instead, the council approved a budget of $11,100 to hire Stanley M. Bala, as a part-time engineering consultant.

In Wednesday night's review session the council tentatively agreed to hire three new city employees, including an associate planner, a groundskeeper and a recreation supervisor.

Cunningham said employment of the planner will increase the city's planning department staff to five employees and add $9,000 to the planning budget for nine months of salary, since recruitment will take three months.

The council also agreed to spend $15,000 for a consultant to develop a master plan for the city.

No salaries were established for the proposed groundskeeper or recreation supervisors which will both be included in the city's parks and recreation budget, according to Cunningham.

The council also agreed to add $14,870 to the library budget, bringing that proposed spending program to approximately $160,500. Those funds were added, Cunningham said, because the library board (which he said has much autonomy in budget matters) had provided salaries for only 11 months for library employees during the current year and spent the money originally budgeted last year for the 12th month for other purposes.

Accord On Security Cutback

Marin's judges huddled yesterday with the sheriff to discuss the effects of cutbacks in security at the Hall of Justice and decided to give relaxed security a chance, according to one superior court judge.

Judge E. Warren McGuire said his colleagues laid to rest — at least temporarily — their thinly veiled threat to restore by court order the existing network of guards and electronic devices if the Marin County Board of Supervisors dropped protection from the budget.

He said Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos described what security will remain as a result of the board's compromise with the judges and the judges were satisfied to give it a try.

On the previous day, McGuire had warned supervisors that the judges have "inherent rights" to provide security for their courts and, with his colleagues, urged continued tight security for the next six months until the San Quentin Six case is finished.

Supervisors complained of the cost and violation of civil liberties inherent in the search procedure, but finally compromised.

They cut checkpoints and searches at entrances to the Civic Center complex and reduced the security force by 11 of its 26 deputies, but said full security can be restored for "sensitive trials" like the one scheduled for six San Quentin inmates charged with murder during an escape attempt at the prison last year.

McGuire warned that if the relaxed system doesn't work, the judges could still order the existing system restored.

Topic Of Talk

Star Observers of Marin will hear a talk called "Black Holes in the Sky" on Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. building, Second and Brooks streets, San Rafael. The speaker is Kevin Lesko a junior instructor at Redwood High School.

A 'THIEF'S MARKET'

Hub Residents Recover Articles

By JEFF GREER

A three-day "thief's market" staged by the San Anselmo Police Department is doing a thriving business in an old bank building at 323 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near the Hub. It will continue through 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Nearly 100 residents from the Morningside Court area of northern San Anselmo browsed yesterday among an estimated $60,000 to $70,000 in loot on display, looking for their own belongings.

The strange hoard, apparently collected during more than 50 burglaries since 1968, was found Monday in the home of David Richard Massagli, 33, of 23 Brookside Drive.

Massagli, free on $2,500 bail, has been ordered to appear Aug. 1 in Marin Municipal Court for preliminary hearing on a single count of burglary and one of obstructing an officer. Police said they are certain he was responsible for scores of nighttime thefts in a 10-block radius around his home. Massagli denied the accusation in court at his arraignment Wednesday.

Investigators claim Massagli, who does not drive, hauled the loot to his home with only a wheelbarrow or handtruck. Some of the burglary victims are finding they need pickups or larger trucks to cart their property home.

Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani presided jovially yesterday over the "thief's market," dapper in a bright blue policeman's riot suit. He said that more than 20 residents had recovered their belongings by midafternoon.

"There's my old gun," exclaimed Charles J. Mitten of Mill Valley.

"I used to shoot squirrels in Vermont with this," he said, fondling the ancient .22-caliber rifle.

The rifle, a bulky stereo phonograph, silver tableware, a flute and many other items were identified as stolen in January from the home of Mitten's in-laws, the William B. Allens of 30 Broadmoore Avenue, San Anselmo.

Ironically, police arrested Massagli before dawn Monday, hiding in the kitchen of the same home, apparently on a return visit. He had gathered a box of foodstuffs, police said.

Allen died in February, and the home was later rented.

Other browsers looked askance at a plastic bag containing marijuana and peyote, found in Massagli's house. Investigators said it also was loot and that there was no evidence Massagli experimented with drugs.

"Naturally, nobody reported this stuff was stolen," one officer said, laughing.

Dr. Gordon L. Chan, College of Marin biologist, and his wife were among the busiest visitors to the police display. They made two pickup-truck trips to recover a television set, boxes of books, fossils, seashells, rock and coin collections and other belongings. Chan said that a freezer full of frozen food taken from his home and camper also was found at the Massagli residence.

Visitors repeatedly said "I just can't understand it," or "it's weird," as they inspected the rows of television sets, power mowers, radios, cameras and handtools arrayed on the floor and shelves. Many said they found it unbelievable that the thief never sold any of the loot.

Investigators uncovered San Francisco police records indicating that Massagli was arrested for petty theft and a battle with a police officer in the Richmond District in 1963, before he moved to San Anselmo.

His mother, who lives in the Brookside Drive home with Massagli, works in a San Francisco hospital. He is unemployed.

Officers said they encountered more than two dozen cats while combing the Massagli home for loot. Cats and stolen goods were found in every room.

While Police Inspector Bernard Del Santo was arranging the display Wednesday in the rented building, a waggish neighborhood businessman sneaked up and posted a large sign outside the door that drew an early crowd of visitors.

After Del Santo and other officers had to shoo a number of early-bird "customers" away, they discovered the sign, which read:

"Del Santo's Flea Market."

Duplex Plans Win Approval

Plans for five duplexes were approved last night by the Cotati Planning Commission.

Developer Lyle White agreed to conform to requirements for more landscaping for the apartments at Sierra and Valparaiso avenues.

In other business, the commission approved the request of Reliance Trailer Manufacturing for a new building for repairs and sales on the westside of Highway 101 on Laguna De Santa Rosa.

Brusatori Says Quentin Guard's Gunfire Story Unfounded

A San Quentin guard's story of exchanging gunfire with a man on Lincoln Avenue early yesterday was unfounded, San Rafael Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori said today.

Brusatori said his investigators are conferring with the district attorney's office over possible prosecution of the guard, Ronald Gordon Brown, 30, either for discharging a firearm within city limits or for giving a false report.

A flurry of gunfire in the 1700 block of Lincoln Avenue awakened neighbors at 2:40 a.m. Brown told San Rafael police that he had been driving home from duty at the prison, when he saw a man fire two shots at him from the driveway of the Colonial Motel at 1735 Lincoln Avenue, then flee. Brown said he took a semiautomatic pistol from beneath his car seat and fired nine shots in return.

Police were unable to find any trace of an assailant or evidence that Brown had been shot at, and the guard then changed his story, Brusatori said today. The chief said the guard, on the pretext of having been shot at, emptied his own weapon into the air on Lincoln Avenue to reinforce his request for a permit to carry a concealed weapon.

Brusatori said police files indicated that Brown was involved in a rifle episode on the roof of a Lincoln Avenue apartment building before dawn on July 9, 1971. Police responding to neighbors' complaints of firecrackers or gunshots ordered Brown off the roof. He complied, and officers then found a rifle he had left on the roof.

The report said Brown at the time told officers he had been having trouble with ex-convicts living in the building.

San Quentin authorities will review the police reports on yesterday's episode to determine if any disciplinary action will be taken against Brown, according to Joseph R. O'Brien, prison information officer.

Postal Safety

LONDON (UPI) —Britain's government-owned post office says its 430,000 employees worked so safely in 1971 there was only one accident leading to time off for every 100,000 hours of work.

ENCHANTING

On a ¾ acre knoll with an unobstructable view from every room of the low hills and Bay, there is a charming way of life waiting for the discriminating buyer. The redwood exterior and shake roof set a feeling of warmth and informality which continues thruout the interior of the home. Oregon pine walls and high beam ceilings are in the dining room and living room featuring a fireplace of Sonoma stone. The pine is repeated in the family kitchen with its Spanish tile counter, used brick island stove covered by a huge copper hood with a brick BBQ and raised fireplace and a complete wet bar. 2 bedrooms, and 2 baths, tastefully decorated, complete this small home. Low maintenance makes the gardening very enjoyable. Exclusive. $74,500.

North All-Stars Edge South Nine At Albert Park

By LEW CODDINGTON

The people living near B Street in San Rafael were no doubt baffled last night to see a bunch of guys wandering around in baseball suits at 11:30 — but they weren't anywhere near as baffled as the guys themselves.

Those 27 individuals had just completed a mind-boggling exhibition of drama, pathos, comedy and (occasionally) baseball. For the record, the North defeated the South, 2-1, in the third annual Knights of Columbus prep all-star game at Albert Park.

About the only sane thing to transpire all night was the awarding of three $600 college scholarships by the sponsoring K of C. The awards went to Marcia Jewhurst of Novato High School, Mickey Hurley of Marin Catholic and Mark Blaze of Terra Linda.

There were heroics, of course. Marty Moroski of Novato chopped an infield single with one out in the 12th inning to score Gary Burns of San Rafael from second with the winning run. Burns had singled, stolen second and advanced to third on a passed ball.

Moroski was the winning pitcher as well, thus redeeming himself for the transgression of allowing the South to tie the game in the bottom of the ninth, which was supposed to have been the final inning.

John Billings of Drake, the Marin County Athletic League's leading hitter during the season but mired in a wicked 0-for-7 slump in post-season all-star games, singled sharply to right to score Scott Cozza of Marin Catholic with the tying run.

Dirk Gansloser of San Rafael, who hit two singles and a double and scored the North's first run on a triple by Brian Wall of Terra Linda, was named most valuable player by a consensus of the two coaches and the official scorer.

It is possible, however, that the most valuable player was really Don Bianchini, since they re-wrote the rule book for him.

The versatile Marin Catholic ace started at third base, but was removed in the fifth inning so he could warm up to pitch. Bob Brown of Redwood was inserted.

The re-entry rule used during the MCAL season was not in effect for this game, so South coach Dick Creighton of Drake had to do some fast talking to North coach Ron Butori of San Maric to get Bianchini back in. Amazingly, Brown also stayed, and switched spots in the batting order to boot!

Creighton could be excused. He had a roster of only 12 players following the professional signings of Clifford Hall of Tamalpais and Al Curtiss of Drake and the absence of Scott Barrie of Redwood.

As the game went into extra innings, total re-entry was allowed. Thus, North starter Mike Lamb of Novato ended up with a save, and South starter Jim Petray of Marin Catholic lost in relief.

The base running was almost as confusing as the substitutions. In the eighth, South baserunner Pete Arbios of Marin Catholic brushed an infielder trying to play a ground ball,

Cubs' Coaching Move; The Phoebus Curve

CHICAGO — Illness forced Pete Reiser to take a rest last week. So Leo Durocher became his own third base coach. The day after the Cub manager moved from the dugout to the line the Cubs went on a seven-game winning streak, ended Wednesday by the Giants, 4-0.

Of course, the streak of the Cubs was directly attributable to the Reiser-Durocher switch. It would be unthinkable to attribute it to anything else.

Wrigley Field fans have forgiven Durocher minor indiscretions in the past but they'd never forgive him if he rested his 66-year-old legs and the Cub streak suddenly ended Thurs.

The intriguing coincidence of the Cub streak and the Reiser-Durocher switch makes much more interesting reading than the mundane facts behind the streak. Nevertheless, here are the boring details behind the streak. They can be summed up in two words: Tom Phoebus.

In his last 23 relief innings, Phoebus has allowed only one earned run. That was in Candlestick Park June 11 when he faced the Giants for the second time this season.

WHEN PHOEBUS faced them the first time April 18 he still was with the San Diego Padres. Phoebus started that April 18 game and he couldn't control his curve (six walks). When he went to his fast ball, the Giants whacked it and Phoebus was a 5-1 loser.

The day after that loss, the Padres sold Phoebus' contract to the Cubs. Whatever Larry Jansen, ex-Giant pitching coach who now is the Cub pitching coach, taught Phoebus, the stocky 5-8, 190, righthander learned his lessons well. Phoebus now gets the curve over.

PHOEBUS MADE his third appearance of the season Monday in the just concluded Cub-Giant series. That was in the series opener that went 11 innings. He blanked the Giants from the fifth through the ninth on two hits, one walk and four strikeouts.

Phoebus' relief record with the Cubs is most impressive — three earned runs in his last 33 innings. With a stopper like that, the Cubs don't have to rely on superstitious stuff.

Phoebus is a calm performer. He should be, with his experience that includes a 1970 World Series win for the Baltimore Orioles whose pitching rich staff permitted them to trade Phoebus to the Padres in 1971.

When he broke in with the Orioles in 1967 he led the Baltimore staff with a 14-9 record and was named American League Rookie Pitcher of the Year. He made his first major league relief appearance July 2, 1969, following 88 consecutive starts with Baltimore, including a no-hitter against Boston April 27, 1968.

THUS, PHOEBUS could smoothly move into a spot starting assignment for the Cubs if they need a spot starter later in the season when the pennant race in the National League East approaches the sticky stage.

But for the time being, Durocher wouldn't think of putting Phoebus in a Cub starting role. The Lip will be back in the Cub dugout before that happens.

OUT AT FIRST — Stretching Scott Cozza of Marin Catholic High School took the throw to retire Novato High's Bill Busher in the second inning of last night's North-South All-Star Baseball game at Albert Park in San Rafael. Busher's North team beat Cozza's South squad in 12 innings, 2-1.

Giants In San Diego Tonight

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Sam McDowell, who admits he's slower but wiser than a few years ago, shoots for his ninth win of the season tonight against the Padres.

The 28-year-old lefthander of the San Francisco Giants opens a three-game series between the cellar-dwelling teams in the National League West.

"I can't throw as hard as I could two years ago," said McDowell, "but I think I'm a smarter pitcher now. I'm trying to throw what the hitters aren't expecting.

McDowell, who will be facing right-hander Steve Arlin, 6-6, tonight in a televised game on Channel 2, at 7:30, also commented on his catcher, Dave Rader. "He didn't know much about calling a game at the start of the season. But he's really come along."

HAMILTON VS. RYAN

A's Host Angels Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) — Losing half a game to the Chicago White Sox because of idleness, the Oakland Athletics swing back into action tonight against the California Angels.

Rookie Dave Hamilton, sporting an unblemished 4-0 record, matches serves with Nolan Ryan (6-5) in the opener. Vida Blue (1-3) of the A's hurls Saturday against Clyde Wright (7-3).

While the A's were enjoying an off day Thursday, the White Sox took the measure of Milwaukee, 5-2, to cut Oakland's lead atop the American League West from four games to 3 1-2 over the runnerup White Sox.

So far on the current homestand, the A's are 5-4. First baseman Mike Epstein of the Athletics gives much of the credit for the A's winning habit to manager Dick Williams.

"It's the little things we do, by Dick's direction, that have us going so good," said Epstein. "If we don't execute properly, we damn well hear about it."

The Athletics announced Thursday they have signed their first draft choice in this year's free agent draft.

Suburban Wins Title

Suburban Auto Repair of San Rafael last night clinched the championship of the San Francisco Spring "A" softball league by defeating Leland of San Francisco, 11-1, behind the one-hit pitching of Joe Nystrom.

MEN'S 35 SINGLES

Tennis Upsets In Mill Valley

There was mist in the air and mystery on the courts yesterday in Mill Valley, and three seeded players will have a full year to think about how they should have solved the latter.

In the National Men's 35 Hardcourt Tennis Championships at the Mill Valley Tennis Club, three seeded players were eliminated from singles competition — including the No. 1 seed, Don Kierbow of Carmichael.

The doubles were more predictable, as all eight top-rated teams won their opening matches. Play in singles and doubles continues through Sunday.

Unseeded Don Gale of Mountain View, seeking to regain the title he won in 1967, sent Kierbow to the sidelines in two steady sets, 7-5, 6-3.

Defending champion Kierbow just got out of the hospital nine days ago, and Gale exploited his physical weakness by using a strategy aimed at making Kierbow run.

Heavy mist and light drizzle in Mill Valley almost forced postponement of the day's matches. Leoncito Collas of Carmel and Jim Nelson wish it had.

The seventh-seeded Collas was elminated by Jerry De Witts of Santa Barbara, 6-4, 6-4, and the eighth-ranked Nelson of Los Angeles was ousted by Fred Hagist of Bakersfield, 6-0, 6-4.

Second-seeded Jim Landin of Littleton, Colo., almost suffered the same fate, but won a tie-breaker in the third set to defeat Gil Rodriguez of Honolulu, 6-3, 4-6, 7-6.

Fourth-seeded Whitney Reed

Striped Bass Creel Census In Summer

By AL GIDDINGS

The Department of Fish and Game sent me a notice that the striped bass creel census will be taken again this summer in the San Francisco-San Pablo Bay area. All weekends and holidays will be check days.

Three weekdays (Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday) will also be checked. The census will begin in late June and extend into November or December. Census clerks will be in field uniform and will be stationed at the following docks: Sausalito (Caruso's), Gashouse Cove, Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco, Berkeley, Rodeo, and Dowvellio's. Both party boats and skiffs will be sampled. In addition, one man will be roving at random. Thanks for your co-operation.

A report recently released by Leo Shapovalov, a senior fisheries biologist and Ron Pelzman, an assistant biologist, both of the Department of Fish and Game reads: Thoughts of trophy sized fish have long stirred the imaginations of fishermen. Many anglers spend countless hours of fishing, often enduring soul-depressing weather and post fishing feminine harassment, with the thought in mind that maybe they'll catch "that big one." Nearly every angler has a story about the big one that got away. What happens when "the big one" doesn't get away? When an angler lands a fish too big for his creel, his thoughts should turn to proper verification, certified scales, and a couple of witnesses. Many fish have not found their way into the record books only because of a lack of such thinking. Too often the angler takes pictures of his catch, or his picture appears in the newspaper, but he does little else. Many large fish are digested before the angler considers the record book.

When an angler takes a large fish he should make every effort to have his catch verified as to species and weight by a fisheries biologist from the Dept. of Fish and Game. Verification can be arranged by contacting one of the department's regional offices (Department of Fish & Game, Region Three, Yountville, Napa County for this area). If a biologist is not immediately available, the angler should (1) weigh the fish on scales certified by the State of California (butcher scales, market scales, bait shop scales, etc.) (2) take at least one clear photograph of the fish, (3) freeze it until a biologist can verify identification.

A good idea, and a requirement for the magazine Field and Stream's annual fishing contest entries is to prepare an affidavit which includes pertinent information as well as signatures of the individuals who witnessed the weighing. The aforementioned contest, and the California Fish and Game Commission's Trophy Award Program are two of the various contests in which fish may be entered. Information on the Commission's Contest may be obtained by writing the California Fish and Game Commission at 1416-9th St., Sacramento.

The present California Inland water records are extremely interesting. The largest rainbow trout (includes steelhead) weighed 23 pounds, 4 ounces, it was caught in the Smith River on January 7, 1971.

A cutthroat trout that weighed 31 pounds, 8 ounces was caught in Lake Tahoe in 1911.

An Eastern brook trout that weighed 9 pounds, 12 ounces was caught in Silver Lake, Mono County in 1932.

The record Golden trout weighed 9 pounds, 8 ounces (dressed). It was caught in Virginia Lake in Fresno County.

The largest Lake Trout weighed 35 pounds, 8 ounces and was caught in Lake Tahoe in 1970.

And the largest carp weighed 52 pounds and was taken from Nacimiento Lake in San Luis Obispo County in 1968.

The sturgeon record was 293 pounds, taken from San Pablo Bay in 1970 by Glen Claypool of Richmond. This record may have been broken this year by a 405-pound sturgeon.

Did you note that many of these records were recently set? There's room for your name even if it's for a bluegill. The record bluegill weighed 2 pounds, 9 ounces and was registered by Willie Mae McKinney of Los Angeles. It came from Middle Legg Lake in Los Angeles.

Federal Commission Opposed By Rozelle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle was scheduled to appear today before the Committee on Commerce of the U.S. Senate, which is holding hearings on the advisability of creating a federal sports commission.

According to an advance text of this statement, Rozelle was to tell the commission that each sport is intrinsically different than the others and "it would simply not be possible to establish rules which could be applied fairly and reasonably to sports in general."

Rozelle also denied that professional sports could be termed "Big Business."

"The reality is that professional sports are, in economic terms, very small business indeed," the text read. "There has not, for example, been a year in the history of pro football when the gross income of all 26 NFL clubs in the aggregate amounted to the gross income of a department store like Woodward and Lothrop's here in Washington.

"I don't want to overdo this point —and I know it is not the total answer to the concept of a federal sports commission—but it is quite likely that professional football, one of the more successful professional sports, ranks somewhere behind the shoelace industry in economic terms."

In discussing the differences among sports, Rozelle said, "In terms of their needs, their income sources, their contract requirements and their business practices, one professional sport bears about as much relationship to another as the movie business does to the television business."

AT BERKELEY

2 Redwood Net Stars Victorious

Henry Jacobson and Dan Tierney, teammates on Redwood High School's dynastic tennis team, may end up fierce rivals on the court if they keep winning.

Each triumphed yesterday in the boys 16 division of the Pacific Coast Junior Championships at the Berkeley Tennis Club. Jacobson trampled Mark Weisbart, 6-2, 6-2, while Tierney chopped up Andy Finn, 6-1, 6-1.

If they keep winning, they'll eventually play each other, something that happened to two Marin girls in the same tournament yesterday.

3 San Rafael Racers Rate In Petaluma

Three drivers from San Rafael and two more from Petaluma are ranked among the top ten point-earners in the modified sportsman automobile racing at Petaluma Speedway.

The San Rafael drivers are Gary Ramsier, fifth with 328 points; Kirk Edison, seventh at 278, and Roy Victor, tenth at 186. Petalumans are Larry Schlee, third and 331, and Fred Helberg, sixth at 312. Bill Brown of Pittsburgh leads with 354 and his son Keith trails at 340.

John Butler of Petaluma ranks second in the stock car standings at 315. Another Petaluman, Al Stack, is fourth at 268. Leader is Conrad Cavallero of Santa Rosa, 330.

The racing season is approximately at its halfway point, and Speedway officials consider the point races the closest in many years.

Netter Gonzalez Disqualified In London Tourney

LONDON (UPI) — American "Pancho" Gonzalez was disqualified today in the men's singles semi-finals of the London Grass Courts tennis championship during his match with Britain's John Aish.

Following an argument with the umpire, service linesman and finally the referee in the sixth game of his second set, Gonzalez picked up his rackets and walked off.

Referee Mrs. Bea Seal said "I have disqualified Gonzalez for refusing to play on." She refused to make further comment.

The Giants and Dodgers Rivalry

By MILTON RICHMAN

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — No man is an island, but in one respect Charley (Chub) Feeney comes close.

He is the only person among all those I spoke with who claims that classic old rivalry between the Giants and Dodgers hasn't lost a thing. He says it's as intense as it ever was back in those days when the clubs operated in New York and Brooklyn.

In those days, Feeney was the Giants' vice president and first assistant to his uncle, Horace Stoneham.

These days he's president of the National League, and league presidents have always made public statements in support of their clubs since time immemorial but Feeney insists that isn't so in this case.

While everybody else agrees the rivalry between the Giants and the Dodgers is like the old gray mare, not anything what it used to be, Feeney goes the other way.

"I don't think anything ever happened to that rivalry. I'd have to say it's within 2 per cent as strong as it has ever been,". he insists.

"That feeling is still there, among the fans and the players," says Feeney. "You still have that tension when the two clubs get together. I mean it. I think people in the East are away from it so they get the idea the rivalry has diminished, but actually it hasn't."

Chub Feeney, feeling the way he does, amounts to something like a minority of one.

The Giants-Dodgers' rivalry, one which sometimes reached epic proportions in both Ebbets Field and the Polo Grounds, certainly doesn't come equipped with all the steam, all the fire, it had before the clubs moved out to California 14 years ago.

For those who like to sit there and soak themselves in nostalgia, the Giants and Dodgers played the first major league game ever on the west coast here in old Seals Stadium, which is a parking lot now, and Ruben Gomez shut out the Dodgers, 8-0, in April of 1958.

Dick O'Connor of tha Palo Alto Times, who covered that ball game that day, says the predominant feeling among the 22,000 fans in the stands that day wasn't so much that they were sitting in on any great rivalry as it was that they still couldn't believe major league baseball had really come to the coast.

Those 22,000 fans in Seals Stadium represented capacity.

To give you some idea of what has happened to the rivalry, only 10,098 showed up in 45,000-capacity Candlestick Park for the last game played between the Giants and Dodgers here three weeks ago.

Among those who has had an opportunity to watch the rivalry diminish first hand is Willie Mays, who played with the Giants both here and in New York. With the Mets now, he can be more objective about the whole thing and he says the fans made the rivalry what it was, not the players.

"The Giants fans in New York and Dodger fans in Brooklyn sort of grew up with the players," Willie points out. "You can't compare them with the fans in San Francisco and in Los Angeles in that sense.

"With those old Giants and Dodger fans, it was blood, and there was no in between at all. As a player you could even sense it when you were out there on the field. Those fans weren't kidding either. I remember one game in which I hit two homers to beat the Dodgers in Brooklyn. It was a night game and when I came out to get my car in the parking lot, it had four flat tires. I wasn't gonna stand around there asking any questions. I just caught a ride home with a friend."

"There was nothing funny about those games, not to me, anyway," he says. "Of course I knew all their guys, Jackie, Campy, Newk, but every time Newcombe pitched he'd knock me down. Then I'd run into him on Seventh Avenue someplace after the game and we'd have a soda together."

Walter O'Malley, the Dodgers' board chairman, thinks the rivalry between his club and the Giants still is "active" although he concedes "we're in a little bit of a valley right now."

"You have to remember," he says, "ours has always been a keen organizational rivalry. When we were in Brooklyn, they were in New York; when we had a club in Fort Worth, they had one in Dallas; when we had one in St. Paul, they had one in Minneapolis. I feel the team going into Oakland (the A's) diluted our rivalry somewhat but I think that possibly may be solved some day. I can remember when the Penn-Cornell football game was a big thing. It isn't so much anymore. Times change, I guess."

Another factor, points out Jim Cone, a baseball fan and a waiter at one of the local restaurants, is the great number of opportunities apart from going out to a ball game available to people in this city.

"Here in San Francisco, we have all manner of water sports to compete with baseball," says Cone. "I'm a golf addict, and we have 50 golf courses within a day's drive so you can pretty much figure out for yourself where I go on my day off. I'm still a Giant fan though. I lived in New York years ago and rooted for them then. I can remember many times in the '30's when I had occasion to 'wait until next year.'"

Of all the observations on the old Dodgers-Giants' rivalry, Willie Mays inevitably comes up with the best one.

"I think," he says, "we're just talking about memories."

GOLF NOTES

Jim Brown Tourney In San Geronimo

Golf and football forces will combine in a fund-raiser at San Geronimo National Golf Club Sunday, July 2, 10 a.m.

At that time, football celebrities will tee off in an 18-hole medal play tournament in a sickle cell anemia benefit called the Jim Brown Charity Golf Tournament.

Former Cleveland Brown great Jim Brown, plus contemporaries like San Francisco 49er receiver Gene Washington and Oakland Raider guard Gene Upshaw are scheduled to play before an audience donating $1 per person.

It was a happy Father's Day for golfer Ray Bright of Corte Madera. He shot a 79-22-57 to win the Father's Day Sweeps golf tourney in Mill Valley by five strokes over Byron Eggleston.

and was called out for interference. In the ninth, the North's Tom Wilson of San Rafael reached first on a throwing error but made a wide turn and was thrown out by the catcher backing up the play.

In the 12th, Bianchini was on third and Marin Catholic's Steve Sherry on second when Drake's Bob Mayer bounced to third. The throw went to first, so Sherry took off for third, but Bianchini didn't budge, and the stunned Sherry had to whirl around and race back to second. He was thrown out and the game, mercifully, ended.

VIPs Win In Softball

The Reno Barsocchini VIPs defeated the San Francisco radio station KSFO No-Stars, 8-7, before 10,756 in the 12th annual benefit softball game for the Police Athletic League in San Francisco last night.

4 Marinites In Excalibur Yacht Race

Four Marin County residents have entered boats in the Invitational Excalibur Nationals regatta? scheduled for tomorrow and Sunday on San Francisco Bay.

The Marinites in the 22-boat field are Frank Dietrich of San Rafael, affiliated with the sponsoring St. Francis Yacht Club of San Francisco; Hall Palmer of Sausalito, also with St. Francis; Bob Marshall of Sausalito, Sausalito Cruising Club; and Ray Reilly of Greenbrae, Sausalito Yacht Club.

Additionally, two non-Marinites affiliated with local clubs are entered — Cleland Bacon of Millbrae, Sausalito Yacht Club; and Phil Galy of San Francisco, Sausalito Cruising Club.

First race in the five-race regatta is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. tomorrow. An Excalibur is a 26-foot fiberglass sloop.

Jockey's Sweep

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Jockey Jim Moseley rode an unprecedented sweep of the final five races Thursday at Liberty Bell race track to gain the year's jockey leadership at the track with 26 victories.

A minor upset occurred in the doubles, when Larry Ross of Pasadena and Bob Seymour of Mill Valley, teaming up at the last minute, defeated Joe Woolfson of Union City and Harry Roche of San Francisco, 6-3, 6-4. Neither team was seeded.

John Williams of Tiburon and Jack Bowker of Sacramento, seeded eighth, defeated Don Fahrney and Daryl Moses, 6-0, 6-0.

The unseeded team of Stan Altschuler of San Rafael and Dick Dresel of Greenbrae defeated Stan George and Ron Stuart, 6-0, 4-6, 6-3. The unseeded duo of Hugh Tierney of Tiburon and Ed Atkinson beat John Fleitz and Ernie Schoop by default.

Howard Morehouse of San Rafael and Bill Hoogs of Berkeley lost to third seeded Landin-Schmidt, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2. Bob Sockolov of San Rafael and brother Morrie of San Francisco lost to fifth-seeded Grant-De Witts, 6-2, 6-4. Jack Barone and Mike O'Neill of Mill Valley lost to fourth-seeded Gale and Bob Hill, 6-2, 6-2.

Top-seeded Kierbow-Reed, second-seeded Mayne and Hugh Ditzler, sixth-seeded Nelson-Rodriguez and eighth-seeded Pete Berwick and George Yardley all triumphed.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Cedeno's Perfect Night Lifts Astros Over Reds

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

For a young man of 21, Cesar Cedeno finds himself being pushed into some rather heady company.

"He's the best young player I've seen," said Houston Manager Harry Walker Thursday night after Cedeno went 4-for-4 at the plate to carry the Astros to a 9-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

"(Roberto) Clemente was the best player I ever managed," Walker continued, "but this kid figures to do more in his first four years in the majors than Clemente did."

Lee May, who played for Cincinnati last year, agreed that Cedeno could be described as "a young Clemente."

The perfect night at bat lifted Cedeno's average 12 points to .336, good enough to boost him from fourth place all the way to the top of the National League batting race.

In the only other game played in the majors Thursday, Stan Bahnsen and Cy Acosta held Milwaukee to six hits as the Chicago White Sox beat the Brewers, 5-2.

New York at Cleveland in the American League and St. Louis at New York in the National both were postponed because of rain. No other teams were scheduled.

Cedeno scored three of Houston's runs, including one on his eighth home run of the season, and Doug Rader contributed a three-run homer to the Astros' 11-hit attack. Houston broke the game open with a six-run rally in the third inning for an 8-3 lead.

Bahnsen, who has completed only two games this year, held Milwaukee to one run and three hits through eight innings, but was touched for a leadoff homer by Johnny Briggs in the ninth followed by Dave May's single. Acosta then came on to retire the side, allowing one hit.

It was Bahsen's 10th victory against seven losses, and he didn't appear too disturbed about his failure to complete very many of his starts.

Chicago scored three runs in the sixth inning to snap a 1-1 tie with Bill Melton singling home the tie-breaking run.

WESTERN OPEN

2 Share First In Golf Meet

NORTHBROOK, Ill. (UPI) — Jim Jamieson and R. H. Sikes, two guys who know the value of practice, took a one-stroke lead into the second round of the Western Open Golf Tournament today because a little extra work paid off.

Both Jamieson and Sikes, who had been having their problems, returned home for instruction last weekend.

The result was identical three-under-par 688 Thursday that placed them in a tie for the lead on a day when most of the tournament's big names succumbed to unbearably cold winds sweeping across the Sunset Ridge Country Club acreage.

"It was hard to judge shots," said Steve Oppermann, one of three players deadlocked a stroke behind the leaders. "You could hit some good shots and make a bad score."

There were plenty of bad scores, ranging all the way to an 84 by Bob Harris, the club pro, who holds the course record of 64. Billy Casper and Tony Jacklin had 75s, George Archer 76 and Julius Boros 77.

Jamieson and Sikes readily admitted their good scores were due to the teachings of Bob Fry of Davenport, Iowa, and Dutch Harrison of St. Louis, the club pros they consulted before the tournament.

Fry gave Jamieson tips on driving and Harrison gave Sikes a 25-year-old putter he once used. Both worked.

Jamieson missed only three greens in regulation, making three birdies and an eagle in one five-hole stretch, and Sikes had 10 one-putt greens, including five in a row for birdies midway through his round.

"If I ever played a round hitting every fairway, there'd be a senate investigation," kidded Jamieson, who explained Fry got him to concentrate on the tee instead of rushing to "get it over with."

Sikes said his round was "one of the best putting rounds I've had in four years" and that he would continue to use Harrison's old putter.

"He helped me a lot," Sikes said.

Oppermann was deadlocked with Hale Irwin and Tom Weiskopf at 69 while former Masters Champion Charles Coody was in a group of four at one-under-par 70.

There were eight players at par-71 including Ray Floyd, Doug Sanders, J.C. Snead and Lee Elder, and eight more at 72 headed by Bobby Nichols. Napa's Ron Cerrudo is tied with 12 others at 73.

On a day when wind gusts reached 30 miles per hour, both Jamieson and Sikes said they were unaffected.

Jamieson, a winner of $47,603 this year but still looking for his first tournament title, birdied the first, third and fifth holes of his morning round — he had started at No. 10 — and put a four-wood second shot 18 inches from the pin on the 507-yard fourth hole for an eagle.

Sikes, a two-time national public links champion who has earned only $3,523 this year and has not won a tournament since 1966, used only 28 putts. He did not make a par until the 12th hole, having seven birdies, three bogeys and a double bogey until then.

Irwin missed a chance to make it a three-way tie when he took his only bogey of the day on the final hole, dumping his approach shot into a sand trap.

President Nixon Interest In Baseball Is Curtailed

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

WASHINGTON — Apparently the relocation of the Senators franchise after 71 years in Washington to Texas has numbed baseball's appeal for President Nixon.

Asked to comment on the Supreme Court's ruling on the Curt Flood case, Nixon said at a news conference Thursday that he was not following baseball closely this year.

"On the baseball matter," Nixon said. "I must say I cannot even tell you who is in first place at the present time because I have not had a chance to check it lately."

Nixon has always been an adamant sports fan, and on occasional visits to watch the old Washington team play would offer advice to manager Ted Williams.

When the Senators were shifted to Arlington, Tex., last fall, Nixon said he would adopt the California Angels as his home club since they were the closest team to the Western White House at San Clemente.

Nixon said he did know who was leading the National League's West Division because he called Houston Mayor Louie Welch to congratulate him on being elected head of the Conference of Mayors.

"He thought I was calling to congratulate him on the Astros being in first place," the president said.

SPORTS SHORTS

Tennis

LONDON — Although minus ace Stan Smith, the semi-finals of the London Grass Court Tennis Championships will still find three out of four semi-final berths filled by Americans.

Smith, the tall powerful topseed in the tourney was upset Thursday by unheralded John Paish 2-6, 6-3, 10-8 after leading 5-2 in the dramatic final set.

Nonetheless, the U.S. dominated play elsewhere as Pancho Gonzalez, Jim Connors and Clark Graebner all triumphed and advanced to today's semifinals.

Gonzalez defeated Roscoe Tanner of Lockout Mountain, Tenn. 7-5, 6-1, while Graebner upended Australian Colin Dibley 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 and Connors bested Russia's Alex Metreveli 6-8, 6-1, 9-7.

Fort Lauderdale's Chris Evert gained the semi-finals by easily putting away Esme Emanual of South Africa 6-3, 6-0 and American Wightman Cup teammate Wendy Overton also advanced by beating San Diego's Val Ziegenfuss 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Boxing

WASHINGTON — A fight between heavyweights George Foreman and Oscar Bonavena may be held at Washington's Robert F. Kennedy Stadium about Sept. 25 but promoters say they will take it elsewhere if it is not sanctioned as a championship scrap.

Golf

CAPE CORAL, Fla. — The 75th National Collegiate Athletic Association Golf Championships moved into the third round today, with the University of Texas holding a 14-stroke lead over cross-state rival Houston, 561 to 575.

DefendinV9individual champion Ben Crenshaw of Texas had the day's low round at six-under-par 66 to move into second place with a 36-hole total of 137 over the 6,865-yard Cape Coral course behind Tom Kite, who fired a 65 in the first round Wednesday, and carded a 68 Thursday to remain in front by four strokes.

Novato's Ray Leach had a 157 for Brigham Young University and his team failed to make the squad competition cut of 602.

WITH INTERNATIONAL FLAIR

The Top American Swimmers In Santa Clara Invitational

SANTA CLARA (UPI) —Mark Spitz, Gary Hall, Brian Job, Mike Burton, Lynn Vidali and Wendy Fordyce, you name it, and every American star will be in action this weekend against a flock of foreign stars in the Santa Clara International Invitational swim meet.

The action started today with trials in the morning and finals in five men's and five women's events plus the women's one meter diving and the men's three meter diving.

The same format holds for Saturday and Sunday—trials in the morning and finals in the afternoon. There are four swimming events for each group Saturday plus the 10 meter diving and on Sunday the show winds up with five events each plus the women's three meter diving and the men's one meter diving.

Sherman Chavoor of Arden Hills in Carmichael and George Haines of the host Santa Clara Swim Club are particularly anxious to see how America's women stars fare in the last big meet before the Olympic trials in Chicago Aug. 1-6. Chavoor and Haines will coach the U.S. girls at the Munich Olympics later in the summer.

The competition truly is international this year with national teams from New Zealand, Mexico and Colombia in the competition, plus representatives from West Germany, Canada, Sweden, Greece, Peru, Ecuador, the Philippines, Brazil and Venezuela.

Hall, Spitz, Job and Miss Vidali are world record holders at the moment while Burton and Miss Fordyce are fractions of a second away.

Even so, all will have their work cut out for them because the Santa Clara meet includes many young and eager swimmers shooting for recognition and Olympic berths.

"It's this sort of competition that brings out the best in the stars," said Haines, who in his years at Santa Clara has seen and coached enough gold medalists to know what he is talking about. "It's the classic match- up — the proven stars and the ones who'd like to replace them and, in some cases, will. Frankly, I'm very pleased with the kids we have coming up and I think we are going to wind up with an outstanding Olympic team."

American Football Coaches' Game Tomorrow Night In Texas

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—The 1972 football—that's right, football-season opens tomorrow night with one of those all-star games that somehow didn't get played last December.

This one is the 12th annual contest sponsored by the American Football Coaches Association, and opens a season that ends seven months and 300 miles away in Dallas with the Pro Bowl Game.

Kickoff is set for 8:30 p.m. EDT at Jones Stadium on the campus of Texas Tech University. A capacity crowd of 44,000 is expected, and the game will be nationally televised.

Most of the big-name talent is loaded onto the West squad coached by Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma. Fairbanks will have the quarterbacks of last season's top two teams, Jerry Tagge of national champion Nebraska and Jack Mildren of Oklahoma.

The East, under Alabama's Bear Bryant, will answer with quarterbacks Paul Miller of North Carolina, who was not even picked in the pro draft, and little known Joe Gilliam of Tennessee State.

Since most of the talent is run oriented, Bryant figures this game, which has been decided by seven points or less the past three years, will be different from most all-star games.

"I think this game will have much more running than the usual game of this sort," said Bryant, "because both teams have so many good runners."

The bulk of the heavy duty running is expected to be carriej for the West by Jeff Kinney of Nebraska, a No. 1 pick by Kansas City in the draft, and for the East by Johnny Musso of Alabama, a third-round pick by Chicago who has decided to play instead in Canada.

Fairbanks said that he had so much running talent on his club that he will probably use some Wishbone-T offense despite the short training period his team has had.

Health Care Changes In New Plan

Specific recommendations for changes in the way Marin' health care is handled are contained in the preliminary draft of the Marin County Plan for Health, accepted Wednesday by the county's Comprehensive Health Planning Council.

But changes suggested in the plan won't be seen by the public until the draft is translated into language everyone can understand.

Dr. Michael L. Harris, council president, said the county plan draft is being "edited for readability — it was compiled by professionals from the reports of our committees . . . we have to get rid of the jargon."

He said a good working copy of the draft will be circulated in September so that groups and individuals interested in health planning will be ready for public hearings on the plan.

Dr. Harris said the plan "contains specific recommendations for changes in available health care, and suggestions on government approach."

At the council's meeting, recommendations of the Vision Screening Task Force, headed by Ben W. Dial, were accepted. Harris said the council now will try to establish a uniform vision screening program throughout the county.

He said the task force recommends five different vision tests, performed on children in kindergarten, and in grades one, two, four, five and eight.

The resignation of the council's health planning coordinator, Michael Ingerman, was accepted. Ingerman is moving to the Bay Aea Comprehensive Health Planning Council, where he will be responsible for health facilities planning.

The resignations of three directors also were accepted — Mrs. Mary D. Williams, Leonard Shaw and W. Robert Lomax Jr. Dr. Robert Frederickson was elected to the board. The other two vacancies probably will be filled by the council's next meeting, at 7:30 a.m. July 19 at Marin General Hospital, Harris said. The nominating committee will meet July 7.

Rooney Son Indicted On Narcotics Counts

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mickey Rooney Jr., son of the actor, and Catherine Frances Philbin, former wife of television personality Regis Philbin, were indicted Thursday on federal narcotics charges.

Rooney, 27, and Mrs. Philbin, n, 34, were indicted along with Jeffrey Lawrence Brookner, 19, on charges of posessing and distributing cocaine, the U.S. attorney's office said. If convicted they could be fined up to $50,000 each and sentenced to up to 33 years in jail. They were arrested earlier this month.

Bike Racks At Bus Stops Lauded, But...

A proposal to install theft-proof, coin-operated bicycle racks at Golden Gate Bridge District bus stops was enthusiastically endorsed yesterday by the district's transportation committee.

The endorsement, however, was all the committee was willing to give the proposal by a Mill Valley manufacturer of the racks.

Arrangements for their installation should be handled by the Marin County Transit District, not the bridge district, the committee agreed unanimously. Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring argued that it would be a "nightmare" for the bridge district staff to attempt to arrange for installation of the racks.

The difficultq was that the bridge district does not own the land at the bus stops, thus separate leases would be needed at each stop where the racks are placed. The county's transit district was "in the best position" to arrange these leases with the various city governments, he said.

Director Dean N. Meyer said the racks would encourage more commuters to use their bicycles to reach the bus stops. In turn, this will cut traffic and parking congestion at the stops, he said.

The proposal was made by Rally Enterprises of Mill Valley, which said the daily charge for use of a rack probably would be 25 cents. They would be installed as a concession at no cost to the bridge or transit districts.

Edward A. McDevitt of San Francisco, speaking for the firm, said that commuters do not use bicycles to reach bus stops for fear of theft. McDevitt, former San Francisco superintendent of recreation, said the racks would pay for themselves after years of use at 25 cents a day.

The committee voted unanimously a recommendation that the full bridge board refer the proposal to the county transit district. The racks should be provided at "a minimum cost to the public," the committee said.

Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco said 25 cents a day may be too much. He and Meyer suggested the county transit district subsidize the cost to cut the daily fee.

13 Receive Degrees At Golden Gate

Those receiving bachelor's degrees were: Nancy Papps Nichols of 575 Appleberry Drive, San Rafael; George Irvine Robert of 7 Nightingale Lane, San Rafael and Dennis Brand Sabraw of 243 Glen Park, San Rafael.

Those receiving master's degrees were: Hubert Joseph Daniels of 76 Laurier Drive, Novato; Vaughn Ira Elliott of 1426 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael; Reese N. Epstein of 30 Novato Street, San Rafael; David J. Kirby of 110 Country Club Drive, Novato; Julian Earl Olson of 203 El Proado Avenue, San Rafael and Albert James Rios of 1070 Calle Empinado, Novato.

Those receiving degrees in law were: David Vincent Ainsworth of 1635 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo; Conrad David Breece of 141 Woodword Avenue, Sausalito; Kenneth Warren Robinson of 86 San Benito Way, Novato and Robert Van Gutman of 37 Sonora Way, Corte Madera.

Jackie's Aunt To Clean Place

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (UPI)—The aunt and cousin of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis have agreed to correct alleged unsanitary conditions so they won't be evicted from their old 28-room mansion on Long Island.

Edith Bouvier Beale, 76, and her daughter Edith, 54, did not attend the Suffolk County Health Department hearing Wednesday on alleged health code violations in the ramshackle home they have lived in since 1923. They were represented by attorney William J. Vanden Heuvel, a close friend of the Kennedys.

Vanden Heuvel, who was an assistant attorney general under the late Robert Kennedy, promised that "steps will be taken" within a month to clear up the violations.

BATTLE FOR ISLETON LOST

Gushing water from a broken levee today turned the small Delta community of Isleton into a ghost town. Water was high as the eaves at some homes. The fight to save the town from San Joaquin River water was lost last night as the levee broke, sending crews to safety. This sign cautions motorists to drive carefully on the once dry levee road.

Policy On Housing Is Adopted

By FRANK FARRARA

The Novato City Council last night adopted a housing element for the Novato Area General Plan with provisions for low and moderate income housing that have stirred controversy.

The vote was 3-2 with councilmen Fred F. Ruegg and Dorothy P. Young, who sought to eliminate key policies on low and moderate income housing except for senior citizens, dissenting.

The goal is to provide a diversity of housing in Novato without drastically changing the semirural suburban environment with single-family detached homes.

The element, 18 months in preparation, has been under attack by residents who feared an abundance of low and moderate income housing would attract outsiders, create ghettos and revamp the character of the community.

After the vote, Mayor Wayne Sartain said he had a real conflict "trying to thread the needle to protect the City of Novato and at the same time meet the housing needs of residents."

The adopted element was a modified version designed to meet the needs of persons who work or live in Novato, yet avoid concentralion of low and moderate income housing.

Ruegg said, given the current cost of housing in Marin, low and moderate income housing was in effect subsidized housing. "I am convinced the people of Novato don't want subsidized housing, other than senior, and I'll follow what I think their wishes are," he said.

During a 90-minute public hearing, the council heard protesters renew arguments against low and moderate income housing and supporters stress the need for housing for the young, the old, for families and single persons.

Ralph R. Patterson of 3 Winged Foot Drive said "We could create an instant ghetto and could attract people who don't want to work."

Patterson said he was opposed to "permitting wildeyed city employees or socialistic planning commissioners to create solutions that would devour us."

Jeanne Struck of 590 Trumbull Road, a 30-year resident of Novato said she has seen the "upper class people" move in and "now those people. . .don't want any of us."

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority, said, "When you talk housing problems, you can't close your eyes and they go away. Yes, we have poor people, poor families

DAVID MENARY JR.
Governor's choice

Reagan Elevates Menary

David Menary Jr. of San Rafael, who has served almost two years as a Marin Municipal Court judge, yesterday was appointed to fill the superior Court vacancy created by the resignation of veteran jurist Thomas F. Keating.

Menary telephoned the Independent-Journal from San Diego, where he is attending a drug abuse conference for judges, to say he had been told of his appointment by the governor's office.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, also had appointed the 45-year-old lifelong Marin resident to his municipal court post in October 1970.

Menary's elevation to the superior court bench, a post which currently pays $33,396 a year and will rise to $35,080 Jan. 1, had been rumored for some time.

He had been considered all along as the frontrunner among candidates for the job, who included fellow Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith, Juvenile Court Referee Jack Blaine and Sausalito attorney A. Leonard Bjorklund.

Menary will serve the remainder of Keating's term, which runs until Dec. 31, 1974, according to county Elections Officer Peter Meyer. He would have to run for election in 1974.

Menary's appointment will leave a vacancy on the municipal court bench, also to be filled by the governor. Meyer said that since Menary was just elected last month to a six-year term commencing Jan. 1, his successor will probably serve that time.

Because the term hasn't started yet, Meyer said a petition by 100 registered voters could force an election in November, where a write-in candidate could challenge the new municipal judge.

Menary, son of the late David Menary who was Marin County sheriff from 1954 to 1958, was born and reared in San Rafael.

He is a graduate of College of Marin, University of San Francisco and Stanford Law School. He served as a county deputy district attorney from 1952 to 1955, when he went into private city practice. He was a member of the San Rafael City Council from 1959 to 1963, when he was elected San Rafael City attorney.

He is married to the former Nancy McNear and has three children.

He has been a member and officer of many civic organizations, including the San Rafael Rotary Club, Little League baseball and Pop Warner football organizations and the Marin County Bar Association.

$700,000 Set For Purchase Of Open Land

Supervisors Set Aside Funds In Budget Talks

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Approval of the funding, which followed about two hours of discussion, came on a 3-0 vote with supervisors John F. McInnis and Louis H. Baar absent.

It marked a major defeatfor County Administrator John F. Barrows who recommended only $300,000 foropen space in his proposed county budget totaling $47.4 million.

The board's action came as supervisors neared the end of their seventh day of deliberations on the record budget and brought ringing applause from the largest audience to attend a budget session this year.

Estimated at more than 200 persons, the size of the assemblage forced removal of the partition separating the board's hearing room from that of the county planning commission.

By adding $400,000 to Barrows's recommended $300,000 for open space, the board all but wiped out savings from earlier budget cuts.

With the budget hearings expected to end today, the budget stands only $70,000 less than the original $47.4 million spending program submitted for review. The projected tax rate for fiscal 1972-73 stands at $2.755 per $100 assessed valuation.

A parade of speakers addressed the board yesterday in support of the parks and recreation commission, which requested the $700,000.

John E. Hogan of San Anselmo, who said he was retired, told the board, "Of all the proposals in the budget, I support none more than this."

Central Marin Warning On Smog

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A major shift from continued highway development to bus transit must be made to save Central Marin from increasing air pollution, according to a study by Bay Area smog officials.

Federal air quality standards probably can be met on most days through 1980, buy by 1990 they will be exceeded "in spite of all current and projected efforts," the study found. These vain efforts include all projected auto emission controls as well as the shift to bus transit.

But without the shift to bus transit, air pollution will be at least 20 per cent worse in the 100-square-mile section of Marin included in the study by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

The study, completed this week, was done under a $2,200 contract with the county's planning department. The conclusion backed previous arguments by county planners that a shift to transit was needed to preserve Marin's amenities.

The study area included the San Rafael air basin, Ross Valley and Las Gallinas and Santa Margarita valleys. It was the first such detailed projection done by the pollution control district, and was a prototype of work to be done for the entire Bay Area to enforce its new land use controls.

The study assessed the impact of traffic and development growth on air quality for 1980 and 1990 under separate assumptions of full development of a highway system and "extensive reliance on bus transit." Levels were computed for carbon monoxide, organics, nitrogen oxides, oxidants and particulates.

Britain Will Allow Pound To 'Float'; Devaluation Is Next

LONDON (UPI) —Britain announced today the pound sterling would be allowed to "float," or find its natural level on world money markets. It dropped slightly immediately—taking the U.S. dollar with it—and there were reports Britain would devalue the pound officially later this year.

Most European money markets closed immediately because of the confusion and there were outraged cries from British tourists caught unexpectedly in the latest currency moves. The pound has hovered around $2.60 expected to go to $2.40 later this year.

British economic experts said the floating process, similar to what happened to the dollar last summer, could last several months. In the end they expect the pound to drift down to about $2.40—the official rate until the dollar was devalued by 8 1-2 per cent.

The Pound has been under attack for months because of the weak British economic situation and galloping inflation which has boosted prices and cut heavily into British exports —the backbone of the British economy.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber told Parliament today Britain had acted "decisively" to float the pound because heavy selling pressure threatened the nation's reserves. Under the Smithsonian agreement that followed the dollar crisis Britain had pledged to keep the pound at the $2.60 level, selling reserves if necessary.

The major impact on the dollar came in the Frankfurt money market where it dropped to 3.15 francs before trading was suspended. The old rate before dollar devaluation was 4 marks to the dollar. The dollar closed Thursday at a healthy 3.19 marks, just 1 per cent below the new official rate of 3.22225 marks.

North Vietnam Units Flee Bomb Barrages

SAIGON (UPI)—Some North Vietnamese army troops who attacked South Vietnamese paratroopers below the My Chanh River defense line above Hue broke and ran for the first time in memory under record onslaughts by B52s and U.S. 7th Fleet ships, a South Vietnamese colonel said today.

An estimated 100 B52s dropped more than 2,500 tons of bombs on Communist positions in the Quang Tri Province area of northeastern South Vietnam, and the U.S. Navy hit the area with the greatest bombardments since the Korean War, spokesman reported in Saigon. Strikes by 137 fighter-bombers caused fires blazing more than a mile high.

It was the first time so many B52s had ever concentrated their might in one target area.

UPI correspondent Chad Huntley reported from the northern front that a South Vietnamese colonel told him the North Vietnamese threw away their rifles and ran for the first time in his 20 years of battlefield experience.

A veteran U.S. military adviser said he could not believe how green the North Vietnamese tank crews were acting. He said they were leaving their tanks like sitting ducks on exposed hilltops and that planes, ships and hardfighting South Vietnamese paratroopers were knocking them out.

Commanders aboard the U.S. Navy ships in the Gulf of Tonkin said the bombardment was taking a heavy toll among North Vietnamese troops in the reoion.

But it appeared that the untried South Vietnamese paratroopers, making their first battlefield appearance, were the heroes of the North Vietnamese strike across the My Chanh River. They held their ground and fought back and the North Vietnamese drive —believed aimed ultimately at Hue — faltered.

Battlefield reports said remnents of a North Vietnamese regiment made last ditch attacks today but were no match for the well dug-in government paratroopers who reported killing 58 of them at a loss of five men killed and 23 wounded.

Price Panel Views Meat Price Freeze

With beef, pork and other meat prices on the upswing and expected to continue going higher —and President Nixon considering suspension of restrictions on foreign meat imports —the price group is weighing a one-month freeze.

The action could come at a special meeting set for Sunday, although a commission spokesman said in a statement "there are no plans. . . as of now" to impose a freeze. In advance of the meeting, Chairman C. Jackson Grayson polled the six other members by telephone to test their sentiment.

Nixon himself might move even sooner. He met with his top economic advisers late this morning. Newsmen were allowed into his office briefly for photographs and the President quipped to them, "Don't buy meat."

Price commission sources said the price commission was disappointed at failure of the Costing of Living Council, which has over-all jurisdiction over the economic controls program, to act on soaring food prices, especially meat.

The Price Commission has authority to impose controls over foods within its jurisdiction, including meats, at the wholesale and retail level. But it has no control over farm products, which have been rising steeply also. They are exempt from controls and the Price Commission has asked that this be removed.

The President said yesterday he might lift temporarily import quotas on beef to alleviate short supplies and help curb red meat prices that he acknowledged were "beginning to rise again and rising very fast."

Nixon at the same time once again expressed doubt whether controls would really help. "Controls alone will not work unless you also move on the supply side," he said. But he said he was considering the possibilities of controls. more

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Bankers Association has joined the battle to have the so-called "bank secrecy act" ruled unconstitutional.

The act takes effect July 1, and gives the government the authority to check anyone's private bank account.

The association filed a suit in U.S. District Court Thursday challenging the legality of the new statute.

The action was a companion suit to ones already filed by the American Civil Liberties Union and Fortney H. Stark Jr., a Democratic congressional candidate from Contra Costa County.

U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert was assigned to the case.

Governor Inks Record Budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, vetoing away $258 million, has signed a second highest-in-the-nation $7.7 billion state budget he contends is "adequate" fgr California.

The "squeeze, cut and trim" governor said unless the legislature comes up with an acceptable tax reform and school finance plan he favors refunding most of a projected $400 million surplus to the taxpayers.

"Give it back to the people," Reagan said at a budget signing ceremony Thursday, "It's their money."

He said he was convinced the spending plan for the fiscal year starting July 1, which totaled almost $1 billion more than the current budget "will adequately meet the needs of the people of California."

He took special pride in noting that the budget of California, the nation's most populous state, fell short of New York's $7.91 billion spending blue print and of New York City's $9.4 billion program.

Reagan vetoed $73 million from $263 million the legislature authorized in additional state aid to local schools. But he said the sum would be held in reserve until the legislature provided a new educational finance plan.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, only mildly critical of the vetoes, immediately announced he plans to carry legislation to restore the $73 million.

The state Supreme Court last year declared unconstitutional the current school finance system on grounds it unfairly discriminated against children in poor districts. Reagan noted the budget failed to come to grips with a solution.

He told newsmen he was inclined to return to the taxpayers most of the forecast budget surplus in a one-time rebate if the lawmakers failed to devise suitable tax reform and school finance programs.

But even with the reduction in proposed school aid, the state still will be spending $190 million more on local education

Medical School Bond Measure On Ballot

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed legislation placing on the November ballot a $155.9 million bond issue to construct new University of California medical school and health science facilities.

If the voters approve the issue by Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Rail Road Flat, a second bond issue totaling $138.1 million would be submitted to the voters in 1976 to finance further construction.

Nixon Signs $19 Billion School Bill; Hits Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon signed into law today a $19 billion education aid bill but accused Congress of providing rhetoric instead of solutions to the critical problem of court-ordered school busing. The law delays until January 1974, implementation of such orders that can still be appealed.

"The moratorium ... is temporary; the relief it provides is illusory," Nixon said in a statement criticizing the Democratic-controlled Congress for failure to pass his recommendations for dealing with school busing.

The President had proposed a moratorium on enforcement of all court-ordered busing until Jan. 1, 1974, and enactment of standards for school desegregation to make busing a last-resort measure.

In his statement on busing released by the White House in announcing he had signed the bill containing $19 billion in higher education aid over three years, Nixon said:

"Confronted with one of the burning social issues of the past decade and an unequivocal call for action from the vast majority of the American people, the 92nd Congress has apparently detemined that the better part of valor is to dump the matter into the lap of the 93rd.

"Not in the course of this administration has there been a more manifest congressional retreat from an urgent call for responsibility.

The President faulted Congress for not drawing uniform national desegregation standards which he said would provide guidance to federal judges "so that court ordered busing to integrate public school systems would be used only as a last — never a first — resort."

Nixon had indicated yesterday to newsmen that he would sign the bill but said it was one of the hardest decisions he had made since becoming President because the busing language was "so vague and so ambiguous."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Retaliation Fire

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli gunners fired into southern Lebanon early today in retaliation for several long-range rockets fired at Israeli villages.

The rockets, presumably fired by Arab commandos, hit the northern Israeli villages of Kiriat Shmona and Kfar Giladi, but there were no reports of casualties or damage.

"Fire was returned," an Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said today.

A second incident was reported Thursday night, with Arabs firing a number of shells from Syria that hit the area of Ramat Magahimin and the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights. No casualties nor damage were reported and Israeli forces did not return the fire.

New Leak Charge

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The government pointed to Daniel Ellsberg and his associates as the chief suspects today in an alleged second Pentagon Papers leak — to columnist Jack Anderson — even as Ellsberg's espionage trial for the first leak is about to begin.

Ellsberg, his codefendant Anthony J. Russo, their defense attorneys and Anderson all denied the accusation — the lawyers calling it a "last ditch desperate move" to discredit Ellsberg and Russo.

The Justice Department yesterday asked the federal judge hearing the Pentagon Papers case for a hearing into what federal officials said was publication of previously undisclosed parts of the classified report in seven of Anderson's columns during the past two weeks.

There is "a high liklihood, if not a certainty, that the source of the volumes was the defense in this case," the government prosecutor argued.

Millionth T-Bird

It was smaller, seated only two persons, but had that special flair of class which made those 1955-57 models classics.

That car will be a focal point of activities at the biennial convention of the classic Thunderbird Club of America at Palm Springs Monday through July 2.

To Protest Shot

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Six Australian protesters said today they would fly 6,000 miles this weekend and parachute into a South Pacific area where the French navy is preparing to set off a nuclear test explosion.

"We realize we could be going to our deaths if the French test their bomb," said Terry McGee, one of the protesters against the nuclear blast. "We will find out if the French are prepared to murder people out in the open."

Gordon Mutch, an actor, said he had two Cessna planes equipped with extra fuel tanks for long range flights ready for the flight to Mururoa atoll, where the French nuclear explosion is to take place.

French officials said the blast could come anytime the weather clears.

Dock Strike Looms

HONOLULU (UPI) — Vulnerable Hawaii today faced the prospect of falling victim to a third dock strike in a year's time. Officials evaluated food supplies and warned consumers, "don't hoard."

The governor's Emergency Food Committee was activated after the local International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union said it would strike at 12:01 a.m. (HST) Monday (6:01 a.m. EST) unless there was an agreement on wage demands.

A walkout by the 900 isle longshoremen would tie up all freight cargo coming into or leaving the islands, except for baggage and ship stores for passenger vessels and military cargo. Mail would also be handled.

Nixon Calls For Weapon Package

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon believes chances for a permanent nuclear arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union will be "totally destroyed" unless Congress approves a new offensive weapons program.

Nixon insisted at a news conference Thursday that the arms agreements he made at the Moscow summit in May should be approved by Congress on their merits.

But he warned, that U.S. security would be "seriously jeopardized" unless offensive weapons not covered in the pact are given a go-ahead in the new defense budget. Nixon argued that the new weapons— which include the Trident submarine and B1 bomber—are needed as an incentive for the Soviets to move ahead this fall on "Phase Two" negotiations for the big prize of a permanent arms freeze.

Without such a bargaining chip, he said, "chances for a permanent offensive agreement would be totally destroyed."

Congress has under consideration treaties for a limited, temporary offensive nuclear weapons curb, and for limitation of antiballistic missile sites.

The President's 40-minute impromptu news conference in his oval office—his third of the year—was keyed at his request mainly to domestic issues. He promised another "general" news conference next week. Informed sources said he will announce his next troop cut from Vietnam.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird had testified before the Senate FXOREIGN Relations Committee that he could not support ratification of the Moscow arms agreement unless the nuclear Trident submarine and the B1 offensive bomber were approved.

Asked for comment, Nixon did not go that far but agreed with Laird that the United States would fall behind the Soviet Union unless it matches its nuclear weapons advances.

"If the United States falls into what is a definitely second position, an inferior position to the Soviet Union overall in its defense programs, this will be an open invitation for more instability in the world and anopen invitation for more potential aggression in the world, particularly in such potentially explosive areas as the Middle East," Nixon told reporters.

In response to other questions, Nixon:

Indicated he reluctantly would sign the $19 billion higher education bill today, but remains highly critical of its anti-busing provisions which he called "vague" and "so ambiguous."

Said he is considering temporarily lifting the quotas on foreign beef imports out of concern for rising meat prices. He also is considering action, possibly broad controle, to bring food prices down.

Asserted the White House has had "no involvement whatever" in the break-in and bugging attempt at the Democratic National Party headquarters here last weekend. Party Chairmen Lawrence F. O'Brien charged a "clear line to the White house" in connection with the alleged burglary.

Said he agreed with his re-election committee that it was not necessary to disclose the identity of those who contributed $10 million to his campaign before the disclosure law took effect.

Said he would submit a tax reform proposal, including relief for nonpublic schools, to Congress before the end of the year, but it will not be acted on until next year. He will consider the value added tax— tantamount to a national sales tax, to ease the property tax burden only if a "nonretrogressive formsla" can be found.

Agreed with Laird on the dismissal of Gen. John Lavelle without a court-martial for unauthorized bombing strikes against North Vietnam. Nixon said it was an "appropriate

New Treatment For Bug Bites

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Health Insurance Institute recommended a new treatment today for insect bites—meat tenderizer.

A solution of a quarter-teaspoon of tenderizer and a tablespoon of water rubbed into the skin at the site of the sting stops virtually all pain "within minutes," the Institute said.

It said the tenderizer method was much more effective than the textbook remedy of applying ice or ice water to insect bites.

NEW CITIZEN — Ernest Wake Jr., 3, takes a firm grip on the flag of his adopted country as he headed the list of 25 persons who became U.S. citizens recently in ceremonies in North Ridgeville, Ohio. The adopted German child had an advantage over others — he didn't have to pass an examination.

Alliance In House Brings Revenue Sharing Victory

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The plan to share $30 billion in federal funds with the states and cities over the next five years has passed the House and will receive early hearings in the Senate.

An effective lobby of mayors and governors received much of the credit for getting the big revenue-sharing bill through the House Thursday. It passed 274-122, helped along by strong backing from President Nixon and a rare alliance of House Democratic and Republican leaders.

It would divide $1.8 billion among states to start with, climbing to $3 billion by the fifth year. It would funnel $3.5 billion a year to the 38,700 localities in the nation.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., promised that the Senate Finance Committee which he heads would open hearings next week on the measure. He predicted that after some changes, probably in the complicated formulas for distributing the money, the Senate would pass it this summer.

Granted early committee action, the big money bill still would face stiff competition for full Senate attention which will be divided in the coming months between political conventions, re-election campaigning and debate on the controversial welfare reform bill.

"If the Senate does not pass this legislation this year, it will be derelict in its duty," said House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford, who described the measure as "a sorely needed local tax relief bill."

The states could spend their money anyway they wish but localities would be limited to using their funds for public safety, the environment and public transportation.

States wosld get their money on the basis of how much revenue they and their localities raise while the money for communities would go first to the states on the basis of statewide population, the number of local governments with 50,000 or more people and the state's per capita income.

Use Ice To Sooth Those Flea Bites

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Dr. Gerald Heidbreder, Los Angeles County health officer, issued a warning Thursday that with the coming of warmer weather, people may find themselves bitten by fleas.

Ice or soothing medication should be used on flea bites, he counseled.

Agnes' Toll At 52; Her Rain Wanes

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Tropical storm Agnes, which lashed the East Coast with torrential rains, began tapering off today over Pennsylvania but floods still posed threats from Virginia to New York.

The James River in Richmond, Va., spilled over a 32-foot protective dike today, flooding parts of the city and knocking out power in the major business district. A 200-block area in the district was ordered evacuated.

In Olean, N.Y., the threat of the Allegheny River spilling over 25-foot-high dikes forced Mayor William Smith to order evacuation today of nearly 11,000 persons, half the city.

The death toll from the storm's weeklong rampage reached at least 52. At least 36 persons died Thursday, mostly drowning victims, and at least another dozen were missing.

Twelve persons died in Pennsylvania—four of them swept to their deaths in the Susquehanna River — and 12 in Virginia. Maryland reported nine deaths, North Carolina two and Delaware one.

McGovern Can Keep All 271 Delegates

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Declaring that losers cannot change the rules after they've played the game, a federal judge ruled Thursday that Sen. George McGovern can keep all 271 delegate votes he won in California's primary.

An attorney for four defeated presidential candidates, including Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, said he will appeal the decision on grounds the winner-take-all system violates the "equal protection" clause of the 14th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

"The plaintiffs appear to have gone along with the present system until they lost," said U.S. District Court Judge Philip C. Wilkins.

"And their delay until the last out of the ninth inning is a late date to complain about the rules of the game, in the view of this court."

He also said, "in a democratic society the majority must rule."

Humphrey, Sen. Henry Jackson, Rep. Shirley Chisholm and Alabama Gov. George Wallace had sought to divide California's big bloc of delegates in proportion to the votes they received in the June 6 primary.

McGovern picked up all 271 delegates although he won only 44.3 per cent of the vote. Humphrey was runnerup with 39.2 per cent. Wallace received 6 per cent and Mrs. Chisholm 4.5.

Attorney William Jennings, a Humphrey campaign worker, had argued that under winner-take-all, Californians who did not vote for McGovern would be be "totally disenfranchised" at the Democratic National Convention beginning July 10 in Miami Beach.

Prison Term In I-J Strike Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Boston teamster, convicted of lying to a federal grand jury investigating the 20-month printers' strike against the Independent-Journal, was sentenced today to three years in federal prison and fined $1,000.

Harry J. Johnson, 37, was sentenced by Judge William C. Frey in U.S. District Court.

A codefendant, Allan F. Fidler, 52, a tavern owner who also lives in Boston, also was to have been sentenced today but is reportedly in a Massachusetts hospital with an undisclosed ailment.

Frey said a new sentencing date would be scheduled for Fidler.

Gilbert Eisenberg, attorney for the pair, has appealed the perjury convictions by a district court jury earlier this month. They were indicted by a special grand jury impaneled in San Francisco in the belief the pair had lied to the panel about the purpose of a visit to the Bay Area and about a meeting with an official of the International Typographical Union.

Local 21 of the ITU struck the I-J on Jan. 7, 1970. A week later, as strike-related violence mounted in Marin, Johnson and Ridler arrived in San Francisco. The Federal Bureau of Investigation had the two under surveillance in the belief they had been summoned to engage in illegal activities connected with the strike.

Tennis Court Fund Hikes Budget

The inclusion of $20,000 for two new tennis courts at the Del Mar School last night pushed the proposed 1972-1973 budget for Tiburon to a record high $855,000.

Completing its final budget session, the city council recommended that the city's tax rate be set at 78 cents per $100 assessed value, rather than the previously submitted 67.5 cents.

This year's budget totaled $734,726 and carried a 73.5-cent tax rate.

During budget review throughout June, the council has added a total of $31,000 to the tentative budget proposed by City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer.

Last night, in addition to the tennis courts, the council tacked on $1,000 for tree trimming and landscaping, bringing the parks and recreation budget to $22,650.

The council approved without change a $78,376 budget for the public works department and $13,500 for equipment replacement.

In earlier meetings, the council had increased the budget $1,500 for a special open space bond election; $200 for professional services; $7,200 for increased insurance premiums, and $1,500 to upgrade one police department position of traffic patrolman to regular patrolman.

The $20,000 for tennis courts was added to the city's capital improvement account, bringing the total for capital outlays to $238,000. The council said the entire sum might not be spent on the proposed courts and Councilman Branwell D. Fanning said he hoped the City of Belvedere would contribute about $5,000 to the project.

The suggestion of Balmer, to add $10,500 to the city's contingency fund to cover cost-of-living salary increases that the city might grant to its employees in the future was not followed.

San Quentin Use Bill Is Approved

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation freezing disposition of San Quentin Prison after its scheduled close in 1974 was endorsed unanimously yesterday by the Senate Governmental Organization Committee.

The bill, SB 229 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, orders the general services department first to study possible public uses of the site and report such uses to the 1974 Legislature.

At the urging of a member of the committee, Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, the bill was strengthened to prohibit sale of the site without specific approval of the Legislature.

The bill went to the finance committee, which is chaired by Collier.

Recital Will Be Tomorrow Night

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting that a guitar and flute recital would be presented tonight at Methodist Church of Mill Valley.

Actually, it is tomorrow night at 8 o'clock that guitarist George Sakellariou and flutist Patrick Hurtado, assisted by Marion Winkler at the piano, will perform at the church.

Redevelop Agency For City Sought

The Novato City Council last night introduced an ordinance to establish a redevelopment agency to improve the downtown area.

As proposed, the city council would be the redevelopment agency board and the intent would be to act on the downtown plan adopted by the council last year.

The city's Downtown Implementation Committee recommended establishing a redevelopment agency "in order to take advantage of the substantial benefits available under redevelopment law."

The next step, the committee said, "is to develop a plan and designate the survey area," and it suggested the downtown study area be the project boundaries.

"It should be noted that within designated project boundaries, the agency is not required to redevelop the entire area, or any part of it for that matter," the committee reported.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said redevelopment could be financed through tax increment financing, whereby tax revenue increases resulting from increased assessed valuation within the area accrue to the agency, while other governing districts would be frozen at present levels until development costs were repaid.

The proposed ordinance will be before the council at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Novato Community House.

Planning For Schools Is Sought

The Rohnert Park Planning Commission agreed last night to seek a way to require developers to provide school facilities.

The commission said that plans should be made to coordinate development with school capacities to avoid crowded classroom, double sessions and extensive busing.

Anthony Carbone and Maurice Fredericks of the Cotati School District board told the commission they would be happy to work with them to find a way to require subdividers to provide either school sites or to construct buildings for the district. They said similar requirements have been upheld in court in San Diego, although an emergency situation had been created there.

City Atty. Richard B. Maxwell said he would research court rulings and present a report to both the commission and school board next month.

The commission also received the resignation of commissioner James Steinberg because a job promotion requires him to move from the city; approved the request of Robert T. Barnes to hold ceramic classes at his home at 7450 Bernice Avenue; approved requests from firework salesbooths for the Faith Presbyterian Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints and set a joint meeting with the city council for Tuesday at 8:30 p.m.

Burglary Case Warrant Issued

A superior court bench warrant with no bail has been issued for Tinicia Brown, 22, of Richmond, who failed to appear for a hearing in the court of Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

She is charged with burglary at The Emporium in San Rafael last July 3. She was arrested after a guard at the Northgate store told police she and a companion had taken $39 worth of children's clothing.

Police said they found $300 to $500 in clothing in their car still bearing the tags of Santa Rosa stores.

Bertha Marie West, 18, of Oakland was sentenced to 60 days in jail for the offense as part of a plea bargain.

'No Airport Needed' Despite Traffic Rise

OAKLAND (UPI)—The San Francisco Bay Area will more than triple its current airline traffic in the next 15 years but needs no major new airport, the Association of Bay Area Governments was told Thursday night.

A 2 1-2 year exhaustive study concluded that the anticipated 1985 volume of 72 million passengers a year in the area can be handled by expanded use of Oakland and San Jose airports, and the civilian use of Travis Air Force Base and Hamilton Air Force Base.

Present air traffic in the area is about 20 million passengers a year, with the largest proportion at San Francisco International Airport, Warren Boggess, chairman of the ABAG study committee told the regional government executive board.

Boggess said the use of Travis Air Force Base for civilian as well as military traffic is essential to the plan for no new airports, and arrangements can be worked out with the military for a civilian terminal there.

Travis is allocated 6 million passengers in the master plan presented to ABAG.

Joint civilian use of Hamilton Air Force Base north of San Francisco in Marin County would handle a million passengers a year if arrangements can be made there. An alternative to that is expansion of the Napa airport to handle airline service to the northern bay area, the study said.

Boggess told the board that earlier forecasts of 80 million passengers needing airline service in the Bay Area was reduced because population estimates have been cut.

The report said its recommendations have "some compelling environmental advantages." These include avoiding taking large new space for airports.

A new runway would be required at Travis AFB, and some expansion of the Oakland airport to handle its projected 24 million passengers. The study group said by confining expansion to these existing facilities, added air pollution and noise pollution would be "minimized."

Preliminary Budget For Dixie District Approved

The Dixie School District board last night approved as submitted a preliminary budget of $4,738,000 for 1972-73.

The budget — up $268,000 from this year's spending program — would require no change in the district's tax rate iof $4.40 per $100 assessed valuation, according to Joseph B. Goff, assistant superintendent.

Goff said that the idistrict's proposed spending program provides for a 5 per cent pay increase for all classified employees and a 3.3 per cent pay increase for all certificated teachers. "About $130,000 of the preliminary budget will go for salary increases," Goff said.

The district will drop 10 of its current 204 teachers and one full-time administrator due to a loss of enrollment, he said.

The district board will approve a publication budget July 12 and adopt its final budget Aug. 1.

The Dixie School District Board Also:

REPORT CARDS — Abandoned an experimental report card system which has been used at Oak View School for the last two years, in favor of the traditional alphabetical grading system. Teachers will continue to supplement report cards with written comments, he said.

LOAN — Agreed to loan the Marinwood Community Services District $9,000 for tennis court construction at Miller Creek School, pending the adoption of a joint-powers agreement.

CARPETING — Decided to carpet the Nova Albion School library after receiving $550 raised by a parent's group for the project. The carpeting will cost the district an additional $700, Goff said.

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of custodian William Ellis; granted a one-year leave of absence to teacher Linda Petit, and hired Robert Pitts as a maintenance mechanic at $700 a month.

CLASSROOMS — Agreed to buy two portable classrooms for $2,750 each. The classrooms, currently being used as the board meeting chambers, have been leased by the district for $1,000 each for the last six years. The portable buildings cost about $16,000 new, Goff said.

Premiere Of Film Scheduled July 11

The San Francisco premiere of "The Candidate," a movie filmed in San Francisco and Marin, has been set for 9 p.m. July 11 at the Metro Theater.

Proceeds will be divided between Guide Dogs for the Blind and the Telegraph Hill Neighborhood Auxiliary. Tickets may be obtained from The Candidate Benefit Premiere, 142 Arguello Street, San Francisco.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches, and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

speakers, said he would be "delighted" to be taxed for open space to protect the environment and visual beauty of Marin.

Others told the board that purchase of open space would prove to be cheaper for taxpayers than letting the land develop, which would strain already overburdened community services.

A San Anselmo housewife presented the board with a petition signed by more than 1,000 persons urging the funds be budgeted.

Representatives of the Sierra Club and other environmental groups also appeared in support of open space acquisition which one said should have started 10 years ago.

The proposal drew objection, however, from Richard P. Nave, president of the Marin Property Owners Association, who called the action premature in view of a forthcoming election on a countywide park district to purchase open space.

Nave said the funds shouldn't be budgeted since the voters have not yet indicated whether they support open space acquisition. If they do, he continued, it will be through the park district, not the county general fund.

Winifred S. Frederick of Irate Taxpayers of Marin joined Nave in opposing the funds, urging instead that the county proceed with development of land it already owns.

Baar, who was present during the first hour of discussion but not for the vote, said he didn't oppose open space acquisition but voters should be given the chance to decide. "I find it odd to be allocating money when the issue hasn't been decided," he said, adding that some residents are being forced out of the county because of the taxes.

Supervisor Michael Wornum, who proposed the $700,000 figure months ago, said he would vote for it because he was confident the voters would approve the park district in November.

If the park district is approved, he said, it couldn't begin taxing until next year and acquisition must begin soon since some prime areas are under development pressure.

If voters turn down the district, he added, the $700,000 budgeted by the supervisors need not be spent.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste agreed and drew a round of applause when he told the audience open space acquisition was "too important" to wait another year. "I'm willing to commit today $700,000 and I don't care if any gets to Novato (his district). . . it's a countywide concern."

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., who maintained throughout the hearing that he would go as high as $500,000 for open space, changed his mind during the vote and went along with Baptiste and Wornum.

To partially offset the budget increase, the board then voted unanimously to delete $100,000 from the proposed Corte Madera Bay Front Park, $60,000 from Stafford Lake Park sewage facilities and $50,000 from Miller Park improvements.

Deletion of the $100,000 recommended for the Corte Madera park brought strong objection from Herber C. Leney of the county park and recreation commission.

Leney, also a Corte Madera town councilman, said residents were in support of the proposed bay front park east of Highway 101 and noted it had been deferred by supervisors four years in a row.

The board assured Leney the park would be considered again next year, once more detailed planning was provided.

Marinite Indicted In Jewel Case

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A federal grand jury has indicted five men, including a Marinite, in connection with a series of jewel thefts in Hawaii and transportation of the jewels to California and Nevada.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Bruce Babcock Jr. declined Thursday to specify the exact value of the stolen jewels but said they involved a large sum of money.

The indictment specifies an amount "exceeding $5,000."

Named Wednesday in the indictment were Bong Shew Cheung, Sacramento; Albert Joseph Cerf, listed in the San Rafael city directory as in the wholesale jewelry business and living at 3 Ashwood Court; Serafin Palomares Jr., San Francisco; and Marvin Vuenconsejo and Kenneth B. Moore, both of Hawaii.

U. S. District Judge Philip Wilkins set bail for Palomares, Moore and Buenconsejo at $50,000. Babcock said their whereabouts are unknown. Bail for Cerf, whereabouts also unknown, was set at $2,500.

Babcock said Cheung, manager of a Sacramento jewelry store and a night supervisor for the state Department of Motor Vehicles, planned to turn himself in.

The indictment charges the men with conspiracy, interstate transportation of stolen property, receipt of stolen goods and aiding and abetting.

with as many pages of data, cautioned that "the potential for contaminant accumulation in the three basins is great, due primarily to surrounding elevated terrain, low wind speeds and the frequent formation of low level inversions." Inversions occur when warm overhead air blankets cooler air below, trapping air pollutants.

The fact that the local area is upwind of major pollution sources in other counties has saved it from more serious air pollution, but continued growth of motor vehicle traffic will erode this advantage, the study said. "Because of the favorable situation at present, a unique opportunity presents itself," it added.

Since pollution levels closely follow pattern of traffic volume, the study noted, the worst pollution is along Highway 101, Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and downtown San Rafael.

The study also cautioned against polluting development. "Climatologically, the setting in the study area is highly unfavorable for air pollution-oriented development," it said.

Especially in San Rafael, it said, "with its unfavorable setting regarding pollution potential, the current situation could rapidly reverse."

Problem areas in the Ross Valley are confined primarily to Highway 101 and in the region between San Anselmo and Fairfax, the study found.

North of the San Rafael basin, there is far less air pollution because traffic volumes decline. However, the study added that "it is anticipated that some problems with carbon monoxide pollution will be experienced in the regions along the main through route of Highway 101, in the commercial area along the Manuel Freitas Parkway, and in the community of Marinwood."

The freeway route proposed along the ridgeline north of Sleepy Hollow, it said, "should have a negligible effect upon Gallinas basin communities" because of its elevated and isolated location.

Soviets Launch Two Unmanned Satellites

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Friday launched two unmanned Cosmos satellites into widely separated earth orbits, the Tass news agency said.

It described Cosmos 494 and 495 only as "scientific satellites" and said "onboard equipment is functioning ngrmally."

BUDGET

Reagan cut back to his original proposal a 5 per cent salary increase for the state's 100,000-member civil service work force and to 7.5 per cent a wage boost for faculties of the University of California and state colleges.

The Democratic-controlled legislature had beefed up the ante to 7.5 per cent for state employes and to 12.5 per cent for the faculties.

The governor cut out $45.6 million of the total $131.7 million the legislature had proposed in salary increases.

For Medi-Cal, the state's health care program for the needy, he cut $58.1 million, of which $25.5 million was authorized by the legislature for the state to help pay certain local government costs. He said the current cost-sharing arrangment was "equitable."

Included in the reduction was $32.6 million he said was unnecessary because of revised reduced estimates in the MediCal caseload of patients.

While salary raises, Medi-Cal and local education felt the deepest bites of Reagan's blue-pencil vetoes, other programs also were carved into, including these:

Flood control protection, $3.5 million; prisons and the Youth Authority, $1.1 million; local child care, $3 million; children's centers, $150,000; community college extended opportunity programs, $1.7 million; compensatory education, $482,000; and abstract mathematics program, $500,000; public health, $800,000, including $300,000 for family planning; and mental hygiene, $441,000.

Reagan, an outspoken advocate of tuition, vetoed $26.8 million which the legislature proposed as an incentive to abolish tuition at the University of California.

"I am opposed to the elimination of tuition," he said. "It is a necessity for financing of higher education.

HOUSING

and that means something has to be done."

Martin Mackey, representing the Ecumenical Housing Association of Marin, said establishing low and moderate income housing is time consuming and the city wasn't "going to have all kinds overnight."

The council also voted to disperse low and moderate income housing throughout the city and integrate it with other housing "where not detrimental to other housing." That vote was 4-1 with Councilman George C. Quesada, dissenting.

The council also voted 3-2, with Mrs. Young and Ruegg dissenting, to encourage the Marin County Housing Authority to construct senior "and other appropriate family housing" and to expand the leased housing program.

Another controversial section, one to assure sufficient student housing to meet the need created as Indian Valley Colleges develop and grow, passed 4-1 with Mrs. Young dissenting.

OBITUARIES

Frank A. Bonetti Dies At 80

Mass of the Resurrection for Frank A. Bonetti, a retired salesman and longtime Marinite, will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo.

Bonetti, who lived at 139 Saunders Avenue, San Anselmo, for 41 years, died Wednesday in a local hospital after a long illness. He was 80.

Bonetti, before retiring, worked as a liquor salesman for Trombetta Distributors in San Rafael for four years and before that, in a sales capacity with Marin Beverage for about a decade.

He was a native San Franciscan who served as a pharmacist's mate with the Navy in World War I.

Bonetti was former tiler with San Francisco Elks Lodge 3, a retired director of the International Footprinters Association of San Francisco and a member of American Legion Post 179, San Anselmo.

Survivors include his wife, Carolyn (Carrie).

Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

REV. HUGHES

Rev. Samuel B. Hughes of Novato, 80, a Baptist minister and pastor for 50 years, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

Rev. Hughes had been a pastor in Texas, Alabama, New Mexico and California until he retired in 1964 and moved to Marin. He lived at 8 Garden Court.

While in retirement he served as an interim pastor at the First Baptist Church of Novato and at other Baptist churches in Northern California.

For 15 years he had been "pastor-builder" for the state Baptist convention of Texas, where his task was to go into suburban areas and establish churches. He was a native of Bastrop, La.

Surviving are his wife, Florrie Hughes, of Novato; two daughters, Orine Suffern of Corte Madera and Mary Beitel of Charlevoix, Mich., a sister, Lottie Manning of Bastrop, La.; five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the First Baptist Church of Novato. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

BETTY MONSON

Betty M. Monson, about 53, was pronounced dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital at 11 a.m. yesterday, after her daughter found her unconscious on a couch in her apartment at 848 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

The Marin County coroner's office said the daughter, Mollie Hulley of Mill Valley, reported her mother had been ailing the previous day.

Mrs. Monson worked as a waitress in San Francisco. She was a native of Kansas.

A Winner Due

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Hall Barlett's "The Sandpit General", grand prize winner of the seventh International Moscow Film Festival, will be distributed by American International Pictures.

R. M. GORDON

Russell M. Gordon, 67, former Petaluma resident, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness.

Gordon was born and reared in Mendocino County and had lived in Petaluma for 40 years before moving to Forestville. He was the husband of Ethel Gordon, who died in 1964.

He is survived by a brother, William Gordon Sr. of Clear Lake Highlands, and two sisters, Martha Gustafson of Kelseyville and Edna Newberry.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

DARYL ZUNZLER

Funeral for 1st Lt. Daryl R. Zunzler of Rocklin, Placer County, son of Wyman W. Kunzler of San Rafael, will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Community Covenant Church, Rocklin.

Kunzler, 23, a helicopter pilot, was killed May 25 while on his second tour of duty in Vietnam. He first had fought in Southeast Asia in 1967 and 1968 as an enlisted man, but returned to the United States to enter Officer's Candidate School.

Kunzler was commissioned upon completion of flight training.

A native of Booneville, Mo., he moved to Roseville 10 years ago and attended Oakmont High School, entering the service after graduation.

Survivors, besides his father, who formerly taught at Hill Junior High School in Novato, are his wife, Janice; his mother, Mrs. R. Millette of Los Angeles, and two grandmothers.

Burial, with military honors, will be in Rocklin Cemetery. Memorial gifts may be made to the Roseville Community Hospital building fund and will be accepted by the Lambert Funeral Home, Roseville, which is in charge of arrangements.

CRAIG CONTI

Craig C. Conti, 21-year-old Corte Madera youth injured in a motorcycle accident June 10, died yesterday in the intensive care unit at Marin General Hospital.

He had suffered internal injuries and broken limbs when he hit a tree on private property off North San Pedro Road in Santa Venetia.

His death is the 12th traffic fatality in Marin this year as compared to 17 by this time in 1971.

Conti, who had just completed his junior year at the University of California at Santa Barbara, had arrived home for summer vacation the day of his accident.

He was born in San Francisco and had moved to Marin when he was 4 years old. The family home is at 640 Oakdale Avenue.

Conti was a graduate of Redwood High School, where he had played freshman football, and was an engineering student at Santa Barbara.

He is survived by his parents, Frank and Flora Conti; a brother, Kent Conti, also of the family home; his grandparents, Mrs. Rose Conti of Fairfax and Frank and Ida Ceccarelli of San Francisco.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Private family Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated Monday at St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

CHARLES GERKEN

Charles Gerken, former longtime gardener for the Golden Gte Bridge District, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness. He was 73.

Gerkin lived in Marin County for 30 years, making his home at 409 Locust Street, Sausalito. He worked 17 years for the bridge district before retiring. He was a native of Minnesota.

He is survived by his wife Esther of the home, a daughter, Jeanne Snyder of Mill Valley and three grandchidlren.

The funeral will be 2 p.m. Monday in Peace Lutheran Church, Mill Valley. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Board Gets Ball Rolling For Tennis-Swim Center

Marin County supervisors committed the county yesterday to a new capital improvement program calling for a $1.5 to $2 million swim-tennis complex within the next five years. (Another supervisors budget story, page 1.)

While the well-organized group was prepared to speak in support of the funds, it didn't get the chance as the board — with little discussion — voted 3-1 approval over the protests of Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste.

The action came as the board neared the end of its seventh day of hearings on the record $47.4 million budget proposed for fiscal 1972-73.

Yesterday's session was a catch-all of smaller departments with the bulk of the time spent on the parks and recreation department's $1.5 million spending program.

Besides approving a $100,000 beginning for the swim-tennis complex (a figure later revised to $75,000), the board approved $700,000 for open space acquisition and $225,000 for the North Bay Front Park as requested by the department.

To help offset the added expenditures, the board scraped $208,000 worth of Civic Center remodeling, $100,000 for the proposed Corte Madera Bay Front Park, $60,000 for sewage treatment at Stafford Lake Park and $50,000 of improvements at Miller Park.

By the time it was through shuffling funds yesterday, the board wound up with a total budget that so far is only $70,000 less than the $47.4 million document recommended by County Administrator John F. Barrows.

The swim-tennis complex, opposed by Barrows, has been on the drawing table for about two years and envisions a total of three pools (at least one olympic sized) and at least 10 tennis courts.

Pierre W. Joske, director of parks and recreation, acknowledges the plan may be out of date and has been directed by the board to revise the original proposal.

The complex would be located at the North Bay Front Park which the board yesterday voted unanimously 4-0 to begin acquiring. (Supervisor John F. McInnis was absent due to ill health.)

Approval of the $100,000 brought prolonged applause from the tennis players, many of whom were dressed in crisp white shorts.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, who was about to leave for another appointment, urged adoption of the funding as an alternative to increasing the amount of funds for open space — about to be considered.

Baptiste protested the action, saying the board was acting too quickly but was outvoted.

Later, he and Supervisor Michael Wornum joined forces to reduce the $100,000 allocation by $25,000 which was then added to the $75,000 bicycle trails account. The tennis players had long since departed.

Baar, who urged the tennis complex instead of increasing open space funds from a recommended $300,000 to a requested $700,000, was not present when his fellow supervisors approved the latter figure.

The board approved a recommended $118,000 remodeling job on the health department's clinic in San Rafael but cut $208,000 worth of remodeling at the Civic Center.

The Civic Center project, supported bq Barrows as a means of providing more office space, was rejected by the board after a tour of existing office space.

With the exception of the public defender's office, which will be expanded with other minor projects, the board said the space problem could be solved without costly remodeling. A total of $80,000 was allocated for the Public Defender's remodeling and smaller projects.

Meanwhile, the county youth commission, which was pulled out from under the probation department last week, was put under the human rights department yesterday.

About $21,000 in requested auditorium equipment was cut from the $253,000 recommended budget for the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Other budget recommendations approved yesterday include: Landscape maintenance, $185,000 (up $55,000 from this year); county fairgrounds, $85,000 (down $2,000); county chamber of commerce, $30,000 (same); economic development, $32,000 (up $3,000); emergency employment program, $285,000 (up $15,000) federally funded; office of emergency services, $35,000 (new), and purchasing, $57,000 (down $10,000); Administrator's office, $140,701 (down 13,049); personnel division, $120,663 (up $1).

Plans Approved For Townhouses

The Novato Plan Review Committee has approved precise development plans for 182 townhouses at the crossroad development, northwest of Highway 101 and South Novato Boulevard.

The committee suggested Wednesday night that bicycle paths and bus stops be considered when plans for Redwood Boulevard, which will be the main road through the development, are submitted.

The townhouses are the second phase of development by McKeon Co., which has planned about 500 units, mostly townhouses, in the area.

Correct Spelling

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in the spelling in a story datelined Washington on a Marinite who is working under one of President Nixon's chief advisers. The name should have been spelled Douglas Hallett and not Hallet.

Reaction Mixed To Bus Route Switches

Extensive changes in routes and schedules of the Golden Gate Bridge District's bus system proposed yesterday by its staff brought mixed reactions from a committee of district directors.

The transportation committee endorsed changes proposed for Marin bus service and a two-month test of expanded weekend and holiday service to West Marin, but refused to approve a shift of midday service from the San Francisco Civic Center to that city's financial district.

If approved by the full board next Friday, the changes in the local Marin service will be effective July 30. Overlapping local and transbay runs will be combined by eliminating local buses, some areas will have better service, some worse, and some transfers will be eliminated.

New timetables showing the changes will be available sometime next month, according to Jerome Kuykendall, transportation developer.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said it was impossible to determine the effect on cost to Marin because of the complicated formula used to compute the county's share. The new service will save $172,935 by cutting operating mileage and hours, he said.

Kuykendall said service will be cut from each half-hour to hourly for Santa Venetia, Peacock Gap and Hamilton Air Force Base because of poor patronage.

Service will be extended for the first time to the Northgate industrial area and northeast Corte Madera (Redwood High School, Department of Motor Vehicles, Co-Op). Many other areas will have improved service, and Greenbrae will get midday local service.

Tiburon and Belvedere commuters no longer will have to transfer at the Alto Wye to catch buses to San Francisco.

Service will not be eliminated to any area now receiving it, he said.

The test of expanded West Marin service will double to eight the number of bus runs on weekends at a cost of about $3,500. The service, to run from July 1 through Labor Day, will link with the free half-hourly shuttle bus between Point Reyes National Seashore headquarters and Santa Maria Beach. The expanded service for the first time will provide service between Bolinas and Point Reyes National Seashore so that visitors can make a complete circle via Mount Tamalpais State Park, Stinson Beach, Bolinas, the national seashore, Samuel P. Taylor State Park and San Rafael.

The committee balked, however at a staff plan to shift all midday San Francisco bus routes from the San Francisco Civic Center to the financial district in order to attract shoppers.

San Francisco Supervisor John Molinari objected that midday truck traffic was too heavy downtown to permit even one bus from Marin each 15 minutes.

Luehring said the commuter buses have not aggravated traffic, adding, "This is designed to get the people, and not the cars, downtown."

The staff said its proposal would have saved $31,000 a year by cutting mileage, but stressed it was made to attract more riders to the midday runs from Marin.

Policyholders Gain Dividends From New Conception

By LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Casualty insurers need to get back to fundamental principles—to do things the way Lloyds of London did in the old days, says Mike Carmichael.

Prior to 1966, CIC was like lots of other small casualty insurors. It bumbled along, doing things "by the book," sticking to pre-determined risk formulas and rates and wondering why its revenues and profits didn't grow faster.

"Then our chairman, Ralph Applegate, decided to make a drastic change," Carmichael said. "We decided to use the rate tables the way they did at Lloyds — just as a rough guideline. We decided we would study every risk individually, take it on if we possibly could, no matter how tough it seemed, and negotiate a rate high enough to cover it. That couldn't be done in all states, but Illinois law permits it."

The policy has paid off like a winning lottery ticket.

Profits have risen 25 per cent a year, and there has been a 50 per cent stock dividend. Assets are up 74 per cent and premium income 83 per cent.

"We didn't accomplish that just by charging all the traffic would bear," said Carmichael. "We also showed our policyholders how to solve the problems that made them high risk cases in the first place. To accomplish this we created our own engineering staff and tackled customer problems that the bigger insurance companies had refused to bother with."

Carmichael gave some examples. There was the Chinese man who had a big basement restaurant. He couldn't keep his insurance because employes and customers kept falling on the stair. "He was having eight or nine falls a year in the place, each one costing the insurance carrier money," said Carmichael.

CIC agreed to take on the risk at a substantially increased rate but sent its own engineer to find a way to prevent the falls.

"We discovered the place had slick marble steps. The engineer put carborundum step plates on the stairs and the tumbling of workers and customers ceased," Carmichael said.

A small galvanizing shop had lost four workmen's compensation policies and had received cancellation notice on a fifth when it called in CIC. After evaluating the risk, CIC agreed to write it at a stiff premium. "The trouble here again was workmen falling and slipping constantly," said Carmichael. "Several ideas had been tried to stop the accidents without success. Our engineer put in duckboards or dunnage like bartenders stand on. That did the job."

CIC isn't always able to reduce risks but it can provide insurance sometimes for people who can't get it otherwise. "A case in point was a firm of tuck pointers, people who repair mortar joints on old buildings," he explained. "The rate table put them on the masons' rate but their accident experience was much higher than that of ordinary masonry workers so nobody would insure them. Our engineer decided to put them on the window washers' rate, which is quite a bit higher. They've been able to live with that very well and it's good business for us."

BLUE JEAN LOOK

When the 1973 American Motors Gremlin goes on sale this fall, it will be the first U.S. sub-compact to offer specially-created, fashion-oriented upholstery for the small car market. A blue denim "Levi's" optional trim package will introduce the blue jean look to the Gremlin interior. Authentic indigo blue cloth is fitted to the high back bucket seats in front and to a fold-down rear bench seat. The familiar "Levi's" copper rivets replace tufted buttons in seat backs and cushions.

Howard Johnson Restaurant Now Open, Lodge Two Weeks Away

Howard Johnson Restaurant, featuring fried clams, has finally opened for business on Shoreline Highway just west of Richardson Bay Bridge.

The restaurant, with a seating capacity of 180, is open 6 a.m. to 1 a.m. weekdays and from 6 a.m. to 2 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

Steve Manning of Santa Clara, manager, said the accompanying 100-unit motel and lodge should be ready for guests in about two weeks. Other facilities under construction are a swimming pool, saunas, and tennis courts.

A major office building called the Executive Center Building will also go up next to the restaurant-motel. The two-story office buildings, with a total of about 15,000 square feet of floor space, should be ready about August. Lease of the offices is being handled by Jack Krystal of 3030 Bridgeway, Sausalito.

The restaurant-motel complex, valued at one and a quarter million dollars, was started in 1968 but ran into a series of delays until the Leverage Funding Development Co. of Oakland took over the development this year.

JOHN F. WOODSON will move his real estate and mortgage company from Lincoln Avenue to downtown San Rafael in the Albert Building at 1018 B Street, next to the Independent-Journal building.

From the first of July, Woodson will open at the new location, formerly occupied by the William Nock Real Estate and most recently by The Cube furniture store.

Woodson first opened for business in 1950 in San Anselmo, moved to the Miracle Mile, then to 1414 Lincoln Avenue seven years ago. At his new location on B Street, Woodson will operate as Woodson Realtor and Woodson Mortgage Co., specializing in second deeds of trust on home loans. A member of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, Woodson also provides fee appraisals.

Pound Crisis Hurts Early Market Trade

Analysts said investors turned cautious following a British decision to allow the pound sterling to "float" on the international monetary exchange. The decision also raised the possibility that the U.S. Dollar also may be weakened.

Gulf Oil was the most active NYSE stock and was up 1-8 to 25 on 49,000 shares.

Prices also were lower on the American Stock Exchange. Tyco labs was the most active issue and was off 1 1-4 to 71 3-8 on 62,900 shares.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Firm Is Appealing But Speculative

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 22 years of age and like to venture in the stock market. I would like to buy A.J. Industries (NYSE) for speculation. Would you kindly give me your opinion on this stock? — G.K.

A. Following two consecutive deficit years, A.J. Industries turned in a profit for the fiscal year ended March. This diversified manufacturer posted operating net of $1.9 million, or 34 cents a share, a marked improvement over the prior year's $305,000 loss.

A.J. has completed its reorganization program, reducing subsidiaries and divisions to 16 from 24 in 1971. Along with this realignment, moreover, the company's financial condition improved. As of April, 1971, total indebtedness was $18 million; at the beginning of this year, however, it was down to $12 million. Also, the firm recently announced completion of an $8 million long-term loan agreement which returns A.J. to a more liquid position.

As sales and profits trend higher, so should A.J. stock. However, though the issue is attractive as a potential turnaround candidate, shares are speculative and not without risk.

Q. Will you please comment on Fluor Corp. (NYSE)? I bought at $43 and wonder if I should hold or take the loss. — M.B.

A. Due to a slowdown in petroleum and chemical capital spending, Fluor's earnings have been under pressure since the latter portion of 1969 — a situation which is, of course, reflected in the stock's price. Revenues for the three months ended January 31 continued this trend, declining 31 per cent while net income was off 30 per cent. A hesitancy by the oil sector to start new refinery construction in the absence of government antipollution guidelines has created a gap in Fluror's order backlog — hence the drop in revenues.

It is expected that this pattern will continue for the remainder of fiscal 1972. Over the longer term, however, Fluor has recovery appeal with construction demand projected to pick up in the various industries served and from improvement in its chemical operations. Patience may prove rewarding.

Top Officer

NEW YORK (BW) — George A. Warde has been elected president and chief operating officer of American Airlines Inc.

Sign Sizes Face Cuts In Larkspur

Maximum sign areas permitted in all Larkspur zoning districts, except residential, would be drastically reduced in new ordinance amendments to be drafted by the city staff.

The Larkspur Architectural Review Committee directed the planning staff to draft the proposed amendments at its meeting this week. John W. Appleton, building and planning superintendent, said the committee felt sign size was not a problem in residential zones.

The committee recommended approval to the planning commission of two applications for new developments in Larkspur.

The first is an 11-unit complex, to be built by the Leverage Funding Development Co. on South Eliseo Drive. The second application, by Broughton and Horne, is for a 10-unit townhouse complex on Larkspur Plaza Drive.

Appleton said an application by Millbrae Highlands for an apartment project on the most easterly developed section of South Eliseo Drive was continued for modification to final landscaping and parking plans.

A second application by Millbrae Highlands involved revised landscaping detail for a nine-unit apartment project on South Eliseo Drive between Corte Real and Via Jolon. This was recommended for approval, said Appleton.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and Parents' Magazine. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"101 Dalmations" — A clever take-off on the British detective yarns with dogs playing the important parts. Fifteen puppies are dognapped and the hunt and chase is suspenseful. A fresh semi-sophisticated approach to feature length cartoons.

"Swiss Family Robinson" — The story of a Swiss family marooned by shipwreck on a tropical desert island is told with a wealth of details. A remarkable tree house is built and a unique fortress from which to repel pirate attacks add to family solidarity.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Culpepper Cattle Co." — The grime, harshness and brutality of life on the trail is authentically presented. Our hero on his first cattle drive has many adventures which mature him to manhood. Considerable violence.

"Nicholas and Alexandra" — The tragic, intimate story of Tsar Nicholas and his family and the period of Russian history from 1904 to 1918. This fascinating classic drama has an excellent cast, is full of color and pageantry but is long and violent without much fast action.

"Sometimes a Great Notion" — A tense dramatic adventure about the dangerous logging operation in the timber wilderness of Oregon. A family of independent loggers defy the union when they call a strike. A family feud adds to the situation. Some violence and rough language.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Cabaret" — Decadently manic mood of pre-Nazi Germany is captured in this adaptation of the racy Broadway musical. A kinky American girl delights in shocking the people with her behavior as a cabaret singer and in her private life. Sophisticated and bawdy with sex and foul language.

"Cowboys" — A tough cattleman hires and trains several school boys to drive his cattle 400 miles to market. As the drive progresses the boys become expert in the use of violence and torture in fighting off cattle rustlers. The gory scenes with young boys wielding guns and knives is unforgivable and makes films unsuitable for young audiences.

"From Russia With Love" — Rapid fire adventure of James Bond. Adult fun if you like perplexing action punctuated by sexy situations and spectacular refinements of death dealing gadgets.

"Garden of Finzi Continis" — Intriguing film about a small group of Jewish youths living in Italy prior to World War II. Their romances are played against a backdrop of fear from war and persecution. Nudity. English subtitles.

"Goldfinger" — Another Bond caper this time dealing with plans to destroy the U.S. economy by stealing the gold from Fort Knox. Sadistic brutality, blatant and brassy sex, violence and mayhem.

"Paint Your Wagon" — A lusty irreverent script is the frame work for the elaborately mounted broad comedy about the vices and vulgarities of frontier living during gold rush days.

"Play It Again, Sam" — In this sex comedy Woody Allen is a dedicated movie buff and as a writer lives in a fantasy world where he gets advice from his favorite actor, Humphrey Bogart, on how to solve his sex problem.

"Summer of '42" — Three 15-year-old boys wander through an island beach summer, obsessed with sex and its mysteries.

ADULTS OCLY

"Cheyenne Social Club" Two cowpokes whose carefree life on the range is interrupted by the inheritance of a brothel. One wants to close the place down but the towns people rebel. Dialogue is frank and the prostitutes are supposed to be cute.

"The Conformist" — A psychological study of one man, contains complex insights into the overall nature of fascism and its appeal to people who are trying to hide from themselves. Italian made, English subtitles. Sex and nudity.

"Godfather" — Gripping epic gangster film filled with excessive violence. The head of Mafia family leads two lives — as a kindly head of a family and then a leader of a mob whose business is killing.

"The Graduate" — Sophisticated modern satire about a young college graduate who returns to his wealthy parents home to loneliness in their materialistic world. He has a torrid love affair with a married woman only to fall in love with her daughter.

"Loving" — Bitter contemporary drama about the struggles of a commercial artist to overcome the pressures of the suburban life and his job. A grotesquely lewd escapade shown and language extremely frank.

"Play Misty For Me" — A terrifying suspense thriller about a radio disc jockey and an insane fan who pursues him. Many bloody deaths and some sex scenes.

TIBURON POLICE FORCE

New Era To Begin Soon

By JAY GOODWIN

They don't have any guns yet. Their uniforms haven't arrived. The lieutenant is still using a rickety card table for a desk and the police radio has yet to be seen.

But, ready or not, the spanking new Tiburon police force will take over police duties in Tiburon from the Marin County Sheriff's Department beginning at precisely 4 p.m. June 30.

Ever since it was incorporated eight years ago the City of Tiburon has paid the county for police protection provided by the sheriff's department.

In a matter of days, however, the city will begin to enjoy the benefits — and pay the increased cost —of its own force.

At the helm of the new department is Maurice (Mike) D. Lafferty, formerly a lieutenant with the Novato Police Department. After 11 years in Novato, Lafferty landed the job of police chief of the nonexistant Tiburon force, and has built it from scratch.

"This is something I have always wanted to do," said Lafferty, a pleasant, friendly man, who shatters the image of the rough-and-ready lawman. "Very seldom does one get a chance during a career to start your own department."

"When you build a police department, you don't climb up on a pickup truck and start yelling orders," explained Lafferty. "It's not that dramatic at all."

Without dramatics or fanfare, he's pieced together his department through organization, budget preparation and personnel recruitment.

First, said Lafferty, a thorough study of the police protection needs of Tiburon had to be prepared. In the case of Tiburon, such a study had already been made in 1971 by Edward S. Kreins, police chief of Pleasant Hill.

The Kreins report has served as the basis for Lafferty's early planning and organizing.

Every community, said Lafferty, has a different sociological complexion that requires a different blend of police protection.

According to the new chief, Tiburon is a "fluid" city whose weekend tourists, young, single residents and plush homes present unique problems for a local police force.

With weekend sightseers swelling the downtown business district, more patrolmen will be on duty Saturday and Sunday than any other time during the week, said Lafferty.

MAURICE D. LAFFERTY
Builds from scratch

Lafferty guessed that the city's young, single residents — who often move in and out of Tiburon in a matter of months — will create other problems for his department.

Where there are single residents, attractive air line stewardesses and young divorcees, said Lafferty, you can expect some bad checks, prowlers, and peeping toms. The young transient population, said the chief, is generally less likely to feel any "community involvement."

The luxurious residences in Tiburon present another problem for the police to tackle: Burglaries. The new chief hopes to cut burglaries by stepping up the present patrols in the neighborhoods and seeking the cooperation of the residents. He expects his officers to check suspicious vehicles cruising down residential streets, but stresses that such an effort requires the assistance of homeonwers.

"When it comes to burglaries, it's not that people won't help. It's that people don't know how to help," said Lafferty.

To combat this ignorance, the chief expects to establish regular community coffees at which members of the department will appear to answer questions and listen to community attitudes.

The get-together over coffee is just part of an overall effort by the new department to cater to the wishes and needs of the community, emphasizes Lafferty.

Perhaps, the most time-consuming part of the department's work will be traffic control. According to Lt. Manick, Tiburon is suffering from a "fantastic accident problem," with 68 accidents within the last 11 months.

The new department will vigorously enforce the law along the hazardous portions of Tiburon Boulevard, siad Manick, and, if necessary, install a radar unit on the dangerous road.

Lafferty and Manick are of the new breed of policemen who have discarded the gruff, cops-and-robbers approach to police work in favor of a more sensitive, individualized approach to crime prevention.

Said Manick, "the old concept of you commit a crime . . . we catch you . . . you go to jail" has got to be abandoned. Our sole goal is to try to treat people like individuals. Our intent is to work with people and keep them out of the criminal justice system."

This working philosophy is particularly important when applied to juveniles, said Manick. Traditional agencies established to help youthful offenders have been unsuccessful, so the Tiburon force intends to work with these youngsters, said the husky lieutenant.

The new force — with 11 sworn personnel, three dispatcher-clerks and one traffic patrolman — will be twice as large as the present force of deputy sheriffs.

The cost to maintain the new force is about $68,000 higher than the renting the county's protection.

With the additional money, the new department will maintain office hours from 8 a.m. to midnight, beginning July 1 and around-the-clock beginning January 1, 1973.

Marin County operates a communications system for small police departments like Tiburon (presently) and Belvedere. If the station is closed, the call is directed to the county communications center, which in turn contacts the patrolman out on his beat in a patrol car.

This system will continue to be used in Tiburon when station is closed from July to January.

Currently, with the short-staffed sheriff's service, the police station has no regular hours and deputy sheriffs are often out on patrol when residents need assistance at the station.

The new department will make its home in a 1,650-square-foot station, on the ground floor of a building next to city hall.

The building, like the rest of the department, was picked by Lafferty. The chief — who draws a salary of $17,400 — even drew the floor plans for his new headquarters.

"As far as the accommodations are concerned, we got more than we hoped for," Lafferty said.

Housing Unit Gets $5,000 From Fund

The Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin has received a $5,000 grant from the Zellerbach Family Fund, which in addition to a $15,000 grant from the San Francisco Foundation assures half the association's 1972-73 budget.

Richard Rosenberg, funding drive chairman, told association members Wednesday night that business leaders have given advice on conducting a drive to raise funds to match the grants. The association also has income from membership dues.

The association was told by Eugene Burger of Barcelon and Burger, management agents, that a 12 per cent rent hike at Pilgrim Park, the county's first moderate income project, is necessary.

He said that raises of from $13 to $20 a month were needed because adequate operating, administrative and maintenance costs were not originally provided for.

Federal authorities have said that no more than a 2.5 per cent increase would be allowed, Burger said, but he plans to appeal this limit as he said it would financially jeopardize the development.

Association president William Parnow has predicted that groundbreaking on a 66-unit apartment project for elderly persons of moderate income will begin in mid-August or early September. The project, to be called Martinelli House, will be built at 1327 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, on property now used for Marin Open House.

MOST PEOPLE BUY IT BECAUSE IT'S A VOLVO FIRST. AND A STATION WAGON SECOND.

To spend good money for a wagon while ignoring the car that pulls it around is to put the cart before the horse.

First: a Volvo has adjustable bucket seats for any body up to 6'6"; four-wheel power disc brakes; six coats of protection against rust; eight steel pillars to surround five human passengers.

Second: with the back seat down and the tailgate closed, our wagon will hold a 74" sofa. Or enough luggage for Swedes who travel more than any other Europeans.

So if you need a wagon, see us. We'll show you a Volvo.

Eight Are Sentenced For Drunken Driving

Eight persons were sentenced last Friday by Judge David R. Baty in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Sentenced were:

Leo Paradis, 72, of 1333 Fourth Street, Apt. 8, San Rafael, arrested March 5 in San Rafael, placed on probation for six months and ordered to work 100 hours for the Marin Volunteer Bureau.

Dean Robert Kuns, 22, of Hamilton Air Force Base, arrested April 23 on Highway 101, placed on probation for six months and fined $200.

Haig Terzian, 51, of Dinuba, Tulare County, arrested April 19 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Thomas Francis Travers, 48, of 17 Skylark Drive, Larkspur, arrested April 8 in Larkspur, placed on probation for six months, fined $302 and sentenced to five days in jail.

Joseph Edward Briner, 42, of San Francisco, arrested May 28 on Highway 101, placed on probation for six months and fined $302.

Eleanor Merle Cunningham, 46, of 300 Cecilia Way, Tiburon, arrested May 7 in Sausalito, placed on probation for six months and fined $250.

Garland Rhinehart Reier, 33, of Skylark Motel, Novato, arrested June 10 on Highway 101, placed on probation for six months and fined $302.

Michael Allen Swanson, 21, of 18 Allyn Avenue, San Anselmo arrested March 29 in San Anselmo, placed on probation for six months, fined $250 or must work 10 days for Marin County Parks and Recreation Department.

Auction Set On Unclaimed Items

The Sausalito Police Department will hold an auction of unclaimed items at 10 a.m. July 1 in the city council chambers, Capt. R. David Malkin reported.

Among the items recovered and found by police, but not claimed by their owners are bicycles and bicycle parts, radios, televisions, stereo systems and jewelry, according to the captain.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Try this quiz on the birthday of WILMA RUDOLPH (1940-), Olympic champion.

T F 1. Weighing only four-and-one-half pounds at birth, Wilma barely survived babyhood and was so crippled by illness at the age of four that she lost the use of her left leg.

T F 2. Thanks to the devotion of her mother, a domestic worker, who took little Wilma 90 miles weekly to a clinic for two years, she regained the ability to walk and became so enthralled that she began running everywhere.

T F 3. By the year 1960 this ex-cripple was entered in the Olympic Games in Italy, won the women's100-meter and 200-meter dashes and anchored the victorious 400-meter team, becoming the first American female to win three Gold Medals in track.

T F 4. Now 32 years old, Wilma's only regret is that other girls from other countries have broken all of the Olympic records she set 10 years ago.

ANSWERS

1. TRUE — Wilma was born in St. Bethlehem, Tenn., 45 miles southeast of Nashville.

2. TRUE — She was unable to walk without wearing a special shoe during childhood.

3. TRUE — The Associated Press named her America's Female Athlete of 1960.

4. FALSE — Her 100-meter dash time of 11-seconds (flat) is still a record.

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Currently The 'Low Play' May Be The Way To Save Your Honor

In the more gracious days of the past, people attached more importance to honor than they do today. In those golden days, a "low play" was a dishonorable action. Today, especially to bridge players, a low play may be the best way to save your honor.

Opening lead — ♠ Q

IN DRIVER'S SEAT

Put yourself in the South seat for the play of today's hand. West opens the queen of spades against your contract of three no-trump.

Naturally, you refuse the first trick. Just as naturally, West continues with the jack of spades. You win with the king of spades and embark on your plan.

Somehow or other you must develop four diamond tricks to make your contract. You won't have time to get a heart trick.

Your best chance is that West has only one small diamond with his ace. With this thought in mind you lead a low diamond from your hand toward the dummy.

West plays low, of course, and dummy's queen wins the trick. Now you return a low diamond from the dummy, and East menacingly plays the jack of diamonds.

DON'T COVER

This is no time to cover an honor with an honor. Your king of diamonds is the honor we've been talking about throughout, and your only chance to save it is to play low.

As it happens, West is obliged to play his ace of diamonds anyway. You can use your king to extract East's last diamond, and you will win four diamond tricks.

EASY TO SEE

It's easy to see that you would go down if you played the king of diamonds on the second round of that suit. West would win with the ace, and East would still have a diamond stopper.

ANSWER: Bid one spade. You have 12 points in high cards, good distribution, two aces and five playing tricks. What more could you ask?

Phone Company Asks Rate Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The California Public Utilities Commission received a $198.2 million annual interim rate hike request from the Pacific Telephone Co.

The request came Wednesday, just two weeks after the state Supreme Court ruling ordering the phone company to return $143 million in income the firm received from a PUC-approved rate increase last July.

The court said, however, that the company could petition for interim increases.

Animal Society Needs 'Parents'

The St. Francis Animal Protection Society needs youngsters between the ages of 12 and 18 to act as summer "foster parents" to baby animals, especially kittens, according to society board member Eva Sterquelle.

Care is needed for the animals for limited periods of time until the society locates homes for them, she said. Instructions on feeding and care will be provided to volunteers, and parental consent is required.

IQ Tests For Blacks Booted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal judge has ordered the San Francisco Unified School District to cease using IQ tests as a criterion for placing blacks in classes for the mentally retarded.

U.S. District Judge Robert F. Peckham issued a temporary injunction Wednesday against the practice, saying blacks made up a "disproportionate amount" of students in such classes.

He noted that blacks constitute 28.5 per cent of all students in the district but 66 per cent of those in classes for the mentally retarded.

Backpacking Course Will Be Offered

Several brand new programs, including hiking and backpacking, film-making, and a drama workshop, are in the Corte Madera-Larkspur summer recreation program which starts Monday.

Hiking and backpacking is offered because so many students requested it, according to Jacqueline A. Branch, recreation coordinator for Corte Madera. Children, who must be 9 or over, will hike a different trail each week, and join an overnight campout. Registration for hiking is at the following school playgrounds Monday: Corte Madera town park, Greenbrae School, Larkspur-Corte Madera School, Granada and San Clemente.

The film-making class will be instructed by Susan Felter a professional filmmaker, and the students will learn simple animated film techniques.

Jack Randall, former theater manager in New York City, is the instructor for the Friday drama workshop (at Greenbrae school in the morning, at town park in the afternoons.) Randall, who is working on a PhD in drama, will mount a production for students to perform county-wide in August.

Hearing On New Sewer Rates Set

The Tiburon Sanitary District will hold a public hearing Monday on a proposed ordinance that would establish sewer service charges of $12 per year for single-family homes and about $75 per year for apartment and duplex units with two bathrooms.

According to board member Robert A. Sterling, the new sewer service charge would raise approximately $65,000 for the financially strapped district.

The proposed ordinance — which places a heavier burden on apartment and duplex dwellers than on homeowners — was designed to equalize the overall contribution of all district taxpayers, said board member James Murray.

Murray said that homeowners are currently paying a disproportionately large share of the district's property tax revenues.

While the service charge for single-family homes would be fixed at $12 per year, the charge for apartments and duplexes would vary.

Under the proposed ordinance, bath tubs would constitute two fixture units; lavatories, two; toilets, two, and kitchen sinks, three.

An apartment with two bathrooms and a kitchen sink could be charged $75.

The fixture unit rating would be doubled under the ordinance for commercial enterprises like restaurants and bars.

According to Sterling, similar service charges have already been established in Sausalito and Bolinas.

Little King Dispute Under Judicial Study

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday took under submission the legal dispute over grading of Little King Mountain being waged by Larkspur and the estate of Adolph A. Tiscornia.

Judge E. Warren McGuire gave the opposing sides until July 10 to file their written arguments in the case after a week of testimony about the troubled history of grading efforts atop the peak.

The estate run by Alice B. Copeland Vincilione and her husband, Paul, has been trying since 1968 to grade the bald peak ringed by trees, but the battle spilled over into the courts only after the city council turned down a grading plan this year.

The council voted May 1 to uphold its planning commission's denial of a permit to move up to 350,000 cubic yards of dirt to the lowlands across Magnolia Avenue. The original 3-2 vote which the council had decided to reconsider became 5-0 on May 15 when the council learned of alleged illegal grading.

The council sued to abate the nuisance and the Vincilione's countered by asking the court to order the city to issue a grading permit.

Attorney Wallace S. Myers, representing the property interests, has argued the city made no showing the project was detrimental to the city and therefore had no right to deny the earthmoving.

Mrs. Vincilione has sought the grading to prepare both the peak of Little King and the now useless lowland next to Corte Madera Creek for development.

The estate claims it will cost an additional $360,000 to import fill.

Youth Gets CYA Term In Robbery

George Gregory Watts, 18, of San Francisco was sentenced yesterday to the California Youth Authority for the armed robbery of a San Rafael couple in their home last year.

Completing a plea bargain made last week, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court sent the youth to the state institution for the robbery Oct. 29 which netted $600 in possessions and cash for Watts and three others.

Charles Anthony Henry, 19, of Marin City has already been sentenced to the youth authority for the crime and Ernest Barrow Baird, 18, of San Francisco has agreed to a state prison sentence provided it is concurrent with one he is already serving for a conviction in San Francisco. He is to be sentenced July 24.

A fourth person involved in the attack is still being sought. The quartet bound, gagged and threatened the couple before robbing them, according to police.

Santa Rosan Gets Jail Time In Car Theft Case

Jerry Lee Miller, 29, of Santa Rosa was sentenced yesterday to four months in the county jail for a car theft that involved changingthe license plates and ignition of the car.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court also placed him on five years' probation as part of the plea bargain arranged last month.

Miller and a companion, Gerald David Flowers, 28, of Sebastopol were arrested Jan. 10 by California Highway Patrol officers after they stopped their car on Highway 101, then drove slowly past a patrol car, according to officers.

The car had been stolen in San Rafael, then license plates from a wrecked car Miller had bought were transferred to it, they said.

The arrest took place on Civic Center Drive.

Miller had previously been jailed seven times for nonviolent crimes like nonsupport of his former wife and welfare fraud.

Battle Charged With Battery

Otis Lee Battle, 31, of San Rafael, arrested on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon last Friday has been charged in Marin Municipal Court with three charges of battery and a misdemeanor count of exhibiting a hammer.

A woman told San Rafael police he beat her up on three different occasions and threatened her with a hammer.

High School ROTC Unit Honored

Brig. Gen G. G. Cassiday Jr., commander of the Air Force ROTC headquarters, Maxwell Air Force Base, notified the school recently that the squadron was among 11 out of 196 selected for the honor.

The squadron also won the award, which includes a plaque and flag streamer, during the 1970-71 school year.

Lt. Col. Walter C. Van Emon is the aerospace education instructor with the squadron and Chief M/Sgt. Harry C. Whitlock is assistant aerospace education instructor. Both are retired from the Air Force.

Pain To Participate In Math Workshop

Two Novato School District staff members, Richard Melendy and Beverly Ehreth, will participate in a three-week math workshop sponsored by the National Science Foundation at Syracuse University in New York from July 31 to Aug. 18.

Melendy, the district's mathematics curriculum specialist, and Mrs. Ehreth, a sixth grade teacher at Pleasant Valley School, were chosen as 32 participants from applicants from all over the country.

Rodeo Will Take Spotlight Tonight At Sonoma-Marin Fair

The Sonoma-Marin Fair went into its third day today with special children's programs planned and a rodeo to get under way at 8 p.m. in the grandstand.

Fair attendance yesterday was set at 8,983 an increase of 684 over the second day attendance in 1971.

Rodeo stars from around the country have registered for the event that will also be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. Entrants will gather official points toward the National Rodeo Championship and include Jim Wheatley of Hughson, Colusa County, the current leader.

Special awards were also given yesterday in a special senior citizens program. Singled out were Ina Finch, 88, of Petaluma, oldest woman fairgoer; Mr. and Mrs. George Rollin of Petaluma, longest married couple at 57 years; Agnes Carlsen of Petaluma, most grandchildren with 19, and Bertha Koenig of Petaluma, most great-grandchildren with nine.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Cafe Ambrosia Combines The Two Musts—Food, Service—Very Well

The food is the thing — also the service.

Anyone who operates a restaurant has to keep both of these elements in mind constantly — or go for broke. Atmosphere and restaurant decor are important, too, but they are frosting on the cake, framing for the picture. And an empty frame, no matter how beautiful is hardly an inspiration.

A restaurant is a public service business. Chances are that you, like thousands of others, take your dining out downright seriously and expect more from a restaurant than you usually demand from any other type of business. And this is no exception if you are a man. Men are usually more easy going and tolerant than their wives when buying something in a store — but in a restaurant they can be even fussier. Most of the complaints I receive are from men.

And among restaurant owners, those who have lots of past experience in the game are generally better in holding their customers than the dilettantes, even though the latter are often very capable in preparing food. The deciding factor is something psychological, which the novice often finds hard to understand.

It's gratifying to see one little San Anselmo restuarant making a good name for itself, because its owners observe all the little requirements for food, service and customer relations quite naturally.

George and Bonnie Loizos, who operate the Cafe Ambrosia, were both well trained in their field before they opened on the side of San Anselmo's Red Hill 18 months ago. That cut down their handicap. And George was a qualified chef in his own right. He knows his food, particularly Greek and Mediterranean food — an asset in an area that boasts only a few Greek restaurants.

Cafe Ambrosia's menu is not an extensive one by some standards, but it offers nine different entrees and that should be enough for most. If you can't get interested in squab chicken, rack of lamb and pilaff, lamb shish kebob, a delightful Mediterranean veal picatta, scallops en brochette, scampi, moussaka or a few other Helenic specialties you don't belong there.

There is no hard liquor served at Cafe Ambrosia and I find this to my liking. You are obliged to check out the wine list, which has some excellent choices you might miss after swishing down martinis. George has a new addition, a light, dry, white Grecian wine, without the strong retsina flavor that usually charterizes wines from Greece. If there are four of you, I am sure you will want to order a second bottle.

Reservations are important — especially right now. During the early summer it will be open only three nights a week — Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. But this makes the rest of the week available for private parties (of 20 or more) by reservation.

Atmosphere? This restaurant has that, too. Part of it on Friday and Saturday nights is provided by an exotic dancer called Karima. She's very talented and does much to make your evenings more enjoyable.

BIG STEAK EATER? Can't get enough of it?

Then the place for you is Nero's Restaurant at the Nave Lanes in Ignacio.

BEGINNING SUNDAY, The Caprice in Tiburon will be open for lunches every day of the week except Saturday. This is a nice spot for window gazing over the waters of Raccoon Strait.

You should make advance reservations.

AND THAT LITTLE French restaurant in Sausalito, Le Vivoir, which also has a panoramic view from its windows, has changed its schedule. It's now open seven days a week for dinners — 6 to 10 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and from 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Reservations are also advisable.

KARL AND EDITH KLAUDA will close down their little Austrian restaurant, Old Vienna, in San Rafael for the next two weeks while they take off on a vacation. Dedicated skin divers, they are making their annual trip to Guaymas in Mexico. Saturday is their last day for a while.

They'll be back in time to reopen on Friday, July 14.

CLASSICAL ENGRAVINGS from 1497 to 1925 will be on display starting next week at the Crocker Galleries in Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, San Rafael. About 28 different artists will be represented.

Crocker's Gallery in San Francisco will probably close for a while after the end of the month, due to the termination of its lease at 531 Sutter Street. Other locations in that city are being considered.

THERE'S NOW AN INCENTIVE for early diners at Rubini's.

This Fairfax restaurant is offering an "earlybird special." Those seated in the dining room before 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights will have a $1 deduction in their tabs.

He is Le Baron Hibbs, formerly of the East Coast and now living in Oakland. His style is well liked and he's good for singalong music.

THESE ARE BUSY DAYS at the Russian River. Restaurants that were doing only a moderate business a couple of weeks ago have picked up in pace with the closing of schools and the start of the vacation season. They'll be busy until the opening of schools again.

Hexagon House, near Armstrong Woods, Guerneville is open for dinners all through the week from 5 p.m.

Also in Guerneville, near the bridge, Guerneville Inn's bar and dining room opens at 6 p.m. Closed Tuesdays.

Buck's at Fourth and Mill streets in Guerneville has a similar schedule. Bar and dining room at 6 p.m. Next Monday will be a day of closing but starting July 1 the restaurant will be open seven days a week through September.

In Monte Rio, Angelo's Resort and Restaurant serves dinners Wednesdays through Sundays during the summer, starting at 6 p.m. Service starts earlier on Sundays and holidays — 4 or 5 p.m. The bar is open at noon.

Cazanoma Lodge in Cazadero is now on its five-day-a-week schedule through September. Dinners are from 5 p.m. weekdays, and lunches and dinners are served Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from noon. The lodge closes Mondays and Tuesdays — except for the holidays.

RICO'S IN SAUSALITO is closed, but I understand that Sam Zakessian, who owns Zack's across the Bridgeway, the Jolly Friars in San Francisco and also the property at 1219 Bridgeway where Rico's was located, is going to do something about reopening — under another name, of course.

Cotati To Fete Its 7th Annual Community Day

Cotati will celebrate its seventh annual community day Sunday beginning at 11 a.m. with bicycle races, games, music and a barbecue.

Game and food booths sponsored by local organizations will open at 11 a.m. at the Veterans Memorial Building. Special races and games will be held during the afternoon.

A rock concert featuring the Bronze Hog and Cat Mother will begin at 4 p.m. along with a barbecue featuring beef and chicken teriyaki.

Proceeds will benefit various local organizations and the Ralph E. McGinnis Scholarship Fund at Santa Rosa Junior College in memory of the fire chief who died this year.

New President Of Jaycees Is Elected

ATLANTA (UPI)—Samuel D. Winer, 29, of New Martinsville, W.Va., was elected president of the U.S. Jaycees early today after 13 hours of balloting by the 12,000 convention delegates.

Court's Convenience In Lieu Of Justice

It has been estimated that 90 per cent of criminal convictions in courts of the 50 states and the federal system result from pleas of guilty.

At first glance, this is an impressive figure. Granted that nearly half the cases brought to trial end with acquittals, it still would seem to indicate that about one of every two of those charged with crimes knows the case against him is so unbeatable that he does not even try to contest it; he just pleads guilty.

It's not quite that way.

THE VAST MAJORITY of these guilty pleas result from plea bargaining.

There is nothing in the laws to provide for plea bargaining. It is a device adopted for the convenience of courts and prosecutors.

The law sets forth the penalty for each class of crime. For instance, armed robbery is a felony, punishable by a prison term. So is robbery by force. But "exhibiting a gun in a threatening manner" is a misdemeanor, which can draw a county jail sentence or probation. So is simple assault.

So what happens?

A MAN IS accosted by a hoodlum on a dark street. The hoodlum draws a gun and demands the victim's money. The victim hands over his pocketbook. But then, as the robber runs away, the victim leaps behind a tree for protection and shouts, "Stop thief!" at the top of his lungs.

He is in luck, for just then a police car cruises by. The police chase and collar the robber, and the victim identifies him. He has thrown away the victim's wallet, which is found lying on the sidewalk. The money it contained — along with the gun — are in his pocket.

The police book him on suspicion of armed robbery. The victim signs a complaint. He is charged and arraigned in court.

BUT THEN HIS attorney appears and proposes a bargain. The identification must be in doubt, he contends, because the street was dark. The arrested man did not have the victim's wallet. The money is not identifiable. As for the gun, he carried it for his own protection — as many people do nowadays.

However, suggests the attorney, his client is willing to plead guilty to a charge of simple assault; he is willing to admit that he jostled the man on the sidewalk, but not that he pointed the gun at him and took his money.

The courts are crowded (not so much, perhaps, because of the high crime rate as because of their own delays; but that is another story). "Clearing the calendar" is important. And so the plea bargain is accepted — and the robber gets a jail term, perhaps suspended.

A JUDGE of Marin Superior Court insisted to us recently that this system is necessary. "The Superior Court simply could not handle the case load without plea bargaining," he declared.

Maybe not.

But is it justice?

What good are laws prescribing penalties if a criminal is to be punished, not for what he did but just for what he is willing to admit he did?

"Button, button! Who's got the button?"

SACRAMENTO SCENE

By RUS WALTON

He was 16 and full of life and laughter and all the things boys are full of at that very magical age.

But, there is no more laughter in Jeff Adams — and no more life.

He was killed instantly last week. Hit by a vagrant bullet during a gun flight between the Springfield police and a cheap hood from California. Jeff and his dad were driving along when a slug slammed through their car door and his life was over.

"WHY," YOU MAY ASK, "why should we shed a tear for Jeff Adams?"

I will tell you why.

You see, Charles Hein, the 30-year-old hood who was fighting it out with the police in that Oregon gun battle, should not have been in Springfield. He should have been sitting in a cell back in San Quentin.

Charles Hein had been convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. But he was not in prison.

Under the soft-headed policies of the California authorities he was about to be paroled and so he had been given a 24-hour pass to look for work on the outside. Sort of a preliminary life-adjustment trip.

WELL, HEIN NEVER went looking for a job. With his 20-year-old brother, Mel, he took off for Oregon. That is where law enforcement agencies finally caught up with him. And that is where the stray bullet caught up with young Jeff Adams.

This is not the first time that the addlepated policies of our correctional system have resulted in the death of an innocent victim.

Not too long ago a young Orange County high school teacher was raped and murdered by two convicts out on a 52-hour pass.

Not too long ago an inmate out on a 72-hour pass from the correctional institution at Chico beat and raped the wife of a prison guard.

BLEEDING HEARTS will tell you that the parole and probation system works fairly well; that these incidents were unfortunate mistakes. Well, we are sick of burying their mistakes.

The first — the real — purpose of government is to protect its citizens from their enemies, within and without.

And, the first — the foremost — purpose of prisons (or, correctional institutions, if that suits your fancy) is to protect the lawabiding from those who have violated the law. After that comes punishment. After that comes rehabilitation. We need certain reforms in the prison system. You bet. Fair, firm, humane reforms — not those reforms which would risk the lives and well-being of the citizenry.

But, bleeding hearts have a way of making the most noise and wishy-washy politicians have a way of reacting to their pressures. And so it is, in this enlightened age, that the young Jeff Adams's of this world must pay for the mistakes of the do-gooders and the gutless.

It's not enough for some parole officer to say, "I guess I goofted on Charles Hein." It's not enough for the Adult Authority to say, "Gosh, we're sorry." Tell that to Jeff Adams' mother.

LAST YEAR 30 PER CENT of those arrested for felonies in this state were already on parole or probation for prior felony convictions.

The prison officials boast that the California prison population is going down (while the crime rate for felonies is going up). Well, Charles Hein's cell was empty for a while last week — and Jeff Adams' bed is empty forever.

Animal Pictures Display Tenderness

I wish to congratulate you on the animal photographs which appear in your paper. They show compassion, tenderness and love.

Somehow I always have such a feeling of warmth when I see them. I usually cry a little, and remember there are many many good people in this mixed-up world who peel away the crust and see what is truly important: the innocent, the beasts, and the children.

Magazine Story Augments Volunteers

As executive director of the Volunteer Bureau of Marin County I should like to express my appreciation for the outstanding coverage you gave to our fund raising project, the Designers Showcase.

There is no doubt the beautiful story in Saturday's magazine played a very important part in helping this to be a successful event.

Thinks Jurors' Fears Set Angela Free

It was a day of horrible miscarriage of justice in our courts.

It was a day when a fear-filled jury disregarded their conscience and enabled themselves to get out of a court room and possibly escape from being shot themselves.

Even as the good Christian judge who had his face shot off and another man who became a wheelchair victim for the rest of his life, or anyone else who was harmed in the case, my heart goes out to the people. I say that just as sure as there is a just God in heaven, if Angela Davis is guilty she will get her just punishment some day.

City Of Tiburon Seeks To Save Ridges

Your editorial of June 19, "For Open Space, Keep Hilltops Clear," may soon prove a prophecy.

As a result of our own and independent expert study the Tiburon City Council has just about come to the same conclusion. Presently proposed, as part of our open space program, is a linear park along the ridge tops of the Tiburon Peninsula to be achieved by a combination of rezoning new road patterns and outright purchase. At the next council meeting on June 26, we will consider a resolution calling for a city-wide general obligation bond to enable us to realize this concept.

We agree that this "reversal of form" is overdue and believe that the open ridge concept will preserve to the community public space that can be enjoyed and be shared by all neighborhoods and yet enhance compatible private development on adjacent properties.

The hills of Marin County are generally too fragile to bear the weight of massive development on their crests without looking a bit squashed for the experience.

Are Public Officials For Selves Or People?

It seams to be a habit that high salaried officials of our Marin County departments still request far higher pay hikes. Why can't they learn to economize like the majority of people must do and try to live on what they get and help keep the property taxes down? Are they for themselves or the little people?

To Combat Pollution, First Stop Littering

Lately, the Independent-Journal has been swamped with letters about pollution. All of them have been against it, but all have had different solutions for it.

Some have blamed large corporations for air and water pollution from factories. Others have condemned the automobile and their poor anti-smog devices. What people forget to do is blame themselves.

We are the ones who support these corporations. So, if you think the corporations are contributing to pollution, boycott it. We are the ones who drive the cars, so if you think cars are polluting, stop driving.

More importantly, though, is our refusal to stop littering. Everyone is always talking about how bad pollution is while throwing a soft drink can out their car window. The reader may feel that this does not apply to him, but it does. No one is innocent of littering. We've all done it in varying degrees.

As we drive to work or school every day, we pass quite a lot of litter. The problem is that we're so used to it, we don't notice it any more.

Among the worst places in East San Rafael is the part of San Pedro Road that goes through Bayside Acres. The road is lined with cans thrown out of passing cars. As one goes past the new Sea View residential area ... there will be a strange white glare on the hillside (when the sun hits it). This glare is caused by paper and other garbage tossed down by people living on the hill. A friend and I cleared up one such area and I would encourage all readers to do the same.

... If you don't have an hour you can spare to help clean up this mess, at least prevent it from getting worse by not littering.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Unusual Role Given Kissinger Makes President's Policies Work

WASHINGTON — You may have heard Dr. Henry Kissinger described as the greatest diplomatic impresario since Prince Metternich hung up his spikes.

He is the No. 1 topic of conversation at Washington parties and along the press club corridors.

He is the No. 2 topic of conversation in Japan, China, Russia, Bangladesh and Rwanda.

THESE REMARKS are not made wholly in jest. They are partly serious. They rest on a central truth and that truth concerns the powerful and ubiquitous role which Kissinger plays at the President's elbow in crucial foreign policy initiatives.

He has been at the creative center of every major policy move the President has made — new relationships with China and Russia, a considerable dissolving of the cold war, the first stride toward ending the nuclear arms race, new joint enterprises with the Soviet Union.

No wonder there is so much talk about Kissinger.

But is it justified? Is he doing it all himself? Is President Nixon the instrument of Henry Kissinger, or is Henry Kissinger the instrument of President Nixon?

THESE ARE PERTINENT questions and all would not take the same answer. The answers I would give are these:

Each is indispensable to the other. Each has different capacities and experience and the two have meshed to produce a remarkable team.

Nixon knew he needed a Kissinger, he found him and gave his special talents full play.

Some might be ill at ease in working with a subordinate as intellectually brilliant as Kissinger. The President and Kissinger were at ease with each other from the start. No President has ever given a single assistant such range of function, such visibility, such latitude as Nixon has given to Kissinger. It is hard to overstate how much Kissinger has been free to do and directed to do. With the President's approval, he has roamed wherever the need for his abilities took him.

He has been a principal architect of foreign policy. He has provided the conceptual basis for nearly all of the President's main undertakings.

Before Kissinger came on the scene, Nixon knew where he wanted to go; namely to move away from confrontation and to create with all nations a stake in productive negotiation. Kissinger designed the road map. Nixon decided what he wanted to do and Kissinger found the best ways to do it.

KISSINGER IS NO ivory-tower intellectual. He can do — as well as think. When Hanoi wanted to try out secret negotiations, the President sent Kissinger. When the North Vietnamese want to try again, they will probably ask for Kissinger.

I doubt that either could have succeeded without the other. Nixon made the tough decisions and politically, diplomatically and militarily they took a large supply of faith and fortitude.

It is harder to wage peace than war and that is what Nixon and Kissinger are waging.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Perhaps it is abusing your good nature to ask that you use your imagination yet again, to envision a drama of high intrigue and low comedy in the utmost political circles. But I will not go so far as to ask that you imagine it's happening in the technically sophisticated, traditionally liberatarian United States. Nobody would consider it credible. Let us place it instead in a small and backward republic somewhere between Managua and Paramaribo.

In the middle of the muggy night, a guard at the headquarters of the Opposition Party stumbles on evidence that something funny is going on inside. He calls the militia. The militia find five men in various stages of legal undress — that is, taping door latches open, wearing surgical rubber gloves, taking panels out of the ceiling, manipulating wiretapping devices and miniature cameras and possessing stacks of brand-new $100 bills. The five are arrested, and their backgrounds are investigated.

One of them turns out to be a former communications expert with the government's Internal Police Bureau and the government's External Police Agency. But at the same time he was caught allegedly doing his Marx Brothers-Mack Sennet-Mission: Impossible routine, he was employed by the Committee to Re-Elect El Presidente (CREEP), and under contract to the Loyalist National Committee.

SUBVERSIVE REPORTERS of the radiclib press, stretching the evil practice of guilt by association to absurd lengths, conclude somehow that this might indicate politics is involved in the interrupted postmidnight excursion.

Fortunately for the reputation of the republic and the peace of mind of its citizens, there are several trustworthy public servants available to deny and such thing. They are especially trustworthy because of their own extensive backgrounds, which enable them to spot a political operative when they see one.

Foremost among these is the head of the Committee to Re-Elect El Presidente, who is a former law partner of el Presidente's election effort in the previous campaign, and former minister of internal security, in which post he had jurisdiction over the Internal Police Bureau. In that assignment, he was a powerful advocate of wiretapping and electronic surveillance at the behest of el Presidente without all the bother of asking for court orders.

On that record, everyone takes assurance from his statement that "there is no place in our campaign or in the electoral process for this type of activity, and we will not permit it nor condone it."

THE CHAIRMAN of the Opposition Party is not satisfied by this statement, however. He demands a thorough investigation of the whole affair, and insists that it "remain open until we know beyond a doubt what organization or individuals were behind this incredible act of political espionage."

The head of the IPB has anticipated him. A spokesman for him announces that "the PB is already investigating ... Their investigative report will be turned over to the criminal division for appropriate action."

Once again, an anxious public considers the source and sighs in relief. The source is a former Loyalist Party legislator, former Loyalist Party candidate for provincial gubernator, national director of field operations for el Presidente's last campaign, and prominent proponent of domestic wiretapping untrammeled by court procedures.

On his record, the populace knows that whatever is uncovered by the PB investigation, the guilty parties will be prosecuted fearlessly, without consideration for politics. This is certain because his predecessor in office already has made it clear such activities have no place in politics.

THAT IS WHERE the farce stands at this writing. The main business at intermission is a lot of adjusting of mustaches and practicing of accents and innocent experssions. You are free to take it from there, or await the final acts to learn who paid the postmidnight intruders and why, and for justice to be done in time for the re-election of el Presidente.

But there is one clue: The head of the Committee to Re-Elect El Presidente noted obliquely that the alleged expert under arrest also has "a number of business clients and interests, and we have no knowledge of these relationships." That is the lifely tip-off, the giveaway to veteran mystery fans.

It was not the butler. It was a "business client or interest," that's who it was, seeking scandal about the Opposition Party to help keep el accommodating Presidente in office, for the innocent reason that he is good for business. In corny spy stories about amateur republics down south, the bad guy turns out to work for the Amalgamated Fruit Co.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By PAT ANGLE

One If By Land, Two If By Sea, But None If By City Council

After attending city council meetings in several cities, it becomes apparent that each council has its own way of dealing with problems.

One also finds that responses of individual councilmen become somewhat predictable, no matter what subject is being discussed.

It is interesting to conjecture how these same officials would have reacted to significant historical events, if they had been in office at the time.

SAY, FOR EXAMPLE, Paul Revere appeared before the Sausalito City Council 196 years ago, seeking approval to ride his horse through town on a matter of urgent business on April 18.

As the scene opens, Planning Director Eric Borgwardt arises to explain the planning commission's action on Revere's request for a variance to make the ride.

Borgwardt: "As you know, the commission considered this request at great length in several meetings and generally favored the variance if certain conditions — of tantamount importance to this city — are met by the applicant. Under the conditions imposed, Mr. Revere must ride only an Arabian horse, make the ride on a Tuesday, donate a piece of his fine silverwork to the city, and buy us Manhattan Island from the Dutch for an open space park."

Councilman Stephen Fraser: "I'm not sure I can support the concept of horses in Sausalito. Where would he park the horse if he decides to stop and view our breathtaking waterfront vistas? I'm unalterably opposed to any parking of horses in the downtown area."

MAYOR ROBIN Sweeny (running her hands through her hair in harassed fashion): "I'm just afraid if we allow this, we'll be opening the door to all kinds of horrible situations. First thing you know, we'll have British soldiers asking if they can ride through town and that radical group over in Philadelphia that's trying to overthrow the government will want to have their convention here. And how will we be able to refuse them permission if we've granted it to Mr. Revere?"

Councilman Earl Dunphy — "Besides, it's dangerous to have horses here. I remember we let two horses go through town back in 1492 — that's when I was first on the council — and one threw a shoe and hit a passerby on the head. Well, the man was so shaken up that he dropped a lighted snuff box on a piece of paper and ... Well, without the quick action of our fine fire department, the whole town could have gone up in flames."

Patrick Henry (a supporter of Revere's in the audience): "Give him liberty to ride, or give him death!"

Dunphy (ignoring outburst): "Anyway, I'm against allowing anyone to conduct a business, even an urgent business, on city street. If we do that, we'll probably have those Indians in again asking if they can hold their tea party in that boat on the waterfront. And you know what our ordinance says about live entertainment ..."

Councilman Sally Stanford: "Dammit, if a man has spent his money to buy a horse and paid taxes on it, he should be able to ride it anywhere he pleases, dammit. Horses are good for business and it's those business taxes that support this city, dammit."

COUNCILMAN EVERT Heynneman, addressing City Atty. Leland Jordan: "What do you think, Lee! Would it create legal complications to grant Mr. Revere's request?"

Jordan: "I think it would be unconstitutional, if we had a constitution, and I don't think the courts would go for it, if we had courts."

Revere, jumping to his feet: "But gentlemen, Mrs. Sweeny, may I please impress on the importance of my mission ..."

Mrs. Sweeny (interrupting and rapping gavel): "I'm sorry, Mr. Revere, but it's our responsibility to act according to the best interests of our city and of our dear voters, I mean residents, including those who are allergic to horses and might complain. We can't let your personal interests conflict with that, sir!"

Housing Authority May Move Office

Plans to move the Marin County Housing Authority's administrative offices out of Marin City to a more central location in the San Rafael area have received tentative approval from the authority board.

According to Keith Kelly, authority deputy director, the board on Wednesday asked its staff to find suitable facilities, obtain approval of the department of housing and urban development, prepare a feasiblity study and report at the board's July 5 meeting.

The request for the move was made by executive director Wallace C. Shepherd and would also affect Marin County Redevelopment Agency Administration which is linked to the housing authority, with both having essentially the same staff, according to Kelly.

The proposal has not yet been presented to the redevelopment agency board.

Certain services connected with the maintenance of 300 public housing units in Marin City would be left in that community, according to the deputy director, but there has been no determination which services would remain.

He said the authority staff decided the move was needed because the current office is too small to contain the entire administrative staff of both agencies. Both boards have agreed that centralized administration is a must. Kelly added that plans to remodel the building to make room for the staff have proved impractical.

According to the deputy director, the staff also believes a more central location is desirable since public housing is spread throughout the county, with some units located as far north as Novato.

In addition, he said plans to obtain land from the Sausalito School District to build a maintenance center in Marin City have apparently fallen through since the school district (which originally received the property from the authority) does not want to release the land at this time.

Coady To Be Installed As Chamber President

Philip Coady, a mutual fund representative, will be installed as president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce at a dinner at 8 p.m. today at the San Marin Club.

Rep. William A. Mailliard, R-San Francisco, ranking Republican member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs and member of congress since 1952, will speak.

Gordon Lee, manager of the Novato office, Western California Telephone Co., will be installed first vice president; Worth (Skip) Fenner Jr., insurance broker, second vice president; and Charles Lewis, manager of the Novato office, Great Western Savings and Loan Association, treasurer.

Coady will succeed Norman E. Dean, who will remain on the chamber board.

The social hour will start at 6:30 p.m.

Discrimination In Singapore

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Males sporting long hair will have to wait at the end of the line at all government offices starting today.

A Home Ministry statement issued Thursday said posters in English, Chinese and Malay will be put up at all government offices with the wordu: "Males with long hair will be attended to last."

It defined long hair into three types: hair falling across the forehead and touching the eyebrows; covering the ears; or reaching below an ordinary shirt collar.

Track, Diving Classes Set In Petaluma Recreation

Track and scuba diving classes will be offered this summer by the Petaluma Recreation Department.

The track program for all ages will be held from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on weekdays at Petaluma Senior High School under the direction of Douglas Johnson of the school faculty. On Fridays participants may join others in track competition at 6 p.m. at California State College, Sonoma.

The six-week scuba diving class will begin Monday with classes on Mondays from 8 to 11 p.m. and Wednesdays from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. The class is open to persons over the age of 12 who are advanced swimmers. Swimming ability tests will be given before persons are registered.

Students must also provide their own regulators, tanks and other equipment. Two ocean dives will be planned under the direction of David Nagle, who is accredited by the National Association of Underwater Instructors.

Plaids Big For The Small Set

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mother's little lamb will turn out in wool for fall, but unlike Mary's pet, the fleece it wears will be patterned.

New fashions for the nursery and kindergarten set follow the overwhelming trend in adult clothes—a mind boggling assortment of plaids, some of them the traditional tartans, others done in a free-for-all play of color including pastels.

Plaids showed in everything from brief smock dresses to bedtime jumpsuit-style pajamas for little girls to toggle coat outerwear and bathrobes just like Dad's for little boys in a Wool Bureau, Inc. fashion show in New York this week. The show was one of a series showing the new ready-to-wear for visiting fashion reporters. The series ends today (Friday).

ONE OF the reasons the wool industry staged the show was to brag about its machine-washable fabrics, to be sold as yard goods in major retail stores this fall. Simplicity Pattern Co. joined in to offer patterns for the clothes, and to cite statistics that about half of all American women sew.

If you want to make the clothes for Dick and Jane, for an opener there was a red and green tartan boy's outfit with knickers and westkit plus a solid green shirt. For the girls, there were tweedy-patterned pants with a multi-colored smock top.

A black and white pleated, checked skirt topped out with a pin-stripe blazer in navy and white. Toddlers' coveralls were in red and navy plaid.

A GROUP of toggle coats for boys were in blanket plaids in orange or blue tones, worn with solid shade slacks.

And for the girl of six, seven or eight "dressing up", the show included an ankle-long skirt with its blue-green tartan cut on the diagonal, the topping a weskit in solid yellow, a shirt in white.

Patterns will offer some things other than plaids, however. One boy's outfit paired an off-white cable knit sweater with brown trousers. A girl's outfit paired the same cable knit, with matching cap and mittens, topping solid red pants.

FOR SMALL cowboys, there was the "Easy Rider" blue jeans jacket and trousers (with elasticized waist), complete with the cowboy hankie tie and mini-Stetson.

4-H Girls Will Go To Washington

Two Marin County 4-H Girls will be delegates to the National Citizenship short course in Washington, D.C., Sunday through July 1.

One of the delegates, Jennie Beckner, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beckner of San Rafael, is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and will attend the University of San Francisco in the fall. The other delegate, Linda Dentkos, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dentkos of Woodacre, will be a junior at Sir Francis Drake High School.

Linda is a member of the San Geronimo Rancheros 4-H Club, and Jennie is a member of the San Rafael 4-H Club. They will be among 83 other California delegates attending the course. Chaperones will be Harry Miller, state 4-H youth specialist at the University of California at Davis, and Mrs. Deanne House, Merced 4-H youth advisor.

While in Washington they will meet with their Congressmen and senators and tour the Capital and participate in citizenship courses. Civic organizations are helping finance the trip.

On their return to Marin, the girls hope to work with all clubs in developing 4-H citizenship activities.

VOWS SAID AT MISSION

A ceremony at Mission San Rafael Arcangel united in marriage Linda May Brigman and Bill Lakes and the couple left on a Hawaiian wedding trip. Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Brigman of San Rafael, and Philip Lakes of Beaver, Ohio, is the bridegroom's father. The couple will live in Albuquerque, N.M., where Bill is stationed with the Air Force.

Lacy Panty Maker Will Shut Doors

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (UPI)—The American Textile Co. plant here will close June 30 because fewer women are wearing lacy undergarments.

J. Arthur Oakland, vice president of the firm which manufactured lace, said the closing was caused by the new trends in women's fashions.

He said 99 per cent of the lace made at the plant was used as trim on women's lingerie.

However, he said, most women are no longer wearing those items because of the shift in style to panty hose, hot pants, body suits and pant suits.

About 140 persons will lose their jobs because of the shutdown.

ON THE AGENDA

Novato BPW Members Will Attend Conference In Willits

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Novato will attend a district planning meeting Sunday at Brooktrails Lodge in Willits, according to Rose Marie Mazeres, the club's program coordinator. President Beverly Alberigi and Dorothy G. Krieger, district legislation chairman, will also attend.

Mrs. Krieger will present a legislation kit of valuable information to 26 local BPW clubs in the district, stressing the "why, when and how" to support the state BPW legislation platform.

BPW clubs urged continuing the state's Commission on the Status of Women. This commission, composed of educators, attorneys, senators and assemblymen, studies the problems facing women in the business and financial world.

If the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) is ratified by the State of California and the 27th Constitutional Amendment is in force, two years after 38 states ratify it, some of the problems facing women today will be solved, Mrs. Krieger said.

THE ANTIQUE study group of the Novaot Novato Club will visit Charlene Weber's Doll Museum in Bodega on Wednesday. Members will also have a potluck lunch at the oceanside museum.

Car pools will be formed at the Novato Fair Shopping Center at 9:30 a.m. Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Edward Garland and Richard Long.

PACIFIC DAY School is having its annual rummage sale to raise scholarship funds tomorrow and Sunday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the school, 40 Shell Road in Mill Valley.

Items for sale will be furniture, lamps, children's clothing, bric-a-brac and home baked items.

Proceeds will be used for ORT's educational programs.

QUESTION MARKS Square Dance Club of Santa Rosa is having a hoedown at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at Cotati Women's Club Hall in Cotati.

Bill Peters will be guest caller.

Mrs. Hayes Was First 'First Lady'

Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes was the first President's wife to be referred to as the "First Lady." The reference was made by a Washington, D.C., correspondent reporting the inauguration of President Hayes in 1877.

The title gained popular acceptance when Charles Nirdlin wrote a play in 1911 about Dolly Madison which he called "First Lady of the Land."

Job Equality: Women Carry On The Fight

By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — It becomes increasingly apparent that women really mean business in their fight for equal employment. The impact of the feminist movement on corporations, conglomerates, and companies is making itself felt as the weapon shifts from rhetoric to the law.

A two-day conference called "Equal Opportunity for Women: Corporate Affirmative Action Programs" was recently held here under the sponsorship of Urban Research Corp. of Chicago, in cooperation with Atlantic Richfield, Bankers Trust, General Electric Co., International Business Machines, Norton Simon Communications, Inc., and Polaroid. More than 300 company representatives gathered with feminists and members of U.S. government organizations, such as the Equal Opportunity Commission (EEOC) and the Department of Labor.

These disparate groups participated in a marathon session of 29 workshops and speeches by leaders including Aileen Hernandez of San Francisco, "chair-one" of the national advisory board of the National Organization for Women (NOW); Eleanor Holmes Norton, chairman of the New York Commission on Human Rights; Gloria Steinem, editor of MS magazine; and David Mahoney, president of Norton Simon, Inc., which publishes McCall's magazine.

THE CONFERENCE focused on a legislative landmark known as Revised Order 4, which took effect April 3 and is likely to prove a key piece of feminist legislation in the 1970s.

It requires federal government contractors and subcontractors with 50 or more employees and contracts of $50,000 or more to "take affirmative action wherever necessary to remedy the effects of past discrimination or to counteract discriminatory barriers to equal employment opportuniyt," according to Department of Labor, which is responsible for enforcing nondiscrimination through the Office of Federal Contract Compliance (OFCC).

The significance of his law is that it strikes directly at so many major corporations and makes of the women's liberation movement a concrete threat to the male-dominated power structure.

Legislation trailblazers leading to Revised Order 4 were the Equal Pay Act of 1963 and Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Under the former, approximately $42 million in "back pay" has been rendered 102,000 employees (mostly women) who suffered wage discrimination.

TITLE VII pertains to discriminatory practices in hiring and promoting and is administered by EEOC. It applies to a common excuse used by employers for not placing women in certain types of physical labor deemed too strenuous by state protective laws. There is a bona fide occupational qualification written into Title VII to exempt jobs that cannot be done by all or substantially all women, but these are becoming increasingly rare. Actors, actresses, and models are among the few exceptions.

This year's events, which include passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, have contributed to the climate of change and confusion in the business world. There are signs that an increasing number of cases will be brought to the courts. Certainly the most awesome on the books at this moment involves American Telephone and Telegraph described in a 3,000-page EEOC report as "wtihout doubt the largest oppressor of women in the United States." Even universities that receive government funding are affected. Columbia's affirmative action program has been rejected three times in the past two years.

Among the reforms confronting management are the active recruitment of women, the improvement of their "upward mobility," the reformulation of sexist job descriptions, the consideration of pregnancy like a disability, the possible installation of child-care centers, and the restructuring of work to include part-time employment for both men and women.

A FURTHER complicating factor is that these same companies also are compelled to implement similar reforms for minority groups, which may be competing with women for jobs. Moreover, the question whether companies should count black women as women or blacks when trying to meet their compliance requirements was a major source of befuddlement to many of the men.

Inevitably a certain resentment surfaced. A common, though cautiously voiced complaint was that there simply are not women available to fill positions in traditionally male professions such as engineering. That the supply of women cannot yet meet the demand is a factor which OFCC undoubtedly will take into consideration.

But feminists hold that the initiative must come from business, for high school and college women will only begin specializing in insurance, law, business and engineering if companies are willing to hire them. Some firms already have approached women's colleges to recruit and encourage study in their fields.

THE EFFECTS of equal employment legislation do not confine themselves to the professions. Would-be women blue-collar workers will benefit as well. Maizie Fulston, of the joint apprenticeship program in New York City, states that the abolition of discriminatory practices and "protective" laws now make women eligible for craft jobs such as carpentry, plumbing, and construction despite the resistance of unions.

To illustrate that these high-paying jobs are not too arduous for women, Mrs. Fulston cited the example of a woman who is now working for Consolidated Edison as a general utilities mechanic, lugging around a 90-pound jackhammer to dig up the streets.

Women are not likely to be welcomed with open arms in the male job market. Although the proportion of working women rose from one-third to one-half between 1955 and 1970, their median income dropped. One explanation is that the jobs being created for women are primarily of a clerical, traditionally "feminine" (and therefore low-paying) nature. Moreover, President Nixon's economic adviser, Dr. Herbert Stein, cited the entry of more women into the job market as a factor in the high unemployment rate. If true, this is hardly likely to ingratiate women with either white or black men who construe their need for a job as greater than that of a woman.

THE CONSENSUS seems to be that the jobs worth going after are men's jobs and that chances are good of getting them. In a recent survey of National Personnel Associates, a national network of more than 150 independent employment agencies, Angela Greene of Miller-Greene Associates in New York reported that she can't find enough women for the jobs she has open for internal auditors, chemists, and lab technicians.

MRS. ALFRED L. WEST III
(Mary Ann Manewal)

San Anselmo Man Weds In St. Louis

Mary Ann Manewal became the bride of Alfred Llewellyn West III of San Anselmo in a ceremony at the Church of Immaculata in St. Louis, Mo., on Saturday.

Maid of honor for the bride was Alfred's sister, Pamela West of San Anselmo. The bridesmaids were the bride's two sisters, Susan and Lucia Manewal of St. Louis, and Lynn Caverly of Los Angeles.

Richard Manewal of New York City, the bride's brother, served as best man. The ushers were Douglas Lambert of Santa Clara, Michael Riordan of Los Angeles, George Vournas of St. Louis, and John and Stephen Percy of St. Louis. Rev. David Schofield of St. Columba's Episcopal Church in Incrness assisted with the ceremony.

The couple will live in Redwood City.

Alfred is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. West Jr. of San Anselmo. He graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and University of Santa Clara. He is employed with Factory Insurance Association in San Francisco.

Herbert J. Moore of Kentfield is his grandfather.

Some Facts On Runaways Across Nation

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — This year, an estimated 500,000 to 1,000,000 young people — more than half of them girls — will run away from home, reports the June issue of Seventeen Magazine. Increasingly they will be from middle and upper-class families.

Many of the runaways will suffer robbery, sex abuse, hunger, illness, drug involvement, arrest and other hazards of street life and hand-to-mouth hustling. But the lucky ones will find shelter in one of the hip, informal havens springing up all over the country in houses, churches, apartment buildings and storefronts.

Ranging from San Francisco's Huckleberry House to Boston's Bridge Over Troubled Waters, these are privately financed facilities where runaways are free to come and go as they please and where, with the help of young volunteers and paid staff members, they can try to resolve the conflicts that caused them to flee from home.

While the majority of clients at these new runaway centers eventually return home (as do most runaways), some must find other places to live, report writers Charles and Bonnie Remsberg. If parents will not accept their runaways back, or the home environment is too physically or psychologically threatening, the centers try to find married couples willing to take on a foster child.

Men's Shoe Heels Will Get Higher

Men's shoe heels will continue the upward trend first surfacing last year. For the fall and winter season ahead, the pacesetting heel height will be 3½ inches.

Only the brave will wear them? Or the daring? Three and one-half inches, in case you care to know, is about high-high for a woman's shoe. 'Spikes!

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Some Of The Better Reader Responses To Two Letters

DEAR READERS:

The two letters which brought most response recently were those written by "Angry at Selfish Women's Libbers" and "Afraid to Chance It" — asking if there was any hope for marriage, and if so, what.

Here are some of the better answers:

DEAR HELEN:

The person who signed herself "Angry at Selfish Women's Libbers" wondered why these women added another problem when the world already has more than its share to solve. The answer should be obvious to anyone who is aware of the power structure of our society.

The average person has next to no power alone or in small groups — whether they work for better social services, housing, waste disposal or peace. This, because those in power, the vast majority of whom are men, are unresponsive unless there is some material and immediate profit to be gained by change.

While women are in the majority numerically, they are almost non-existent when it comes to power or policy-making. Therefore their voices at present are pretty weak.

I don't think our society will be magically transformed into an idealistic Utopia once women are proportionately represented. However, I do believe that women have tended to be more cognizant of human values than have men. I certainly think they would do no worse, and that their basic human rights are being violated by exclusion from these positions.

Women have ever been in the forefront of the fights for the handicapped, better health care, conservation, peace and human rights. That their impact has been so small in relation to the overwhelming problems they face is, in my opinion, due to their "second class citizen" rating. Until women's liberation lets them realize their power, they can't adequately help solve those other world problems. —MS. E.B.N.

DEAR HELEN:

First women wanted the vote, and they got it. Now we want to be voted for, because we are needed in politics, if it's "selfish" to work for our rightful place in society so that we can help to better society, then I am a — SELFISH WOMEN'S LIBBER

DEAR HELEN:

"Afraid to Chance It" asks for a formula for success in marriage. I believe formulas for success in any area of life are unobtainable. They are as personal and individual as fingerprints. Otherwise where the stimulus for the imagination or the challenges?

But if "love" is the key to marriage, then I feel selfishness is the key to divorce. And these modern "non-marriages," "week-end marriages" and "group marriages" have an air of selfishness about them.It's more "What's in it for me?" than "What can I offer?" I've enjoyed 11 years of awareness of my mate's complete fulfillment, as well as my own, but I know my license doesn't carry a guarantee. We both use a lot of TLC to keep the motor running. — TRIED IT AND LIKE IT

DEAR HELEN:

In our modern, two-career marriage, we're friends and equals as well as lovers. We share the housework, the raising of our children. We discuss our jobs, the home, the world and our kids with equal vigor — and the children join in. We have mutual respect for one another, and few jealousies. Our "freedom" holds us together.

My husband knows about the other men in my life. We told each other most of our so-called secrets before we were married — this i part of our honesty, and we haven't mentioned them since.

Is my husband embarrassed when friends find him mopping the kitchen? No more than I am embarrassed when they see me putting up the storm windows or waxing his car. This isn't a "his-hers" household — but "ours." — HAPPY MODERN

How To Avoid Those Foreign Travel Bugs

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Ten recommendations for advance planning that can be helpful in avoiding physical discomfort or health problems while traveling abroad, especially to senior citizens, have been prepared by Dr. Albert H. Domm, medical director of an insurance company.

Dr. Domm, an experienced world traveler, said that arrangements made in advance with airlines and the family physician can eliminate most potential travel hazards and discomforts for older persons.

His recommendations start with the simple item of packing. He suggests that travelers should not pack luggage so heavy that they cannot easily lift it.

"Hurrying from point to point with overly heavy luggage should be avoided," he said. "Frequently you may have to carry it yourself, risking various types of strains.

"Use caution in boarding planes, trains and busses. When on a plane, keep your seat belt fastened. You can encounter unexpected turbulence even in the clearest weather.

"IF YOU NEED special accommodations on the plane, check well in advance with the airline's customer service department or tour manager."

Dr. Domm said that despite the comments of the average traveler, it is not necessary or advisable to gain weight while traveling.

"If necessary, you can arrange special diets with airlines and hotels," he said.

As for foreign foods, taste them, but don't overeat, he cautions. To this he adds a similar caution about drinking alcoholic beverages.

"Avoid excesses while traveling, just as you should do at home," he said.

Under the heading of fruits, vegetables and water, Dr. Domm recommends staying with the provisions of the airlines and hotels.

"Eating fruit off a vendor's stand is courting disaster," he said. "You are about as safe as playing Russian roulette.

"Water in most well traveled countries can generally be depended upon, especially in your hotel. However, if you leave the beaten path, don't drink water unless it's boiled or treated with purification tablets."

SENIOR CITIZENS who are normally on some type of medication should see their family physician about several important items, according to Dr. Domm. Even though it may not be required, he suggests immunization against small pox, typhoid and tetanus. In some cases the traveler will want shots for yellow fever and other rare diseases.

Another recommendation is that a goodly supply of regular medications be taken along as well as cold pills, antibiotics and something suggested by the family physician for indigestion, motion sickness and diarrhea.

ON BEING BLACK

'Write On' Says The Columnist

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Receiving mail is always an engaging, if not slightly suspenseful, experience. You never know if it's a warm note from an elderly relative, a letter from your best friend who has expatriated and is having some second thoughts about the act, colorful campaign literature or an overdue bill.

Being a columnist — a black columnist, particularly — and often dealing with the ever emotional racial issue, the mail can be tremendously moving, figuratively as well as physically.

From the mailbox:

The National Socialist White People's Party sends two "Back to Africa" boat tickets, via the Coon-ard lines. Each ticket entitles one nigger to: (1) Free trip to Africa on luxury liner — boat is shaped like Cadillac with fins. (2) NAACP members may sit up front. (3) Barrel of axle grease for hair — delicately scented with nigger sweat. (4) Framed picture of Eleanor Roosevelt and Harry Golden. (5) Twist to Martin Luther Coon's jazz band. (6) Chicken coop and watermelon patch on deck — left unguarded at night. (7) Plenty of wine, marijuana, heroin and other refreshments.

FROM WASHINGTON: "Your column sometimes entertains me, frequently informs me and often disturbs me. Your column moves me to feel things and think thoughts that I might not otherwise experience. Thank you."

From Los Angeles: "When I read of the crimes on our streets and then read your column about nigger hostesses, it makes my blood boil. Concentration camps are the only solution to this country's nigger problem!"

From Pennsylvania: "Sometimes I almost gag on 'Haggerty' as she attempts to tell it. But I do continue to read. That, after all, may be the best test. However, I must tell you that I did enjoy 'Wheels Is Wheels.' I have renamed my new Oldsmobile — Olds WCB — that means Oldsmobile with coupon book."

From Washington: "You are, without a doubt, the worst racist writing for the American press today!"

From Sid Smith: A copy of his new book, "A Stoned Nigger and Turned Out." Most blacks will recognize Travis Lacey, main man in the book. His adventures, unfortunately, are terribly familiar to inner-city dwellers.

From Texas: "Just a note to ask for the phone number of that beautiful black prostitute you wrote about recently. Please send to my office address. Thanking you in advance . . ."

FROM OREGON: "I'm white, but would like very much to be your sister. We share much in common. I, too, have three young daughters and a 'live-in coach'!"

From California: "How dare you say such things about the nursing profession! If ever there was a profession whose ethics are beyond reproach . . ."

From Illinois: "Please do not print my name as I cannot afford to lose my job, but I am an LVN and would like to tell you about some of the attitudes and actions that exist among the nurses I work with . . ."

From Wisconsin: "Everything you write about has already been done over and over again. I'm canceling my subscription to this rag!"

From Sandra Haggerty: Write on readers!

Vows Are Repeated At St. Edward's

Wednesday evening nuptials at St. Edward the Confessor Church in San Francisco was the setting for the wedding of Sharon Clarke Smith of San Francisco and Edward (Jed) Dickinson Bullard of San Francisco.

Mrs. Peter Working and Janet Cooley were the honor attendants. The bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister, Elizabeth Bullard, and Tulika Kuchins and Sheila Moore.

Carlyle Black served as best man, and the ushers were Brian Bullard, Jed's brother; Dane Durham, Paul Erickson, Layne Lisser, Theodore Marconi, Michael Milwee and Ramsay Wiesenfeld.

Assisting the priest was Rev. Harold Hallett of St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ward Miller Smith of San Francisco and the late Mr. Smith. She is a graduate of Santa Catalina School for Girls in Monterey and the University of California where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. She made her bow at the Cotillion in 1968 and has been a member of the Spinsters.

Jed is the son of Mrs. Edward Wheatley Bullard of Ross and the late Mr. Bullard. He is a graduate of Redwood High School and the University of California and is employed with the E. D. Bullard Co. in Sausalito. He is the grandson of Mrs. Edward W. Bullard Jr. and the brother of Elizabeth and Brian Bullard and Mrs. Anthony Turrietta.

The wedding reception was held at the Bohemian Club in San Francisco. After a short Northern California wedding trip the couple will live in San Francisco. They plan a European trip in September.

Assistance Guild Of Marin Elects Officers

Mrs. Herbert Arthur Crocker of San Rafael, a charter member of the Assistance Guild of Marin County, has been elected president for the coming club year.

The guild's project is the assistance of Marin County drug abuse programs.

"Our organization is a branch of the National Assistance League and our purpose is to assist with services tailored to the urgent needs of the community in which the chapter operates," Lilli Crocker explained.

Members serve drug rehabilitation centers, Center Point and Marin Open House, both financially by providing them with meals and companionship. Mrs. Crocker said that members are hoping to expand the drug prevention services by showing educational films about the abuse of drugs to junior high school students.

"With true information and perhaps a former addict to answer the pupils' questions about drugs, we hope to keep children from starting a drug habit," she said.

Fund raising plans are to open a thrift shop, sponsor a performance of the Ross Valley Players and repeat last year's successful wine tasting party.

Women of any age who are willing to give service are eligible to join.

Mrs. Crocker was born and educated in Denmark. She attended private schools and the University of Copenhagen. She is also a member of the Supreme Lodge of the Danish Sisterhood of America and is active with the San Francisco Bay Girl Scouts and the Volunteer Transportation Corps of the American Cancer Society. She has lived in Marin for seven years.

The wife of a San Rafael business man, Mrs. Crocker has a daughter, Anette Eir, 14, and three step-children, Arthur, Kathy and Diane Crocker.

Mrs. Crocker enjoys poetry, music and art.

"My talent is not in creating any of these beautiful things but in the art of enjoying them," Mrs. Crocker said. "I collect paints with my husband for ourselves and for the public because we select the art works for the Crocker Galleries."

Other hobbies of the new president are swimming, golf and hiking, and she said she has been riding a bicycle for so long she will probably continue until she is 80. She also enjoys traveling, growing flowers in containers, her fish, cats and German Shepherd dog and studying occultism.

New Ruling On Aspirin Sales

Aspirin must be sold in child-proof containers beginning Aug. 15 under a ruling by the Food and Drug Administration.

According to the FDA, aspirin is the leading cause of poisoning of children under 5 years of age.

Containers must be unopenable by 85 per cent of a testing group of 200 children under 5. Packages not meeting the standard must bear the warning, "This package for households without young children."

New Look In Wall Accessories

Tip To Travelers

Some of National Family Opinion's 100,000 homemaker consultants agree that the following tip will make your vacation by car less hectic: take along a 12-pocket shoe bag and hang it on the back of the front seat. It can hold maps, newspapers, washcloths, towels, soaps, fruits and snacks.

Dennis L. Matzen Is Betrothed To Camilla Harris

The engagement of Camilla Harris and Dennis L. Matzen, both of Petaluma, has been announced. The couple plans to be married next year.

Camilla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harris of Petaluma, is a senior at Petaluma High School. She is the sister of Alfred, Annetta and David Harris of Petaluma.

Dennis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Matzen of Petaluma and the twin brother of Diane Fuller. He is also the brother of Norman Matzen of San Jose and Harold Matzen of Petaluma. He is a Petaluma High School graduate and is serving with the Air Force in Mississippi.

Club Leaders To Attend San Francisco Meeting

Presidents and chairmen from Marin clubs will join those from San Francisco and San Mateo counties for the Golden Gate District, California Federation of Women's Clubs for a summer conference June 30.

The group will meet at DiMaggio's restaurant at Fisherman's Wharf at 10 a.m. for workshops, a noon luncheon and conference and convention reports.

Mrs. Walter C. Thomson of Sausalito, is the district recording secretary. Mrs. Arthur Luchetti of San Francisco, formerly of Corte Madera will lead a workshop on finance. Mrs. Luchetti is the state director of finance for the federation. Other workshops will cover press, amenities and leadership.

Mrs. John D. Atkinson, new president of Golden Gate District, will introduce the newly elected president of the Marin, San Mateo and San Francisco clubs, She will also discuss fall activities planned by the district.

SHOWCASE FOR LOOT — A San Anselmo woman searches for her stolen radio while police talk to other burglary victims. They were seeking their belongings yesterday among more than $60,000 worth of burglary loot found in the home of David Richard Massagli, who was arrested on a burglary charge Monday. In addition to the miscellany of air conditioners, tools and appliances in the main display room, other rooms contained jewelry, cameras, books and rock collections. The display will continue through tomorrow so victims can identify property.

A 'THIEF'S MARKET'

Hub Residents Recover Articles

By JEFF GREER

A three-day "thief's market" staged by the San Anselmo Police Department is doing a thriving business in an old bank building at 323 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near the Hub. It will continue through 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Nearly 100 residents from the Morningside Court area of northern San Anselmo browsed yesterday among an estimated $60,000 to $70,000 in loot on display, looking for their own belongings.

The strange hoard, apparently collected during more than 50 burglaries since 1968, was found Monday in the home of David Richard Massagli, 33, of 23 Brookside Drive.

Massagli, free on $2,500 bail, has been ordered to appear Aug. 1 in Marin Municipal Court for preliminary hearing on a single count of burglary and one of obstructing an officer. Police said they are certain he was responsible for scores of nighttime thefts in a 10-block radius around his home. Massagli denied the accusation in court at his arraignment Wednesday.

Investigators claim Massagli, who does not drive, hauled the loot to his home with only a wheelbarrow or handtruck. Some of the burglary victims are finding they need pickups or larger trucks to cart their property home.

Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani presided jovially yesterday over the "thief's market," dapper in a bright blue policeman's riot suit. He said that more than 20 residents had recovered their belongings by midafternoon.

"There's my old gun," exclaimed Charles J. Mitten of Mill Valley.

"I used to shoot squirrels in Vermont with this," he said, fondling the ancient .22-caliber rifle.

The rifle, a bulky stereo phonograph, silver tableware, a flute and many other items were identified as stolen in January from the home of Mitten's in-laws, the William B. Allens of 30 Broadmoore Avenue, San Anselmo.

Ironically, police arrested Massagli before dawn Monday, hiding in the kitchen of the same home, apparently on a return visit. He had gathered a box of foodstuffs, police said.

Allen died in February, and the home was later rented.

Other browsers looked askance at a plastic bag containing marijuana and peyote, found in Massagli's house. Investigators said it also was loot and that there was no evidence Massagli experimented with drugs.

"Naturally, nobody reported this stuff was stolen," one officer said, laughing.

Dr. Gordon L. Chan, College of Marin biologist, and his wife were among the busiest visitors to the police display. They made two pickup-truck trips to recover a television set, boxes of books, fossils, seashells, rock and coin collections and other belongings. Chan said that a freezer full of frozen food taken from his home and camper also was found at the Massagli residence.

Visitors repeatedly said "I just can't understand it," or "it's weird," as they inspected the rows of television sets, power mowers, radios, cameras and handtools arrayed on the floor and shelves. Many said they found it unbelievable that the thief never sold any of the loot.

Investigators uncovered San Francisco police records indicating that Massagli was arrested for petty theft and a battle with a police officer in the Richmond District in 1963, before he moved to San Anselmo.

His mother, who lives in the Brookside Drive home with Massagli, works in a San Francisco hospital. He is unemployed.

Officers said they encountered more than two dozen cats while combing the Massagli home for loot. Cats and stolen goods were found in every room.

While Police Inspector Bernard Del Santo was arranging the display Wednesday in the rented building, a waggish neighborhood businessman sneaked up and posted a large sign outside the door that drew an early crowd of visitors.

After Del Santo and other officers had to shoo a number of early-bird "customers" away, they discovered the sign, which read:

"Del Santo's Flea Market."

By LARRY MOWELL

Una Mettam insisted today in Marin Superior Court that her effort to hire a man to kill her husband was all a joke begun by a friend of hers.

Under cross-examination by Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino, the 42-year-old former accounting clerk at San Quentin continually told the jury that she thought the whole thing was a joke and did not know why she was being arrested when sheriff's officers picked up her Jan. 14.

Under direct examination yesterday she said John A. Pedroli, a San Rafael mechanic, had given her the name of Marino Guerra, who operates anservice station in Ignacio, as a possible executioner.

She quoted Pedroli as saying "tell him I sent you, you'll get it at cost."

Pedroli, a prosecution witness, has denied he made the suggestion.

Mrs. Mettam said she and a friend, San Quentin Correctional Sgt. Stan Laffsa, often kidded Pedroli about possible Mafia connections because of his Italian name and she thought his suggestion to see Marino Guerra in Ignacio was also a joke.

"I think it was a joke because of the way he said it to me.", she said. "Because we had kidded about it so much I never thought it was anything but a joke."

She said she went along with the "joke" by asking Guerra to set up an auto accident for her estranged husband, a San Francisco cab driver. She admitted following that up by delivering a picture of her husband and his daily schedule.

She said she did it "because I didn't want to let Johnny down. He evidently planned this little joke on me and I'd never do anything to hurt him."

She said she was unsure whether Laffsa knew about the joke and Laffsa said yesterday he knew nothing about it. He did say the Mafia joke was common and the three often joked about doing away with Frank Mettam as well as Laffsa's ex-wife.

Sheriff's Inspector Harry E. Bock, who made the arrest, also said yesterday that she claimed the whole thing was a joke when she was arrested.

Duplex Plans Win Approval

Plans for five duplexes were approved last night by the Cotati Planning Commission.

Developer Lyle White agreed to conform to requirements for more landscaping for the apartments at Sierra and Valparaiso avenues.

In other business, the commission approved the request of Reliance Trailer Manufacturing for a new building for repairs and sales on the westside of Highway 101 on Laguna De Santa Rosa.

Mill Valley Tax Rate Could Drop

By JAY GOODWIN

To its surprise, the Mill Valley City Council last night learned that an unexpected increase in the city's assessed valuation makes possible a drop in the proposed tax rate without cutting the 1972-1973 budget.

According to Mayor Jean S. Barnard, the assessed value of property was increased by the county assessor's office by 9 per cent this year, rather than 2 per cent. The increased assessment makes possible a reduction in the city's present tax rate of $2.88 per $100 assessed valuation.

The revelation split the council on what should be done with the unexpected revenue.

Mrs. Barnard, Councilmen Edward J. Boessenecker and Robert E. Capron called for a drop in the tax rate, if such a reduction could be accomplished without a drop in total city revenues.

Councilman Robert E. Burton opposed a reduction in the tax rate, saying; "There are crying needs in this city. To talk about reducing our rate when we've never had enough money to do anything, just doesn't make any sense."

Burton told the Independent-Journal today that he favors a fixed tax rate of $3, which would enable the city to accumulate enough money to fund unexpected expenses.

Mrs. Barnard, disagreeing, said, "If the increased assessment came from a broadened tax base — like new industry — we could enjoy the windfall. But since it comes from the increase in valuation of our own residents homes, we must adjust the tax rate downwards to compensate."

The council instructed City Mgr. William H. Cunningham to supply them with revised figures, based on the recent assessments, by its next budget session Tuesday.

Moving to other accounts, the council approved the budget for community promotion, after adding $100 for the city's art commission. The $4,900 total for community promotion included the controversial expenditure of $3,500 for the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The council also approved the expenditure of all remaining funds from the June 1971 sewer bond issue. After reviewing proposed sewer projects on hand, the council determined that it would need to raise an additional $75,000 to cover construction costs.

According to Mrs. Barnard, a sewer service charge will be considered by the council as a means to raise the necessary funds.

Reviewing the city engineering budget, the council rejected — for the third year in a row — a proposal to establish an engineering department in the city. Instead, the council approved a budget of $11,100 to hire Stanley M. Bala, as a part-time engineering consultant.

In Wednesday night's review session the council tentatively agreed to hire three new city employees, including an associate planner, a groundskeeper and a recreation supervisor.

Cunningham said employment of the planner will increase the city's planning department staff to five employees and add $9,000 to the planning budget for nine months of salary, since recruitment will take three months.

The council also agreed to spend $15,000 for a consultant to develop a master plan for the city.

No salaries were established for the proposed groundskeeper or recreation supervisors which will both be included in the city's parks and recreation budget, according to Cunningham.

The council also agreed to add $14,870 to the library budget, bringing that proposed spending program to approximately $160,500. Those funds were added, Cunningham said, because the library board (which he said has much autonomy in budget matters) had provided salaries for only 11 months for library employees during the current year and spent the money originally budgeted last year for the 12th month for other purposes.

Accord On Security Cutback

Marin's judges huddled yesterday with the sheriff to discuss the effects of cutbacks in security at the Hall of Justice and decided to give relaxed security a chance, according to one superior court judge.

Judge E. Warren McGuire said his colleagues laid to rest — at least temporarily — their thinly veiled threat to restore by court order the existing network of guards and electronic devices if the Marin County Board of Supervisors dropped protection from the budget.

He said Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos described what security will remain as a result of the board's compromise with the judges and the judges were satisfied to give it a try.

On the previous day, McGuire had warned supervisors that the judges have "inherent rights" to provide security for their courts and, with his colleagues, urged continued tight security for the next six months until the San Quentin Six case is finished.

Supervisors complained of the cost and violation of civil liberties inherent in the search procedure, but finally compromised.

They cut checkpoints and searches at entrances to the Civic Center complex and reduced the security force by 11 of its 26 deputies, but said full security can be restored for "sensitive trials" like the one scheduled for six San Quentin inmates charged with murder during an escape attempt at the prison last year.

McGuire warned that if the relaxed system doesn't work, the judges could still order the existing system restored.

Topic Of Talk

Star Observers of Marin will hear a talk called "Black Holes in the Sky" on Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. building, Second and Brooks streets, San Rafael. The speaker is Kevin Lesko a junior instructor at Redwood High School.

Brusatori Says Quentin Guard's Gunfire Story Unfounded

A San Quentin guard's story of exchanging gunfire with a man on Lincoln Avenue early yesterday was unfounded, San Rafael Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori said today.

Brusatori said his investigators are conferring with the district attorney's office over possible prosecution of the guard, Ronald Gordon Brown, 30, either for discharging a firearm within city limits or for giving a false report.

A flurry of gunfire in the 1700 block of Lincoln Avenue awakened neighbors at 2:40 a.m. Brown told San Rafael police that he had been driving home from duty at the prison, when he saw a man fire two shots at him from the driveway of the Colonial Motel at 1735 Lincoln Avenue, then flee. Brown said he took a semiautomatic pistol from beneath his car seat and fired nine shots in return.

Police were unable to find any trace of an assailant or evidence that Brown had been shot at, and the guard then changed his story, Brusatori said today. The chief said the guard, on the pretext of having been shot at, emptied his own weapon into the air on Lincoln Avenue to reinforce his request for a permit to carry a concealed weapon.

Brusatori said police files indicated that Brown was involved in a rifle episode on the roof of a Lincoln Avenue apartment building before dawn on July 9, 1971. Police responding to neighbors' complaints of firecrackers or gunshots ordered Brown off the roof. He complied, and officers then found a rifle he had left on the roof.

The report said Brown at the time told officers he had been having trouble with ex-convicts living in the building.

San Quentin authorities will review the police reports on yesterday's episode to determine if any disciplinary action will be taken against Brown, according to Joseph R. O'Brien, prison information officer.

Postal Safety

LONDON (UPI) —Britain's government-owned post office says its 430,000 employees worked so safely in 1971 there was only one accident leading to time off for every 100,000 hours of work.

North All-Stars Edge South Nine At Albert Park

By LEW CODDINGTON

The people living near B Street in San Rafael were no doubt baffled last night to see a bunch of guys wandering around in baseball suits at 11:30 — but they weren't anywhere near as baffled as the guys themselves.

Those 27 individuals had just completed a mind-boggling exhibition of drama, pathos, comedy and (occasionally) baseball. For the record, the North defeated the South, 2-1, in the third annual Knights of Columbus prep all-star game at Albert Park.

About the only sane thing to transpire all night was the awarding of three $600 college scholarships by the sponsoring K of C. The awards went to Marcia Jewhurst of Novato High School, Mickey Hurley of Marin Catholic and Mark Blaze of Terra Linda.

There were heroics, of course. Marty Moroski of Novato chopped an infield single with one out in the 12th inning to score Gary Burns of San Rafael from second with the winning run. Burns had singled, stolen second and advanced to third on a passed ball.

Moroski was the winning pitcher as well, thus redeeming himself for the transgression of allowing the South to tie the game in the bottom of the ninth, which was supposed to have been the final inning.

John Billings of Drake, the Marin County Athletic League's leading hitter during the season but mired in a wicked 0-for-7 slump in post-season all-star games, singled sharply to right to score Scott Cozza of Marin Catholic with the tying run.

Dirk Gansloser of San Rafael, who hit two singles and a double and scored the North's first run on a triple by Brian Wall of Terra Linda, was named most valuable player by a consensus of the two coaches and the official scorer.

It is possible, however, that the most valuable player was really Don Bianchini, since they re-wrote the rule book for him.

The versatile Marin Catholic ace started at third base, but was removed in the fifth inning so he could warm up to pitch. Bob Brown of Redwood was inserted.

The re-entry rule used during the MCAL season was not in effect for this game, so South coach Dick Creighton of Drake had to do some fast talking to North coach Ron Butori of San Marin to get Bianchini back in. Amazingly, Brown also stayed, and switched spots in the batting order to boot!

Creighton could be excused. He had a roster of only 12 players following the professional signings of Clifford Hall of Tamalpais and Al Curtiss of Drake and the absence of Scott Barrie of Redwood.

As the game went into extra innings, total re-entry was allowed. Thus, North starter Mike Lamb of Novato ended up with a save, and South starter Jim Petray of Marin Catholic lost in relief.

The base running was almost as confusing as the substitutions. In the eighth, South baserunner Pete Arbios of Marin Catholic brushed an infielder trying to play a ground ball,

Cubs' Coaching Move; The Phoebus Curve

CHICAGO — Illness forced Pete Reiser to take a rest last week. So Leo Durocher became his own third base coach. The day after the Cub manager moved from the dugout to the line the Cubs went on a seven-game winning streak, ended Wednesday by the Giants, 4-0.

Of course, the streak of the Cubs was directly attributable to the Reiser-Durocher switch. It would be unthinkable to attribute it to anything else.

Wrigley Field fans have forgiven Durocher minor indiscretions in the past but they'd never forgive him if he rested his 66-year-old legs and the Cub streak suddenly ended Thurs.

The intriguing coincidence of the Cub streak and the Reiser-Durocher switch makes much more interesting reading than the mundane facts behind the streak. Nevertheless, here are the boring details behind the streak. They can be summed up in two words: Tom Phoebus.

In his last 23 relief innings, Phoebus has allowed only one earned run. That was in Candlestick Park June 11 when he faced the Giants for the second time this season.

WHEN PHOEBUS faced them the first time April 18 he still was with the San Diego Padres. Phoebus started that April 18 game and he couldn't control his curve (six walks). When he went to his fast ball, the Giants whacked it and Phoebus was a 5-1 loser.

The day after that loss, the Padres sold Phoebus' contract to the Cubs. Whatever Larry Jansen, ex-Giant pitching coach who now is the Cub pitching coach, taught Phoebus, the stocky 5-8, 190, righthander learned his lessons well. Phoebus now gets the curve over.

PHOEBUS MADE his third appearance of the season Monday in the just concluded Cub-Giant series. That was in the series opener that went 11 innings. He blanked the Giants from the fifth through the ninth on two hits, one walk and four strikeouts.

Phoebus' relief record with the Cubs is most impressive — three earned runs in his last 33 innings. With a stopper like that, the Cubs don't have to rely on superstitious stuff.

Phoebus is a calm performer. He should be, with his experience that includes a 1970 World Series win for the Baltimore Orioles whose pitching rich staff permitted them to trade Phoebus to the Padres in 1971.

When he broke in with the Orioles in 1967 he led the Baltimore staff with a 14-9 record and was named American League Rookie Pitcher of the Year. He made his first major league relief appearance July 2, 1969, following 88 consecutive starts with Baltimore, including a no-hitter against Boston April 27, 1968.

THUS, PHOEBUS could smoothly move into a spot starting assignment for the Cubs if they need a spot starter later in the season when the pennant race in the National League East approaches the sticky stage.

But for the time being, Durocher wouldn't think of putting Phoebus in a Cub starting role. The Lip will be back in the Cub dugout before that happens.

Giants In San Diego Tonight

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Sam McDowell, who admits he's slower but wiser than a few years ago, shoots for his ninth win of the season tonight against the Padres.

The 28-year-old lefthander of the San Francisco Giants opens a three-game series between the cellar-dwelling teams in the National League West.

"I can't throw as hard as I could two years ago," said McDowell, "but I think I'm a smarter pitcher now. I'm trying to throw what the hitters aren't expecting.

McDowell, who will be facing right-hander Steve Arlin, 6-6, tonight in a televised game on Channel 2, at 7:30, also commented on his catcher, Dave Rader. "He didn't know much about calling a game at the start of the season. But he's really come along."

HAMILTON VS. RYAN

A's Host Angels Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) — Losing half a game to the Chicago White Sox because of idleness, the Oakland Athletics swing back into action tonight against the California Angels.

Rookie Dave Hamilton, sporting an unblemished 4-0 record, matches serves with Nolan Ryan (6-5) in the opener. Vida Blue (1-3) of the A's hurls Saturday against Clyde Wright (7-3).

While the A's were enjoying an off day Thursday, the White Sox took the measure of Milwaukee, 5-2, to cut Oakland's lead atop the American League West from four games to 3 1-2 over the runnerup White Sox.

So far on the current homestand, the A's are 5-4. First baseman Mike Epstein of the Athletics gives much of the credit for the A's winning habit to manager Dick Williams.

"It's the little things we do, by Dick's direction, that have us going so good," said Epstein. "If we don't execute properly, we damn well hear about it."

The Athletics announced Thursday they have signed their first draft choice in this year's free agent draft.

Suburban Wins Title

Suburban Auto Repair of San Rafael last night clinched the championship of the San Francisco Spring "A" softball league by defeating Leland of San Francisco, 11-1, behind the one-hit pitching of Joe Nystrom.

MEN'S 35 SINGLES

Tennis Upsets In Mill Valley

There was mist in the air and mystery on the courts yesterday in Mill Valley, and three seeded players will have a full year to think about how they should have solved the latter.

In the National Men's 35 Hardcourt Tennis Championships at the Mill Valley Tennis Club, three seeded players were eliminated from singles competition — including the No. 1 seed, Don Kierbow of Carmichael.

The doubles were more predictable, as all eight top-rated teams won their opening matches. Play in singles and doubles continues through Sunday.

Unseeded Don Gale of Mountain View, seeking to regain the title he won in 1967, sent Kierbow to the sidelines in two steady sets, 7-5, 6-3.

Defending champion Kierbow just got out of the hospital nine days ago, and Gale exploited his physical weakness by using a strategy aimed at making Kierbow run.

Heavy mist and light drizzle in Mill Valley almost forced postponement of the day's matches. Leoncito Collas of Carmel and Jim Nelson wish it had.

The seventh-seeded Collas was elminated by Jerry De Witts of Santa Barbara, 6-4, 6-4, and the eighth-ranked Nelson of Los Angeles was ousted by Fred Hagist of Bakersfield, 6-0, 6-4.

Second-seeded Jim Landin of Littleton, Colo., almost suffered the same fate, but won a tie-breaker in the third set to defeat Gil Rodriguez of Honolulu, 6-3, 4-6, 7-6.

Fourth-seeded Whitney Reed

Striped Bass Creel Census In Summer

By AL GIDDINGS

The Department of Fish and Game sent me a notice that the striped bass creel census will be taken again this summer in the San Francisco-San Pablo Bay area. All weekends and holidays will be check days.

Three weekdays (Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday) will also be checked. The census will begin in late June and extend into November or December. Census clerks will be in field uniform and will be stationed at the following docks: Sausalito (Caruso's), Gashouse Cove, Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco, Berkeley, Rodeo, and Dowvellio's. Both party boats and skiffs will be sampled. In addition, one man will be roving at random. Thanks for your co-operation.

A report recently released by Leo Shapovalov, a senior fisheries biologist and Ron Pelzman, an assistant biologist, both of the Department of Fish and Game reads: Thoughts of trophy sized fish have long stirred the imaginations of fishermen. Many anglers spend countless hours of fishing, often enduring soul-depressing weather and post fishing feminine harassment, with the thought in mind that maybe they'll catch "that big one." Nearly every angler has a story about the big one that got away. What happens when "the big one" doesn't get away? When an angler lands a fish too big for his creel, his thoughts should turn to proper verification, certified scales, and a couple of witnesses. Many fish have not found their way into the record books only because of a lack of such thinking. Too often the angler takes pictures of his catch, or his picture appears in the newspaper, but he does little else. Many large fish are digested before the angler considers the record book.

When an angler takes a large fish he should make every effort to have his catch verified as to species and weight by a fisheries biologist from the Dept. of Fish and Game. Verification can be arranged by contacting one of the department's regional offices (Department of Fish & Game, Region Three, Yountville, Napa County for this area). If a biologist is not immediately available, the angler should (1) weigh the fish on scales certified by the State of California (butcher scales, market scales, bait shop scales, etc.) (2) take at least one clear photograph of the fish, (3) freeze it until a biologist can verify identification.

A good idea, and a requirement for the magazine Field and Stream's annual fishing contest entries is to prepare an affidavit which includes pertinent information as well as signatures of the individuals who witnessed the weighing. The aforementioned contest, and the California Fish and Game Commission's Trophy Award Program are two of the various contests in which fish may be entered. Information on the Commission's Contest may be obtained by writing the California Fish and Game Commission at 1416-9th St., Sacramento.

The present California Inland water records are extremely interesting. The largest rainbow trout (includes steelhead) weighed 23 pounds, 4 ounces, it was caught in the Smith River on January 7, 1971.

A cutthroat trout that weighed 31 pounds, 8 ounces was caught in Lake Tahoe in 1911.

An Eastern brook trout that weighed 9 pounds, 12 ounces was caught in Silver Lake, Mono County in 1932.

The record Golden trout weighed 9 pounds, 8 ounces (dressed). It was caught in Virginia Lake in Fresno County.

The largest Lake Trout weighed 35 pounds, 8 ounces and was caught in Lake Tahoe in 1970.

And the largest carp weighed 52 pounds and was taken from Nacimiento Lake in San Luis Obispo County in 1968.

The sturgeon record was 293 pounds, taken from San Pablo Bay in 1970 by Glen Claypool of Richmond. This record may have been broken this year by a 405-pound sturgeon.

Did you note that many of these records were recently set? There's room for your name even if it's for a bluegill. The record bluegill weighed 2 pounds, 9 ounces and was registered by Willie Mae McKinney of Los Angeles. It came from Middle Legg Lake in Los Angeles.

Federal Commission Opposed By Rozelle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle was scheduled to appear today before the Committee on Commerce of the U.S. Senate, which is holding hearings on the advisability of creating a federal sports commission.

According to an advance text of this statement, Rozelle was to tell the commission that each sport is intrinsically different than the others and "it would simply not be possible to establish rules which could be applied fairly and reasonably to sports in general."

Rozelle also denied that professional sports could be termed "Big Business."

"The reality is that professional sports are, in economic terms, very small business indeed," the text read. "There has not, for example, been a year in the history of pro football when the gross income of all 26 NFL clubs in the aggregate amounted to the gross income of a department store like Woodward and Lothrop's here in Washington.

"I don't want to overdo this point —and I know it is not the total answer to the concept of a federal sports commission—but it is quite likely that professional football, one of the more successful professional sports, ranks somewhere behind the shoelace industry in economic terms."

In discussing the differences among sports, Rozelle said, "In terms of their needs, their income sources, their contract requirements and their business practices, one professional sport bears about as much relationship to another as the movie business does to the television business."

2 Redwood Net Stars Victorious

Henry Jacobson and Dan Tierney, teammates on Redwood High School's dynastic tennis team, may end up fierce rivals on the court if they keep winning.

Each triumphed yesterday in the boys 16 division of the Pacific Coast Junior Championships at the Berkeley Tennis Club. Jacobson trampled Mark Weisbart, 6-2, 6-2, while Tierney chopped up Andy Finn, 6-1, 6-1.

If they keep winning, they'll eventually play each other, something that happened to two Marin girls in the same tournament yesterday.

3 San Rafael Racers Rate In Petaluma

Three drivers from San Rafael and two more from Petaluma are ranked among the top ten point-earners in the modified sportsman automobile racing at Petaluma Speedway.

The San Rafael drivers are Gary Ramsier, fifth with 328 points; Kirk Edison, seventh at 278, and Roy Victor, tenth at 186. Petalumans are Larry Schlee, third and 331, and Fred Helberg, sixth at 312. Bill Brown of Pittsburgh leads with 354 and his son Keith trails at 340.

John Butler of Petaluma ranks second in the stock car standings at 315. Another Petaluman, Al Stack, is fourth at 268. Leader is Conrad Cavallero of Santa Rosa, 330.

The racing season is approximately at its halfway point, and Speedway officials consider the point races the closest in many years.

Netter Gonzalez Disqualified In London Tourney

LONDON (UPI) — American "Pancho" Gonzalez was disqualified today in the men's singles semi-finals of the London Grass Courts tennis championship during his match with Britain's John Aish.

Following an argument with the umpire, service linesman and finally the referee in the sixth game of his second set, Gonzalez picked up his rackets and walked off.

Referee Mrs. Bea Seal said "I have disqualified Gonzalez for refusing to play on." She refused to make further comment.

The Giants and Dodgers Rivalry

By MILTON RICHMAN

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — No man is an island, but in one respect Charley (Chub) Feeney comes close.

He is the only person among all those I spoke with who claims that classic old rivalry between the Giants and Dodgers hasn't lost a thing. He says it's as intense as it ever was back in those days when the clubs operated in New York and Brooklyn.

In those days, Feeney was the Giants' vice president and first assistant to his uncle, Horace Stoneham.

These days he's president of the National League, and league presidents have always made public statements in support of their clubs since time immemorial but Feeney insists that isn't so in this case.

While everybody else agrees the rivalry between the Giants and the Dodgers is like the old gray mare, not anything what it used to be, Feeney goes the other way.

"I don't think anything ever happened to that rivalry. I'd have to say it's within 2 per cent as strong as it has ever been,". he insists.

"That feeling is still there, among the fans and the players," says Feeney. "You still have that tension when the two clubs get together. I mean it. I think people in the East are away from it so they get the idea the rivalry has diminished, but actually it hasn't."

Chub Feeney, feeling the way he does, amounts to something like a minority of one.

The Giants-Dodgers' rivalry, one which sometimes reached epic proportions in both Ebbets Field and the Polo Grounds, certainly doesn't come equipped with all the steam, all the fire, it had before the clubs moved out to California 14 years ago.

For those who like to sit there and soak themselves in nostalgia, the Giants and Dodgers played the first major league game ever on the west coast here in old Seals Stadium, which is a parking lot now, and Ruben Gomez shut out the Dodgers, 8-0, in April of 1958.

Dick O'Connor of tha Palo Alto Times, who covered that ball game that day, says the predominant feeling among the 22,000 fans in the stands that day wasn't so much that they were sitting in on any great rivalry as it was that they still couldn't believe major league baseball had really come to the coast.

Those 22,000 fans in Seals Stadium represented capacity.

To give you some idea of what has happened to the rivalry, only 10,098 showed up in 45,000-capacity Candlestick Park for the last game played between the Giants and Dodgers here three weeks ago.

Among those who has had an opportunity to watch the rivalry diminish first hand is Willie Mays, who played with the Giants both here and in New York. With the Mets now, he can be more objective about the whole thing and he says the fans made the rivalry what it was, not the players.

"The Giants fans in New York and Dodger fans in Brooklyn sort of grew up with the players," Willie points out. "You can't compare them with the fans in San Francisco and in Los Angeles in that sense.

"With those old Giants and Dodger fans, it was blood, and there was no in between at all. As a player you could even sense it when you were out there on the field. Those fans weren't kidding either. I remember one game in which I hit two homers to beat the Dodgers in Brooklyn. It was a night game and when I came out to get my car in the parking lot, it had four flat tires. I wasn't gonna stand around there asking any questions. I just caught a ride home with a friend."

"There was nothing funny about those games, not to me, anyway," he says. "Of course I knew all their guys, Jackie, Campy, Newk, but every time Newcombe pitched he'd knock me down. Then I'd run into him on Seventh Avenue someplace after the game and we'd have a soda together."

Walter O'Malley, the Dodgers' board chairman, thinks the rivalry between his club and the Giants still is "active" although he concedes "we're in a little bit of a valley right now."

"You have to remember," he says, "ours has always been a keen organizational rivalry. When we were in Brooklyn, they were in New York; when we had a club in Fort Worth, they had one in Dallas; when we had one in St. Paul, they had one in Minneapolis. I feel the team going into Oakland (the A's) diluted our rivalry somewhat but I think that possibly may be solved some day. I can remember when the Penn-Cornell football game was a big thing. It isn't so much anymore. Times change, I guess."

Another factor, points out Jim Cone, a baseball fan and a waiter at one of the local restaurants, is the great number of opportunities apart from going out to a ball game available to people in this city.

"Here in San Francisco, we have all manner of water sports to compete with baseball," says Cone. "I'm a golf addict, and we have 50 golf courses within a day's drive so you can pretty much figure out for yourself where I go on my day off. I'm still a Giant fan though. I lived in New York years ago and rooted for them then. I can remember many times in the '30's when I had occasion to 'wait until next year.'"

Of all the observations on the old Dodgers-Giants' rivalry, Willie Mays inevitably comes up with the best one.

GOLF NOTES

Jim Brown Tourney In San Geronimo

Golf and football forces will combine in a fund-raiser at San Geronimo National Golf Club Sunday, July 2, 10 a.m.

At that time, football celebrities will tee off in an 18-hole medal play tournament in a sickle cell anemia benefit called the Jim Brown Charity Golf Tournament.

Former Cleveland Brown great Jim Brown, plus contemporaries like San Francisco 49er receiver Gene Washington and Oakland Raider guard Gene Upshaw are scheduled to play before an audience donating $1 per person.

It was a happy Father's Day for golfer Ray Bright of Corte Madera. He shot a 79-22-57 to win the Father's Day Sweeps golf tourney in Mill Valley by five strokes over Byron Eggleston.

and was called out for interference. In the ninth, the North's Tom Wilson of San Rafael reached first on a throwing error but made a wide turn and was thrown out by the catcher backing up the play.

In the 12th, Bianchini was on third and Marin Catholic's Steve Sherry on second when Drake's Bob Mayer bounced to third. The throw went to first, so Sherry took off for third, but Bianchini didn't budge, and the stunned Sherry had to whirl around and race back to second. He was thrown out and the game, mercifully, ended.

Cedeno's Perfect Night Lifts Astros Over Reds

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

For a young man of 21, Cesar Cedeno finds himself being pushed into some rather heady company.

"He's the best young player I've seen," said Houston Manager Harry Walker Thursday night after Cedeno went 4-for-4 at the plate to carry the Astros to a 9-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

"(Roberto) Clemente was the best player I ever managed," Walker continued, "but this kid figures to do more in his first four years in the majors than Clemente did."

Lee May, who played for Cincinnati last year, agreed that Cedeno could be described as "a young Clemente."

The perfect night at bat lifted Cedeno's average 12 points to .336, good enough to boost him from fourth place all the way to the top of the National League batting race.

In the only other game played in the majors Thursday, Stan Bahnsen and Cy Acosta held Milwaukee to six hits as the Chicago White Sox beat the Brewers, 5-2.

New York at Cleveland in the American League and St. Louis at New York in the National both were postponed because of rain. No other teams were scheduled.

Cedeno scored three of Houston's runs, including one on his eighth home run of the season, and Doug Rader contributed a three-run homer to the Astros' 11-hit attack. Houston broke the game open with a six-run rally in the third inning for an 8-3 lead.

Bahnsen, who has completed only two games this year, held Milwaukee to one run and three hits through eight innings, but was touched for a leadoff homer by Johnny Briggs in the ninth followed by Dave May's single. Acosta then came on to retire the side, allowing one hit.

It was Bahsen's 10th victory against seven losses, and he didn't appear too disturbed about his failure to complete very many of his starts.

President Nixon Interest In Baseball Is Curtailed

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

WASHINGTON — Apparently the relocation of the Senators franchise after 71 years in Washington to Texas has numbed baseball's appeal for President Nixon.

Asked to comment on the Supreme Court's ruling on the Curt Flood case, Nixon said at a news conference Thursday that he was not following baseball closely this year.

"On the baseball matter," Nixon said. "I must say I cannot even tell you who is in first place at the present time because I have not had a chance to check it lately."

Nixon has always been an adamant sports fan, and on occasional visits to watch the old Washington team play would offer advice to manager Ted Williams.

When the Senators were shifted to Arlington, Tex., last fall, Nixon said he would adopt the California Angels as his home club since they were the closest team to the Western White House at San Clemente.

Nixon said he did know who was leading the National League's West Division because he called Houston Mayor Louie Welch to congratulate him on being elected head of the Conference of Mayors.

"He thought I was calling to congratulate him on the Astros being in first place," the president said.

Tennis

LONDON — Although minus ace Stan Smith, the semi-finals of the London Grass Court Tennis Championships will still find three out of four semi-final berths filled by Americans.

Smith, the tall powerful topseed in the tourney was upset Thursday by unheralded John Paish 2-6, 6-3, 10-8 after leading 5-2 in the dramatic final set.

Nonetheless, the U.S. dominated play elsewhere as Pancho Gonzalez, Jim Connors and Clark Graebner all triumphed and advanced to today's semifinals.

Gonzalez defeated Roscoe Tanner of Lockout Mountain, Tenn. 7-5, 6-1, while Graebner upended Australian Colin Dibley 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 and Connors bested Russia's Alex Metreveli 6-8, 6-1, 9-7.

Fort Lauderdale's Chris Evert gained the semi-finals by easily putting away Esme Emanual of South Africa 6-3, 6-0 and American Wightman Cup teammate Wendy Overton also advanced by beating San Diego's Val Ziegenfuss 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Boxing

WASHINGTON — A fight between heavyweights George Foreman and Oscar Bonavena may be held at Washington's Robert F. Kennedy Stadium about Sept. 25 but promoters say they will take it elsewhere if it is not sanctioned as a championship scrap.

Golf

CAPE CORAL, Fla. — The 75th National Collegiate Athletic Association Golf Championships moved into the third round today, with the University of Texas holding a 14-stroke lead over cross-state rival Houston, 561 to 575.

DefendinV9individual champion Ben Crenshaw of Texas had the day's low round at six-under-par 66 to move into second place with a 36-hole total of 137 over the 6,865-yard Cape Coral course behind Tom Kite, who fired a 65 in the first round Wednesday, and carded a 68 Thursday to remain in front by four strokes.

Novato's Ray Leach had a 157 for Brigham Young University and his team failed to make the squad competition cut of 602.

NORTHBROOK, Ill. (UPI) — Jim Jamieson and R. H. Sikes, two guys who know the value of practice, took a one-stroke lead into the second round of the Western Open Golf Tournament today because a little extra work paid off.

Both Jamieson and Sikes, who had been having their problems, returned home for instruction last weekend.

The result was identical three-under-par 688 Thursday that placed them in a tie for the lead on a day when most of the tournament's big names succumbed to unbearably cold winds sweeping across the Sunset Ridge Country Club acreage.

"It was hard to judge shots," said Steve Oppermann, one of three players deadlocked a stroke behind the leaders. "You could hit some good shots and make a bad score."

There were plenty of bad scores, ranging all the way to an 84 by Bob Harris, the club pro, who holds the course record of 64. Billy Casper and Tony Jacklin had 75s, George Archer 76 and Julius Boros 77.

Jamieson and Sikes readily admitted their good scores were due to the teachings of Bob Fry of Davenport, Iowa, and Dutch Harrison of St. Louis, the club pros they consulted before the tournament.

Fry gave Jamieson tips on driving and Harrison gave Sikes a 25-year-old putter he once used. Both worked.

Jamieson missed only three greens in regulation, making three birdies and an eagle in one five-hole stretch, and Sikes had 10 one-putt greens, including five in a row for birdies midway through his round.

"If I ever played a round hitting every fairway, there'd be a senate investigation," kidded Jamieson, who explained Fry got him to concentrate on the tee instead of rushing to "get it over with."

Sikes said his round was "one of the best putting rounds I've had in four years" and that he would continue to use Harrison's old putter.

"He helped me a lot," Sikes said.

Oppermann was deadlocked with Hale Irwin and Tom Weiskopf at 69 while former Masters Champion Charles Coody was in a group of four at one-under-par 70.

There were eight players at par-71 including Ray Floyd, Doug Sanders, J.C. Snead and Lee Elder, and eight more at 72 headed by Bobby Nichols. Napa's Ron Cerrudo is tied with 12 others at 73.

On a day when wind gusts reached 30 miles per hour, both Jamieson and Sikes said they were unaffected.

Jamieson, a winner of $47,603 this year but still looking for his first tournament title, birdied the first, third and fifth holes of his morning round — he had started at No. 10 — and put a four-wood second shot 18 inches from the pin on the 507-yard fourth hole for an eagle.

Sikes, a two-time national public links champion who has earned only $3,523 this year and has not won a tournament since 1966, used only 28 putts. He did not make a par until the 12th hole, having seven birdies, three bogeys and a double bogey until then.

Irwin missed a chance to make it a three-way tie when he took his only bogey of the day on the final hole, dumping his approach shot into a sand trap.

WITH INTERNATIONAL FLAIR

The Top American Swimmers In Santa Clara Invitational

SANTA CLARA (UPI) —Mark Spitz, Gary Hall, Brian Job, Mike Burton, Lynn Vidali and Wendy Fordyce, you name it, and every American star will be in action this weekend against a flock of foreign stars in the Santa Clara International Invitational swim meet.

The action started today with trials in the morning and finals in five men's and five women's events plus the women's one meter diving and the men's three meter diving.

The same format holds for Saturday and Sunday—trials in the morning and finals in the afternoon. There are four swimming events for each group Saturday plus the 10 meter diving and on Sunday the show winds up with five events each plus the women's three meter diving and the men's one meter diving.

Sherman Chavoor of Arden Hills in Carmichael and George Haines of the host Santa Clara Swim Club are particularly anxious to see how America's women stars fare in the last big meet before the Olympic trials in Chicago Aug. 1-6. Chavoor and Haines will coach the U.S. girls at the Munich Olympics later in the summer.

The competition truly is international this year with national teams from New Zealand, Mexico and Colombia in the competition, plus representatives from West Germany, Canada, Sweden, Greece, Peru, Ecuador, the Philippines, Brazil and Venezuela.

Hall, Spitz, Job and Miss Vidali are world record holders at the moment while Burton and Miss Fordyce are fractions of a second away.

Even so, all will have their work cut out for them because the Santa Clara meet includes many young and eager swimmers shooting for recognition and Olympic berths.

"It's this sort of competition that brings out the best in the stars," said Haines, who in his years at Santa Clara has seen and coached enough gold medalists to know what he is talking about. "It's the classic match- up — the proven stars and the ones who'd like to replace them and, in some cases, will. Frankly, I'm very pleased with the kids we have coming up and I think we are going to wind up with an outstanding Olympic team."

American Football Coaches' Game Tomorrow Night In Texas

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—The 1972 football—that's right, football-season opens tomorrow night with one of those all-star games that somehow didn't get played last December.

This one is the 12th annual contest sponsored by the American Football Coaches Association, and opens a season that ends seven months and 300 miles away in Dallas with the Pro Bowl Game.

Kickoff is set for 8:30 p.m. EDT at Jones Stadium on the campus of Texas Tech University. A capacity crowd of 44,000 is expected, and the game will be nationally televised.

Most of the big-name talent is loaded onto the West squad coached by Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma. Fairbanks will have the quarterbacks of last season's top two teams, Jerry Tagge of national champion Nebraska and Jack Mildren of Oklahoma.

The East, under Alabama's Bear Bryant, will answer with quarterbacks Paul Miller of North Carolina, who was not even picked in the pro draft, and little known Joe Gilliam of Tennessee State.

Since most of the talent is run oriented, Bryant figures this game, which has been decided by seven points or less the past three years, will be different from most all-star games.

"I think this game will have much more running than the usual game of this sort," said Bryant, "because both teams have so many good runners."

The bulk of the heavy duty running is expected to be carriej for the West by Jeff Kinney of Nebraska, a No. 1 pick by Kansas City in the draft, and for the East by Johnny Musso of Alabama, a third-round pick by Chicago who has decided to play instead in Canada.

Fairbanks said that he had so much running talent on his club that he will probably use some Wishbone-T offense despite the short training period his team has had.

Health Care Changes In New Plan

Specific recommendations for changes in the way Marin' health care is handled are contained in the preliminary draft of the Marin County Plan for Health, accepted Wednesday by the county's Comprehensive Health Planning Council.

But changes suggested in the plan won't be seen by the public until the draft is translated into language everyone can understand.

Dr. Michael L. Harris, council president, said the county plan draft is being "edited for readability — it was compiled by professionals from the reports of our committees . . . we have to get rid of the jargon."

He said a good working copy of the draft will be circulated in September so that groups and individuals interested in health planning will be ready for public hearings on the plan.

Dr. Harris said the plan "contains specific recommendations for changes in available health care, and suggestions on government approach."

At the council's meeting, recommendations of the Vision Screening Task Force, headed by Ben W. Dial, were accepted. Harris said the council now will try to establish a uniform vision screening program throughout the county.

He said the task force recommends five different vision tests, performed on children in kindergarten, and in grades one, two, four, five and eight.

The resignation of the council's health planning coordinator, Michael Ingerman, was accepted. Ingerman is moving to the Bay Aea Comprehensive Health Planning Council, where he will be responsible for health facilities planning.

The resignations of three directors also were accepted — Mrs. Mary D. Williams, Leonard Shaw and W. Robert Lomax Jr. Dr. Robert Frederickson was elected to the board. The other two vacancies probably will be filled by the council's next meeting, at 7:30 a.m. July 19 at Marin General Hospital, Harris said. The nominating committee will meet July 7.

Rooney Son Indicted On Narcotics Counts

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mickey Rooney Jr., son of the actor, and Catherine Frances Philbin, former wife of television personality Regis Philbin, were indicted Thursday on federal narcotics charges.

Rooney, 27, and Mrs. Philbin, n, 34, were indicted along with Jeffrey Lawrence Brookner, 19, on charges of posessing and distributing cocaine, the U.S. attorney's office said. If convicted they could be fined up to $50,000 each and sentenced to up to 33 years in jail. They were arrested earlier this month.

Bike Racks At Bus Stops Lauded, But...

A proposal to install theft-proof, coin-operated bicycle racks at Golden Gate Bridge District bus stops was enthusiastically endorsed yesterday by the district's transportation committee.

The endorsement, however, was all the committee was willing to give the proposal by a Mill Valley manufacturer of the racks.

Arrangements for their installation should be handled by the Marin County Transit District, not the bridge district, the committee agreed unanimously. Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring argued that it would be a "nightmare" for the bridge district staff to attempt to arrange for installation of the racks.

The difficultq was that the bridge district does not own the land at the bus stops, thus separate leases would be needed at each stop where the racks are placed. The county's transit district was "in the best position" to arrange these leases with the various city governments, he said.

Director Dean N. Meyer said the racks would encourage more commuters to use their bicycles to reach the bus stops. In turn, this will cut traffic and parking congestion at the stops, he said.

The proposal was made by Rally Enterprises of Mill Valley, which said the daily charge for use of a rack probably would be 25 cents. They would be installed as a concession at no cost to the bridge or transit districts.

Edward A. McDevitt of San Francisco, speaking for the firm, said that commuters do not use bicycles to reach bus stops for fear of theft. McDevitt, former San Francisco superintendent of recreation, said the racks would pay for themselves after years of use at 25 cents a day.

The committee voted unanimously a recommendation that the full bridge board refer the proposal to the county transit district. The racks should be provided at "a minimum cost to the public," the committee said.

Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco said 25 cents a day may be too much. He and Meyer suggested the county transit district subsidize the cost to cut the daily fee.

13 Receive Degrees At Golden Gate

Those receiving bachelor's degrees were: Nancy Papps Nichols of 575 Appleberry Drive, San Rafael; George Irvine Robert of 7 Nightingale Lane, San Rafael and Dennis Brand Sabraw of 243 Glen Park, San Rafael.

Those receiving master's degrees were: Hubert Joseph Daniels of 76 Laurier Drive, Novato; Vaughn Ira Elliott of 1426 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael; Reese N. Epstein of 30 Novato Street, San Rafael; David J. Kirby of 110 Country Club Drive, Novato; Julian Earl Olson of 203 El Proado Avenue, San Rafael and Albert James Rios of 1070 Calle Empinado, Novato.

Those receiving degrees in law were: David Vincent Ainsworth of 1635 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo; Conrad David Breece of 141 Woodword Avenue, Sausalito; Kenneth Warren Robinson of 86 San Benito Way, Novato and Robert Van Gutman of 37 Sonora Way, Corte Madera.

Jackie's Aunt To Clean Place

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (UPI)—The aunt and cousin of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis have agreed to correct alleged unsanitary conditions so they won't be evicted from their old 28-room mansion on Long Island.

Edith Bouvier Beale, 76, and her daughter Edith, 54, did not attend the Suffolk County Health Department hearing Wednesday on alleged health code violations in the ramshackle home they have lived in since 1923. They were represented by attorney William J. Vanden Heuvel, a close friend of the Kennedys.

Vanden Heuvel, who was an assistant attorney general under the late Robert Kennedy, promised that "steps will be taken" within a month to clear up the violations.
